HEARS OF CONTEST FAR OFF

Wyoming Woman Then Decides to Enter Second Bookolvers' Game. CATALOGUE SALE RUSHES AHEAD of Raiston, a lot 25x100 feet, on Maywood Early Gains Show that New Mark Will Be Set and that Supply of 50x120 fest; this lot is valued at $225. Books Will Soon Be Exhausted,

From a distant part of Wyoming came a request for information about the Booklovers' contest of The Bee yesterday. The writer, a woman, said she had heard about the first contest while she was in California in July. It was then she determined to enter the second contest if one should be conducted by this paper.

All of yesterday the young lady in charge of the sale of title catalogues was kept busy filling city and out of town orders. The largest sales of the week were recorded yesterday. By tonight it is thought that more than 2,000 of the little books will be sold.

Catalogues Must Be Used.

The catalogues should be used by conappearts in order that mistakes may be guarded against. In the first contest several of the participants lost out in the prize money because they had the wrong initials for some of the authors. If the catalogue is in error in any place the contestant need not fear that he will be marked down by the judges if he makes answer just as the catalogue prints the title and name of author. All mistakes in the catalogue are considered in awarding

The correct answers come easy when a catalogue is used. Those contestants who hunt through many books in the library will find that they would save much time and trouble if they would use the title books.

More Than Five Thousand Titles. There are more than 5,000 titles in the catalogue. From this long list the contest editor, selects the names of the books for the pictures that appear in this paper every day during the contest. Catalogue No. 2 contains books that were not listed in the first catalogue, so it is absolutely necessary to have the second title book in order to get the correct answers to the puzzles.

One of Omaha's Oldest Pioneers Celebrates Eighty-First Birthday

Dr. George L. Miller Was a Leading Citizen of Omaha Before the Civil War.

Friday marked the eighty-first birthday of Dr. George L. Miller, one of the pioneers of Omaha, who, on account of poor health, for several years has been an inmate of private sanitarium at Lincoln. Dr. George L. Miller was born in New York. There he studied medicine, being graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York City. October 19, 1854., soon after his graduation, he arrived fession. For three or four years he continued administering to the ills of mankind and then engaged in business. In 1857, with others, he promoted the erection of a hotel, the building being the one at Ninth and Farnam streets, now occupied by the Union Pacific Railroad company as a headquarters building. Financially the venture was a failure. Later, Dr. Miller was instrumental in securing the eastern terminal of the Union Pacific here, as well as securing the army headquarters for Omahs. In the early sixties he was appointed sutler at democratic ticket. In 1865, together with D. W. Carpenter, Dr. Miller established the Omaha Herald, becoming its editor. In 1887 he disposed of his interest in the paper and accepted the elected for the coming year; Mrs. Kath Joseph B. Koesters and two women yet to appointment of general western manager be selected. Committees will meet promptly for the New York Life Insurance company. t 10 o'clock and will be "on the job" all with headquarters in Omaha. This position he resigned after three years, that he might devote his whole time to the managemen of his private interests.

Prior to this. Dr. Miller had acquired a large tract of land southwest of the city which, in honor of Horatio Seymour of New York, a personal friend, he named Seymour park. Here some years later he built a magnificent country home, which was subsequently completely destroyed by fire, together with his large library and a rare collection of curios. About this time meetings are now here at the soldiers' re- his wife died and his mind partially gave way under the burden that he was called upon to bear.

Dr. Miller, during the years of his active life, was identified with nearly every public movement undertaken Omaha. He was a member of the State Historical society, the first medical society in the state, the founder of the present park system of Omaha and a member of the Omaha Library board for many years.

VETERANS CONCLUDE REUNION

Seventeenth Annual Affair at Florence Closes.

MEETINGS LARGELY ATTENDED Newly Elected Officers of the Asso ciation of Douglas County Are Installed Friday Morning -Scope is Extended

Friday's program concluded the annual reunion of the Douglas county veterans at Florence. This reunion, which is the seventeenth that has been held by the asso ciation at Florence, proved to be one of the best and largest ever held. With the assistance of the officials of Florence and men who have consented to serve in this the Ladies' auxiliary of the veterans, comin Omaha, then a little straggling frontier bined with the hard work of the officers hamlet, intending here to follow his pro- of the association, the reunion went off without a hitch.

Friday morning was taken up by a business meeting of the association, at which the newly elected officers were installed and the report from the committee on the drafting of new by-laws was heard. The association will reorganize, taking in all the counties in Nebraska within a radius of fifty miles.

The afternoon program consisted of martial music by Si Klegg's drum corps from the home at Grand Island and a short talk by Dr. Schley. In the evening the Fort Kearney, holding the position until large camp fire was built, around which 1884, when he returned to Omaha and made the drum corps played a number of old an unsuccessful race for congress on the army pieces, followed by short war storie by the veterans.

Thursday afternoon the officers of th Ladies' auxiliary of the Veterans' associa tion were elected. Ham-Bone Function Ends in Arrest of Seventeen Guests, Some White and Some Black.

The police found it necessary to break up ham-hone party at 1168 South Ninth street Thursday night. Lizzie Pation and her seventeen guests, both black and white, became so hilarious that the disturbance could be heard for several blocks. A hambone party is one of those delightful functions at which a boiled ham is set out as the piece de resistance. By the time the ham is consumed the guests have worked themselves to a point of jubilance and then they sing over the bone. It isn't necessary that all the guests sing the same tune, in the same key, nor in unison, just so they make a noise. The result is nothing less than a jamboree and the services of the police are usually necessary to quell the disturbance.

Tentative plans for the convention of the National Postmasters' association, which is to be held in Omaha, September 12, 13 and 14, made several weeks ago, are rapidly shaping up so that when the time for the convention arrives, there will be no change in them necessitated, Postmaster B. F. Thomas and E. V. Pary rish of the Commercial club have everything almost arranged, and although the convention is more than three weeks off, there will be no trouble in making it the best ever held by the postmasters' association. This association includes only first class postmasters, and has a membership of about 650. The Commercial club has sent out over 600 invitations to members and notables who are to address the convention, and of this number, judging by the way all conventions are attended, twothrids of the membership will be here. The visitors will be entertained at the Den on the opening night, and because of the fact that the convention opens on Puesday, the initiation ceremony will be deferred one day in honor of the visitors.

Chauffeur Taken as an Accomplice

Suspected of being the accomplice of a legro woman who robbed Hugo Leh of $50 Thursday night, L. Sutley, an auto driver, was arrested at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. When searched he had over $100 in bills, The robbery was a bold one, committed in Sutley's automobile. Leh, who is a German, with little knowledge of the English language, tells the police that he lives in the west and arrived from Chicago at 10 o'clock Thursday night over the Northwestern. He hailed Sutley's taxicab and asked to be taken to the Lange hotel, He had just seated himself when the negress climbed into the car. After the start was made he caught her in the act of extracting $50 from his pocket. A scuffle ensued, and it is thought by the police that the money was deftly passed to the chauffeur. At least the police are holding him on that theory. The identity of the colored woman is not known, but a good description of her has been secured.
