Jones Changes Name as He Learns Music

Odd Fact Comes Out When Sisters See Musician for Board and Loans. Jean Gilbert Jones, eminent Omaha pianist and teacher of piano, was plain John Thomas Jones before he went to Paris and studied music under the masters. When he returned a little more than two years ago he had improved as a musician. His cognomen likewise had been revamped, remodeled, polished down and smoothed. The only section of his rather prosaic appellation which he retained was that ultra-Protestant Jones. The story of Jones' reorganization of his name came out in county court Friday morning in the trial of a suit of Dr. Emma Lawrence and Pearl Lawrence, a school teacher, sisters, to make the musician pay them $50 for board furnished him. When the testimony developed that Jones has had two names, T. H. Marners, attorney for the women, asked Judge Leslie to make a finding that John Thomas and Jean Gilbert Jones are one and the same. The court refused to rule on the request at the time, but indicated that the finding probably will be made.

HAMPTON IS ON HIS WAY HOME

As Soon as He Learns that His House is Robbed He Cuts His Vacation Short. V. A. Hampton, chief clerk of the general passenger offices of the Northwestern, whose house was entered by burglars probably Wednesday night, having been apprised of the fact, has cut his vacation short and has wired that he is on his way home. Friends who have been out to the Hampton home since the visit of the burglars are of the opinion that nothing has been stolen. However, dresser drawers were pulled out and their contents scattered about the floors. Beds have been torn to pieces and closets and cupboards have been ransacked. The Hampton silverware and plate was not disturbed, but clothing was scattered from one end of the house to the other. It is the opinion that the burglars were hunting for money and did not find any.
