Park Board Favors Asphalt Pavement

The members of the Park board are looking with considerable favor upon asphalt as wearing surface for the boulevards outside of the parks. While nothing will be done this fall in the way of laying this kind of paving, it is quite likely that it will be introduced next year.

The park commissioners have tried macadam, but it has failed to fill the bill. More recently it has tried gilling the boulevards, but this has proven rather unsatisfactory, as well as expensive, and now they are turning their attention to the asphalt. The greatest objection they find to the oil is that it is filthy until it dries away.

Assistant Superintendent McDonald has studied the asphalt proposition and finds that here a boulevard pavement, at least two inches in thickness, can be laid for around $1.25 per square yard. In laying the asphalt for park and boulevard paving it is mixed with broken stones, which, when thoroughly packed, becomes almost as hard as granite and entirely free from dust.

At this time, outside of parks, the boulevards aggregate about seventeen miles. Of this mileage five and one-half miles are macadam, two sheet asphaltum and the balance cindered or oiled.

City is Far Ahead in Its Paving Work

Never before in the history of the city has the year's paving been so far along as now. Last year the new paving aggregated 238,000 square yards and was not finished much before winter set in. This year the paving laid up to date aggregates close to 300,000 square yards, with 50,000 additional square yards upon which contractors are working and which will be finished by October 15.

In fact, the paving is about a month ahead of former years and the South Thirteenth street job, from Vinton street to the south city limits, is the only one that will not be finished this winter. The reason for the rapid progress made has been principally on account of the good weather for doing the work.

FIREMAN WANTS FULL ALLOWANCE ON PENSION

George Blake, a former member of the Omaha fire department, who was totally disabled in 1901 and who has been drawing a pension of $17.50 a month, started a mandamus action in district court Wednesday to force Mayor Dehlinger and the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners to pay him $50 a month under the state firemen's pension law which became effective in 1908.

Judge Troup issued an alternative mandamus writ commanding the defendants to either begin paying Blake $50 a month and pay him $23.50 a month for the time that has elapsed since the law became effective or else appear in court Friday morning and show cause why they should not be compelled so to do.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN POSING

Expert from Hastings Uses Low Neck Drapery to Instruct Camera Men.

BIG THEATER PARTY TONIGHT

Will Be Guests of Robert Dempster Company—Manufacturers Have Numerous Exhibits at the Rome.

Demonstrations of low neck drapery and fancy posing by Mrs. T. J. Nelson, of Hastings was the feature of today's session of the annual convention of the Nebraska Photographers' association which is meeting in the Hotel Rome this week, and this with demonstrations of chemicals and accessories to photography took up the entire day.

Mrs. Nelson showed the artistic effect which may be had almost under any circumstances by the photographer's knowledge of how to pose the subject, and she also showed the two hundred camera men assembled in the convention room how to secure this artistic effect. Mrs. Nelson is a photographer herself, besides being a beautiful woman, and her part of this afternoon's session was perhaps the most interesting of any during the convention thus far.

The morning session was given over entirely to the inspection of the exhibits of the various camera manufacturing companies and firms making photographic supplies. Demonstrations of the effect of chemical combinations and of different kinds of print paper proved to be of much interest to the part of the supply men in the convention is no small one.

Following Mrs. Nelson's exhibition, T. Muller, a well-known camera man from Hastings, gave a lecture on "photography", and he brought out many interesting points. Mr. Muller spoke of the remarkable progress of the profession and how portraits made by cameras today are playing a large part in the progress of the world. "Constructive Criticism" was the subject of the talk given by Professor W. J. Lively, president of the Southern School of Photography. Mr. Lively's address was along similar lines to that of Mr. Muller's but nevertheless his remarks were greatly appreciated.

C. C. GEORGE TALKS OF LAND PRICES IN THE NORTHWEST

The largest number of members of the Omaha Real Estate exchange that has attended a meeting for several months was present at the session on Wednesday and heard an interesting talk by President C. C. George, who told of his trip throughout the west, made in the last two months.

Mr. George told of the wonderful growth of San Francisco in the last five years and of the confidence the people along the Pacific coast have in the Panama canal. He gave figures on real estate in Canada and the northwest part of this country, and his talk was well received.

A communication was received from J. T. Breen, former mayoralty candidate, who asks the Real Estate exchange to join hands with the Commercial club in the matter of the annexation of South Omaha. After the proposition had been tabled once, it was reconsidered and referred to a committee, which is to be appointed by President George.
