NEW COUNTRY OPENING Get there ahead of the railroad. The Grand Trunk Pacific railroad is building through the head of the Fraser valley in Central British Columbia, the mildest and richest province of Canada.
The eyes of millions are now turned to the great Fort George country, the richest agricultural treasure land in the North American continent. Why?

Because it is fertile in field and forest; it has the richest black loam soil cultivated.
It is in the chinook wind region, like Spokane, Portland or San Francisco; it requires no irrigation to grow anything; the land is absolutely free from alkali; it has splendid rail and water transportation facilities; its land is only selling for slib to $25 per sere in tracts of 160 acres or more. If you get busy before the railroad is completed. These are some of the facts in Central British Columbia, the choicest region of the richest province in Canada,
