JEWS TAKE UP LAND IN UTAH

Interesting Colony is Formed by Group of Philadelphia People.

TO SETTLE ON THE PLUTE PROJECT
Membership is Limited and the Object of the Society is to Teach the People the Wealth that Lies Within the Soil.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Representatives of the Jewish Agricultural and Colonial Association of Philadelphia, who have just closed one of the biggest land deals of the summer in Utah by purchasing 5,000 acres under the Plute Irrigation project, will establish homes during the next few months for 200 to 300 Philadelphia families on this tract. The purchase of this land, which was made on the day the tract was opened by the Commercial Land commissioners, was engineered by Benjamin Brown and L. A. Flax, president and vice president, respectively, of the Philadelphia association, and the land, selling for $25 to $40 an acre, involves approximately $100,000. Negotiations for the sale of this tract, opened by the Commercial Land commissioners, was engineered by Benjamin Brown and L. A. Flax, president and vice president, respectively, of the Philadelphia association, and the land, selling for $25 to $40 an acre, involves approximately $100,000. Negotiations for the sale of this tract, opened by the Commercial Land commissioners, was engineered by Benjamin Brown and L. A. Flax, president and vice president, respectively, of the Philadelphia association, and the land, selling for $25 to $40 an acre, involves approximately $100,000.

on weather and rainfall conditions, soil analysis and engineering reports on the irrigation system which has been constructed under the direction of the State Land board.

The Jewish Agricultural and Colonial Association, which is directed by wealthy and influential Jews of Philadelphia, in connection with the National Farm school, has aroused the interest of factory and shop workers of Philadelphia in the "back-to-the-soil" movement in a systematic manner. The children of hundreds of families have received supplementary educational training at the National Farm school, where agriculture in its various branches is taught, and at the same time the families have been saving systematically and contributing to the funds for the purchase of the colonization tract. Within the next few weeks a party of carpenters, masons, laborers and artisans will be sent to Utah to lay the foundation for the coming of the first 200 families of the colony next spring. By that time a large part of the tract will have been cleared of sagebrush, laterals for the irrigation system constructed and temporary homes erected for the families to follow.

Many Acres Irrigated.
In the Plute Irrigation project the state of Utah has selected in all 10,000 acres of land west of the Sevier river, in Sanpete and Sevier counties. The state reservoir constructed to supply this land will also furnish water for about 15,000 acres of land privately owned under the system. The reservoir will impound approximately 90,000 acre-feet of water on the Sevier river in Plute county and the supply will be ample to furnish at least 25,000 acres of good bench lands, having an altitude from 5,000 to 5,500 feet. The lands are situated on the Sanpete branch of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad and extend through the valley in a north and south direction between the towns of Mant and Richfield and are also near the towns of Salina and Gunnison. These towns range in population from 1,000 to 3,000. A tract of 3,000 acres in Sanpete county was offered February 11, 1911, and the remaining tract of 8,000 acres taken by the Jewish Agricultural and Colonial association practically includes all of the state lands under the project.

Included in the Utah exhibit at the second annual Omaha Land show will be an interesting collection of irrigated farm products from the Gunnison valley from the parts of Plute Irrigation project already under cultivation.
J. Edward Taylor, state horticulture inspector for Utah, has been commissioned by the Utah Development league to gather and arrange the Utah exhibit for the Omaha Land show. His instructions are to prepare the most comprehensive exhibit of agricultural products of this state that has ever been shown at the land show, and this will be prepared with a view to using the permanent fixtures and non-perishable portions of the exhibit for the exhibition train which is planned by the Western Development association, organized at Omaha during the first annual land show. Funds for the exhibit have been appropriated by the Utah Development league and it is said that no expense will be spared in gathering an unsurpassed collection of agricultural products of the Beehive state.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach.
"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Young, publisher of The Sun, Lake View, O. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all dealers.

North Platte Men Organize to Boost

Many Towns Represented in Recent Meeting in City of Scottsbluff and Committees Chosen.

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Representatives from the several cities of the North Platte valley from Bridgeport west met at this place and formulated plans for the extensive advertising of this section. A most elaborate display of products will be prepared for exhibition at the state fair, the Omaha land show and the Chicago land show. E. von Fossell, formerly regent of the State university, was chosen chairman of the meeting and president of the association. G. L. Shumway, secretary of the Scottsbluff club, was made secretary. Morrill was represented by W. L. Miner, Mr. Stockwell and John Boatman. Mitchell delegates were C. H. Blackburn, G. W. Whitman, M. E. Getter, Minnara, Otto Jurgens, and Bayard by Dr. Jones and A. P. DeVault.

A careful estimate was made, which included 250 feet at the land shows and the attendance four of the live live ones at all times and the cost apportioned to the several cities of the valley. The committee selected to solicit the fund and to prepare exhibits consist of the following: Lingle, Lloyd Thomas; Torrington, T. G. Powers; Henry, Mr. Overman; Merrill, John Boatman; Mitchell, George Whitman; Gering, Frank Sands; Minnara, B. F. Rimsby; Scottsbluff, G. L. Shumway; Bayard, J. P. DeVault; Bridgeport, R. P. Scott; McGrew, L. W. Ringsby; Northport, H. H. Harper.

The meeting adjourned to Monday, August 14, at which time the selection of the representatives will be made.

Greenleaf Tells of Wyoming Resources

Former Resident of Omaha Returns for Visit and is Loud in Praise of State of His Adoption.

W. S. Greenleaf, a mining engineer of Cody, Wyo., is visiting in Omaha. He is well known among the engineers of the city, having been formerly associated with the Omaha Water company and the city engineering department. In speaking of the resources of Wyoming and of the future possibilities of Park county, Mr. Greenleaf says: "It is one of the most wonderful countries I have ever visited. The commercial minerals in the immediate vicinity of Cody consist of sulphur, coal, kaolin (china clay), gypsum and shale, and are of the best character. They are found in almost unlimited quantities. Agriculturally the country with its present irrigation system, has no limits." In speaking of the resource exhibitions which are held throughout the country, Mr. Greenleaf says that in his opinion Omaha will receive the hearty support and co-operation of Park county in the coming land show. This year promises to be the banner year for Yellowstone National park. Hundreds of tourists are leaving Cody every week via the famous Cody road through Shoshone canon, and the additional elk allowance is bringing many sportsmen to these great hunting grounds.

NEW BOOK TELLS OF THE WEST

A strong presentation of the possibilities of development by irrigation is presented in Harold Bell Wright's new book, "The Winning of Barbara Worth." With a vividness that assumes reality Mr. Wright shows how capital may be used to gain its end and at the same time save the community and still be "good business." A sale of 400,000 of Barbara Worth is fixed by the publishers, and 175,000 were printed on the first run. Its explanation of the possibilities of the great west should appeal to everyone.

Curtis Business Men Are Wide-Awake

They Secure Agricultural College and Are Now Preparing Big Exhibit for the Land Show.

CURTIS, Neb., Aug. 17.—That the state bureau of public lands is building has decided on Curtis as a geographical location for the new agricultural college means that this little town in southwestern Nebraska must be of considerable importance and have the natural advantages necessary in the handling of agricultural college work.
Another strong feature of the importance of Curtis is shown by the fact that they have secured a large block of space at the Omaha land show, and will have on exhibition a fine display of the crops of that section as the crop conditions there this year are exceptionally fine. Corn will range from thirty-five to seventy bushels per acre and other crops such as hay, small grains and garden products also produce large yields.
Curtis has a population of one thousand, and when the proposition of locating the college at this point was put before the commercial club, they succeeded in raising $30,000 within three days and purchased 400 acres of as fine land for a college location as can be found in Western Nebraska. One important industry in the flour mill, which runs day and night to fill orders.

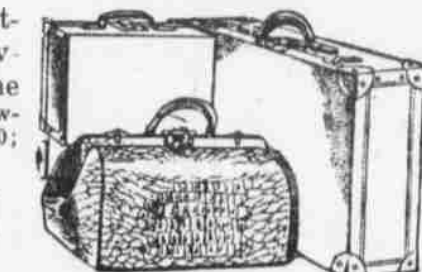

UTAH PLANS FOR BIG EXHIBIT

Governor Spry Appoints Advisory Board to Assist in Preparing Exhibit.
Utah is just now centering its efforts on the Omaha Land show which will be held October 15 to 25. Exhibits are being assembled from all parts of the state showing the great advantages, resources and opportunities of the slopes.
C. C. Rosewater, president of Omaha Land show, has just received a letter stating that the governor has appointed an

Settlers Crowding Montana Sheep Men from Big Pastures

Land is Gradually Being Fenced and Tilled and Stock Raisers Are Turning Farmers.

CUT BANKS, Mont., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Probably the last wool crop to be raised in this northwestern part of Montana is now on the market. What western progress means is now more forcefully than ever realized by most of the large sheepmen in Teton county. With the incoming settlers, more and more land is being fenced and tilled, and the stockmen, who for years have had all of Uncle Sam's big pastures to roam in, are being crowded out. A number of sheepmen are expecting to sell out this fall, and are going in for dry farming on a large scale.
The wonderful crops of the dry farmer have finally aroused the stockmen from his apathy and he is going to try it for himself. This section of the northwest is especially favored. By the government rainfall maps it is credited with twenty inches of rainfall per year, while dry farming can be successfully carried on with but twelve inches. The average for the state of Montana is about fifteen inches per year.
There is still some land open for filling in this section. The Blackfoot reservation, which will soon be thrown open for settlement, although in taking up land on the reservation the homesteader will have to pay the appraised price to the Blackfoot Indians,
