GEIDEL'S DEFENSE OUTLINED

Boy Charged with Killing Broker Says He Died of Hemorrhage.

WENT TO ROOM TO COLLECT MONEY

Aged Man Fell Asleep and Awakened While Boy Was Going Through Pockets—He Became Excited and Collapsed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Counsel for Paul M. Geidel, the boy accused of the murder of William L. Jackson, a broker, at the Iroquois hotel, opened the defense today with three motions, the first of which was to compel the district attorney to state on which of the two counts of the indictment he rested the case. The first count, premeditated murder, was selected. The second charges murder in the commission of a felony. Two formal motions to strike from the record the alleged confession and to quash the indictment were overruled.

On suggestion of the defense the jury will inspect the scene of the crime, but not until the defense shall have rested its case. In the opening address, counsel declared that Geidel visited Mr. Jackson's room to collect money alleged to be due him, that Mr. Jackson was in bed and that after the two had talked for some time Mr. Jackson went, or pretended to go, to sleep. Paul then went through the broker's pockets, counsel said, and Mr. Jackson, awakening, became greatly excited, called the boy a thief and fell unconscious from a hemorrhage. Paul, to protect himself, thrust an outcry, then stuffed the towel into the broker's mouth and fled undetected. He confessed, counsel said, to protect two innocent associates, who, he thought, were charged with the crime.

Geidel takes stand. Geidel took the stand after the examination of two minor witnesses. The boy said he was 17 years of age. His father died when he was 5, he continued, and at 7 he was put in an orphanage, where he stayed two years. At 14, he went to work in a drug store. Later he got his experience as a bellboy. "I was discharged from that hotel about a year and a half ago," said Geidel, "for lying. I took a drink of whisky and lied to keep another job."

After this the defendant said he came to New York, joined the Young Men's Christian association and got work at the Hotel Iroquois, where Jackson was staying. Jackson, he said, came to live at the hotel about two weeks later. "Did you go to Mr. Jackson's room in response to calls?" asked the attorney. "Frequently," Geidel answered. "Did Mr. Jackson ever give you a key to his room?" "Yes, he told me I was to come and see him. I went twice when off duty."

SPIKES PULLED FROM RAIL

Passenger Train Wrecked Near Middletown and Sixty Persons Injured.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 28.—Abram P. Brown of Hartford, who suffered an injury of the spine last night in the wreck of the evening train over the Valley line of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, died here today. The sixty or more other passengers on the wrecked train who were injured are all doing well and none are likely to die. The cause of the wreck is being looked into. Early this morning Superintendent Woodward of the Shore line division, who went to the scene of the accident at Middletown, notified the police here that he found on close inspection that the train had been purposely wrecked. He says: "All the spikes of one rail that nearest the river—were pulled out and were lying around the track. They were not damaged a bit by the wreck, which would have been a natural result if they had been in their proper place at the time of the accident. Not one was twisted or bent."

SURPRISE FOR H. C. BEATTIE

Scherer had been coaching the witness, including those in jail.

Turning to Scherer's testimony of last Saturday, Mr. Carter pointed to alleged conversations between Beattie and Scherer after the murder. "Did Mr. Beattie tell you that he failed to stop at any of the houses along the way because he knew there was a physician at the Owen home, where he was taking his wife?" "In this connection I asked Mr. Beattie simply if he had stopped at any houses along the road to see people on the trail of the murder, but he said no. He said he was hurrying to get her to a doctor. I then asked if he did not know his wife was dead. He answered that he had tried after she was shot to feel her pulse and heart, but could not tell if she was dead. He said he stopped only to fix his lights."

The defense plainly tried to show by its cross-examination that Scherer had approached witnesses for the defense. "The only man I asked to come to the court that I thought would be a witness for the defense," said Scherer, "was George Jones."

The defense did not ask about Jones, who, it is alleged, made a remark that he knew ahead of time about the murder, but declared its examination of Scherer concluded. On re-direct examination by Prosecutor Wendenberg, Scherer told of the condition of the Beattie automobile, which he examined the day after the murder. He particularly described the dripan underneath, pointing out that hardened grease covered the tin and that no trace of blood could be found.

The prosecution's idea was to demonstrate that the big pool of blood in the road did not come through the machine and that Mrs. Beattie was not shot while in the automobile, as alleged by the defense.

The men were arrested after shooting an officer according to the dispatches.

SCALP ITCHED SO SHE COULDN'T SLEEP

Nor Kept from Scratching. Became Worse and Worse. In Two Weeks Rid Completely of Trouble through Use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"One evening while combing my hair, I noticed a few brown crusties upon my scalp and, of course, I thought it was only a little dust that had settled there during the week. So I washed my hair thoroughly but I saw that they wouldn't come out. Then at the end of the next week I washed my hair again, and to my astonishment I saw not only those few but many more had come. Then my head became worse and worse, and my scalp started to itch terribly, so that I could not sleep nor keep from scratching my head. The crusties piled later opened and made sores which bled, and they also itched something terrible. I tried many remedies but none helped and instead they made my head worse. This condition of my scalp kept up for a month, and then one day I met a friend and he advised me to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. In two weeks I was rid completely of this trouble, through the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I am now happy and content, for they are my most highly valued friends." Girl of 12 Cured of Pimples.

"When I was about twelve or thirteen, my face broke out with pimples. They came out in groups and caused great disfigurement. After trying so many remedies without success, I saw the Cuticura Ointment advertised and I sent for a box. In a week I saw a great change in my face, and it rendered complete cure. Now you can not tell I ever had pimples." (Signed) Miss Mabel Morash, Dover, N. H., Mar. 31, 1911.
