

DO NOT DECEIVE YOURSELF ANY LONGER

A CONTESTANT in the Booklovers' game declared yesterday that the puzzle pictures in this second contest are hard. This same contestant admitted he was not using a Bee title catalogue. There is his trouble. "I find the puzzles in this second game as easy as those of the first, and do not see how they can be missed if one uses a catalogue." This is what another contestant told the editor when informed that one person has declared the pictures hard.

A Title Catalogue Solves the Whole Problem

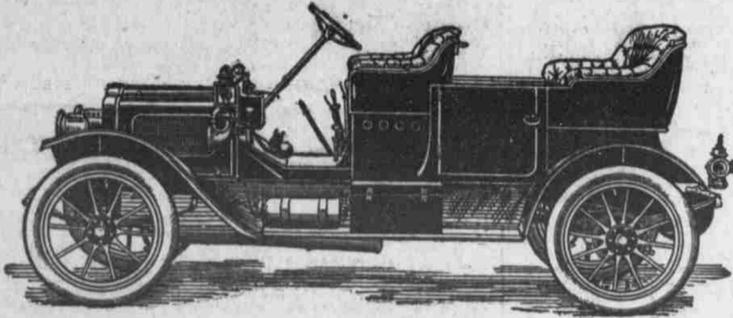

These little books are sold at the business office of The Bee for 25 cents, or will be sent by mail for 30 cents. Order one now. Back coupons are ready and may be had at the business office for one cent each.

Enter the Game Today -- It Is Not Too Late!

There is plenty of time for solving the puzzles if you start now. The contest will not close for many days, and those who join the workers now have just as good a chance as those who began with the first picture.

This car needs no cranking nor shifting of gears to get any desired speed. The increasing number of White Steamer cars being sold each succeeding year, together with the practical endorsement of the U. The accompanying illustration tells only of the outside of this magnificent Krell Auto-Grand Piano. It tells not of the vast excellence that lies beneath its magnificent, fancy walnut case. Well informed piano men are insistent in the claim that the Krell Auto-Grand is positively the most complete and efficient player-piano offered to the music-loving public.

The modulating pedals and the mechanism to carry the tune above the accompaniment are marvels of simplicity. The Krell Auto-Grand claims to have in the absolute the "human touch" so prized by player-piano makers. From the inside to the case, from the pedals to the levers, this magnificent $900 player-piano may be examined with every facility at the piano ware rooms on third floor of the big
