New Jersey Man Says Governor Osborn Was Not Quoted Correctly.

IS CERTAIN OF HIS STATEMENT

Insists that Wilson Did Not Secure Spring Lake Conference for the Purpose of Booming His Candidacy.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Sept. 13.—Former Governor Fort of New Jersey, chairman of the entertainment committee of the governors' conference in session here today, took official cognizance today of an alleged interview with Governor Osborn of Michigan, in which Mr. Osborn was quoted as saying that he would not attend the conference on the ground that it was a part of a campaign to boom Woodrow Wilson for the democratic nomination for the presidency.

"I am quite sure that Governor Osborn never said any such thing," said Mr. Fort. "Governor Wilson did not get the conference to come to Spring Lake. I was governor of New Jersey when the conference at Louisville last year agreed to come here and they came on my invitation."

Governor Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts was the first speaker at today's session of the conference of governors. His address was on the subject of "The Compensation of Governors." It was his theme and opposition to "The unnecessary intrusion of federal control" was the keynote of his speech. The new workmen's compensation law of Washington was detailed by Governor Marion E. Hay.

A system of employees' liability insurance, conducted by the state, for the benefit of workmen, was advocated by Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey.

POSTAGE ABUSES DISCUSSED

his perch on the platform and invade the First Vice President Lincoln to take his place.

Music for the morning session of the convention was furnished by the Omaha Post-office quartet.

The association of first-class postmasters kept its first president, Edward J. Patrick, and then two years ago adopted an unwritten rule to change each year by moving up the list of presidents. If that rule holds good, the present first vice president, Postmaster Ed Sizer of Lincoln, will head the organization for the coming year.

Postmaster Robert Patton Hagood not only handles the mail at Bradford, Pa., but also publishes the Evening Star of that city and is at the same time secretary of the Pennsylvania State Editorial association.

Postmaster "Tommy" Akin of St. Louis used to be member of the republican national committee, being succeeded in his place by Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, while he, himself, drew the post-office.

An auditing committee was appointed by President Without Wednesday morning, consisting of the following postmasters: W. C. Haskell, Cedar Rapids; I. R. M. Robinson, Pensacola, Fla.; G. W. Hoyt, Cheyenne, Wyo.

A rural mail box has been placed on the platform in the morning room for a question box and answers. Questions for discussion are being placed in it. It has not been opened and will not be until it is well filled.

Second Assistant Postmaster General Grandfield and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General De Graw have been in Omaha before, but they both note and comment on the improvement in the appearance of the city since their last visit.

The visiting women spent Wednesday morning in a tour of the Brandeis stores in charge of the local entertainment committee. They were shown the advantages of shopping in Omaha. The afternoon program for their benefit includes an automobile ride about the interesting and beautiful parts of Lincoln, and a dinner at the home of Rome Miller at Hillcrest, where a reception will be held at 4 o'clock.

The choice of a location for next year's convention is still undecided, although the committee appointed especially to make a selection met Wednesday noon. The final report will be made tomorrow. The members of the committee are: E. U. Morgan, New York; S. J. Simpson, Dallas; A. G. Kurz, Green Bay, Wis.; F. D. Wiley, Camden, Me.; and J. R. Dods, Franklin, Pa.

Postmaster W. C. Edwards of Wichita, Kan., is the assy at the home town of Congressman Victor Murdock, the big house insurgent, and to whom he owes his recommendation for appointment, but he is also a strong Taft man. "I am devoted to Mr. Murdock," said Postmaster Edwards, "but I cannot follow him over into the La Follette camp. I am for Taft for re-nomination, flat and all the time."

A report from the committee on legislation on the retirement of civil service employees was read by Postmaster Mansfield of Cincinnati. The report recommended the passage of a bill which would make retirement after a certain age optional and allow for pensions in cases of civil disability. The convention was not disposed to accept the report as it was merely filed awaiting future discussion.

An expense bill of $10 which was incurred by the members of the committee in a trip to Washington to see Postmaster General Hitchcock was allowed, but not until after a short debate.

PIPER'S ARE TAKEN TO IOWA

Burglar Who Was Shot by Police Goes to Fort Dodge to Stand Trial.

Ray Piper, the burglar who was shot three weeks ago by Detective Van Dusen, was taken to Fort Dodge, Ia., yesterday afternoon to stand trial on charges of passing forged checks. Governor Aldrich granted extradition papers yesterday and the Fort Dodge marshal came to Omaha and took Piper from St. Joseph hospital, where he has been under the care of Police Surgeon T. T. Harris. He has recovered from his injury. Mrs. Piper was also taken from Omaha.

WARD ON AN OVERLAND TRIP

New York Aviator Enroute from Atlantic to Pacific Ocean.

BIRDMAN OUT AFTER BIG PRIZE

In Order to Win the Journey Across the Continent Must Be Completed Inside of Thirty Days.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—At 8 o'clock this morning James J. Ward, 22 years of age, lifted his biplane from Governor's Island and started across the continent in the path of the sun.

Ward is the second competitor to try for the prize of $25,000 offered by William E. Hearst for the quickest flight from coast to coast, and the first to start on the westward route. To win he must reach Los Angeles or San Francisco in thirty days.

A twenty-mile breeze was blowing when Ward started. Starting with the wind behind him he turned at the lower end of the island and came humming back, rising high over the bay and heading across the mouth of the Hudson river for Jersey City.

On the west bank of the river he picked up the flag-decked locomotive waiting at the Erie station to pilot him over the maze of tracks across the Hackensack marshes, then settled into his course above the main line of the Erie railroad. His first stop was Middletown, N. Y., sixty-eight miles away.

One Hundred Set Start. From Middletown, Ward planned to follow the Erie to Buffalo. Mechanicians with gasoline on extra parts await him at Calcoen, N. Y., and Susquehanna, Pa., and at the latter place he hoped to spend the night.

A group of about 100 saw the start at Governor's Island. Among them was the aviator's wife, who, with a party of friends, hopes to meet him at Susquehanna this evening.

"I don't expect to make much time against this wind," Ward said while the helpers were cranking up his machine.

Just before the aviator jumped into his seat, Major General Grant, commander of the Department of the East, rode up with two aids and handed him a letter to the commander of the military post at Los Angeles.

As soon as he got clear of the island, Ward mounted rapidly. The air was clear and, expecting no difficulty in picking out his land marks, he said that he expected to make most of the journey at a height of about 3,000 feet. Against the wind his fifty-horsepower engine can make forty-five miles an hour. If the wind changes he will do it in better time.

Ward carries fifteen gallons of gasoline, enough to take him about 150 miles.

Hits the Wrong Course. ASHBROOK, N. J., Sept. 13.—Aviator Ward landed here this morning on his coast-to-coast flight, having mistaken the Lehigh Valley railroad for the Erie road. The aviator, when he found out where he was went into the air again and retraced his course toward Jersey City, where he purposed taking up his course along the line of the Erie railroad for Middletown, N. Y.

GOVERNORS ON REFERENDUM

O'Neal of Alabama Denounces "Popul- lar Vagary."

WOODROW WILSON MAKES REPLY

Asserts Power of Executive Not Necessarily Weakened—Aldrich is Among Those Who Take Part in Discussion.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Sept. 13.—Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Governor Emmett O'Neal of Alabama measured swords over the initiative and referendum before the conference of governors yesterday.

Governor O'Neal spoke vehemently for ten minutes, bowed and without a word walked through a casement window to the piazza fronting the ocean.

"What's the use of my going back in there?" he asked a reporter. "I have already spoken twice and I am limited to two speeches on any one topic."

He did not re-enter the convention hall for fifteen minutes and took no further part in the discussion. When the conference ended, Governor Wilson grasped Governor O'Neal by the hand and remarked that he did not wish to be misunderstood.

Governor O'Neal later said that he had stepped to the piazza to meet Mrs. O'Neal, who, he had heard, was there.

Hits Measures Hard. There was no subject in the words in the Alabama denunciation of the initiative, referendum and recall.

"There is a movement which seems to be gathering strength in certain sections of the country," he said, "that tends to weaken rather than strengthen executive authority, and that is the system of initiative, referendum and recall. The governor has no power to veto or amend a law initiated by the people and adopted by referendum."
