Drawing, Writ JUDGE WOODRUFF GIVES SEVERAL WIVES DIVORCE

Cruel and Inhuman Treatment Alleged in Majority of Cases Before Judge.

Freeing mismated couples from the obligations assumed at the marriage altar occupied part of the time of Judge Woodruff yesterday. He entered decrees in seven more default cases, making sixteen in the last two days, to say nothing of the number of cases where the defendants bristled up and showed fight by demanding a trial. In all of the cases passed upon yesterday wives were the plaintiffs and got the decisions in their fights for lib-

Minnie Aberns was relieved from the presence of her husband, Fred Aherns. Fred, who is 51 years old, did not think it worth while to defend the charge that he had become an habitual drunkard. The alleged cruel and inhuman treatment charge was successfully urged against James T. Edgar by Alberta May Edgar. Aimada Bollmier made good the same charge against her husband. Ferdinand. Elia J. Hunt urged it also against Oscar Hunt, strengthened by the additional charge of habitual drunkenness. Laura May Terrell secured a decree by showing that Sedwick Terrell had coa-since their marriage. John Byron, 50 years old, was in court, but did not offer any defense of the charge preferred by his wife that he had broken his marriage vows. He smiled when the decree was granted to her. Josephine Forgaty Simmons drew the last decree issued during the day, freeing her from Albert L. Simmons. The stock allegation of cruel and inhuman treatment While these women were getting rid of their troublesome husbands, another woman, Mary Osborn, made a start in the same direction by filing her petition. Mrs. Osborn alleges that her husband, John F. Osborn, has manifested such bad conduct toward her that it comes under the "cand i." rule, only with out any other contributing features. They were wedded in Omaha and she was a June bride in 1899. They came over to Council Bluffs and lived here continuously with the exception of one brief period. She asks the court to compel John to pay her the mod est amount of $5 a week alimony.
