MAKES ANSWER TO CRITICISM Defends His Treaty Policy Before High School Students.

PEACE AGREEMENTS SOLE WAY If it fails to reach aim Arbitration Must Also Be Fought.

STUDENTS AND OTHERS IN LINE Big Crowds on Course of Chief Executive Cheer as Party Drives Up to High School in an Automobile.

President Taft has come and gone. His program for Sunday was shattered, due to a washout in Missouri which delayed him eleven hours, but his schedule for this morning including an auto tour of the city and an address at the high school was carried out to the letter.

President Taft addressed the students of the Omaha High school this morning on "Peace," evidently taking his cue from the criticism of his position on pending arbitration treaties by Senator C. H. Hitchcock at the big meeting at the Auditorium Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Hitchcock had said that the senators who opposed the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, did so because they did not think the constitutional right of the senate to make treaties should be abrogated in favor of any commission appointed by the president.

"I am trying to persuade the senate," said the president to the students, "that it ought to ratify certain peace treaties between the United States and England and France and between the United States and certain Central American countries."

"The treaties committee of the senate had recommended that one clause be excluded from the treaties, that is, to have a joint high commission from the countries involved to decide whether or not the question is justifiable or capable of settlement according to the principles of law and equity. The treaty provides that all justifiable questions be settled by arbitration."

"We who have had to do with the making of the treaty feel that we should now bind ourselves to do something, that in the future we might get out of it we had not bound ourselves."

"If the treaty is not such that it will take care of our national honor and vital interests, then arbitration won't help us any, for these are the things that cause war."

"Wars have been fought for just causes and they have also been lost for just causes. If a boy had insulted you and you licked him, that is a satisfactory conclusion. I agree, but if a boy had insulted you and he licked you, what does it prove, except that he is stronger than you? We must bind ourselves to arbitrate our international disputes according to the principles of justice or nations will continue to engage in bloody wars on the principle that might makes right."

All the students of the high school and several hundred grown people besides were lined up in front of the east entrance of the high school, awaiting the president. He arrived from the Omaha club shortly after 9 in an auto, accompanied by Victor Rosewater of the local committee and members of his party.

Compliments the Girls. The president reached the building at the south entrance and his car was driven around to the east entrance on the sidewalk, he crowd dividing to make a path. The students waved flags and yelled as the auto stopped and the president rose and lifted his hat.

"What's the matter with Taft?" he yelled. "Who's all right? Taft? He is! He is! He is!"

Mr. Taft then mounted the steps and entered a hall that had been prepared, accompanied by those who were with

RECEPTION IS NONPARTISAN ONE

Introduced by W. J. Bryan at Luncheon at Lincoln Hotel—Continued Trip Through State of Nebraska.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—William Howard Taft was the guest of the capital city today and thousands of Nebraskans flocked here to pay him honor in the warm non-partisan reception which was accorded him.

The presidential special arrived here at 12:35. The program with regard to President Taft's stay was carried out with a military precision. At the Lincoln hotel luncheon the president was introduced by William Jennings Bryan who said as he proposed a toast:

"Lincoln is honored today by the presence of the highest official of the world. The president's position is greater than a king's. His authority is more vast than any civilized people would trust to a hereditary ruler, and he holds the place not by accident or birth, but by the suffrages of his countrymen.

Twelve places were reserved at the presidential table. The president sat near the center. On his left was former Senator E. J. Burkett, who acted as host. To his right sat W. J. Bryan. On Mr. Burkett's left was Governor Aldrich, and next to him were Senator Norris Brown, C. W. Bryan, Major A. W. Butt and F. M. Hall.

At the auditorium into which fully 4,000 people were crowded, Governor Aldrich introduced President Taft.

Dollar Diplomacy Wins Recognition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—"Dollar Diplomacy" has been officially recognized by the British government.

An official report of the British consular service commenting on the fact that the American exports to Venezuela have at length caught up to and passed those of Great Britain to the State department.

The United States of late," said the report, "have been making determined efforts to establish a firm footing in the markets of the Latin-American republics and appear to be in a fair way to accomplish their purpose."

At the State department it is explained that this statement is too broad; that American manufacturers have been extending their markets in South America and that what the United States government has done was to point them in the proper way to introduce their goods and simply see that they got a fair opportunity with other nations.

Desperate Youth Confesses Crimes

Warren Haylett, the youth who escaped from the industrial school at Kearney three times during the last month, has been picked up by the Omaha police, and they have secured from him a confession of several robberies that have occurred in the last few days.

He admits having robbed a pool hall at 1309 Harney, the Washington shirt company on Fourteenth, between Douglas and Farnam, the Union Tea company on Howard and the Patton-Bowman hardware store at 1418 Farnam.

Haylett was sent to the reformatory from Omaha several months ago for robbery. He was sent back to the industrial school Monday morning.

Resolutions Take Stand for Administration of President Taft and for Genuine Revision of the Tariff.

FREMONT, Neb., Oct. 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Colonel James Elliott of West Point was nominated by the republicans for congressman from the Third district at the convention held at Wall's theater this afternoon.

On the call of counties for presentation of candidates Gurney nominated Colonel Elliott and Stanton W. W. Young. The first ballot was informal and resulted: Elliott, 94; Young, 45; John Martin of Central City, 20, and Coupland of Madison, 12.

On the second ballot, when Name was reached, on the roll call, all counties having voted solidly for Elliott, further calling of the roll was dispensed with and the West Point man was declared the unanimous nominee of the convention.

Mr. Elliott was introduced as the next congressman and in a three-minute speech, frequently interrupted by applause, declared himself in favor of genuine tariff revision and in full accord with the president and the administration. He declared himself opposed to the interests and combines.

It fully endorsed the administration of President in his stand on the tariff and the records of the departments. The chairman of each delegation was made the congressional committee and George A. Eberly of Stanton was elected chairman.

Admiral and Mrs. Schley lived alone in Washington. Admiral Schley's death removed one of the best known officers in the history of the American navy.

The admiral would have been 72 years old within a week. On his last birthday he was deluged with congratulations. "I feel as young as I ever did," said he then.

"Don't you wish you were again on the bridge of a battleship?" he was asked.

"Oh, I don't know," he replied. "One gets tired even of that after fifty years." Admiral Schley was splendidly preserved for his years, but suffered as the result of injuries received in a fall on the icy pavements here last February, when he broke two ribs and sustained internal injuries.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY DIES IN NEW YORK

Hero of Santiago Drops Dead While Walking Along Fifth Avenue.

FORTY YEARS IN THE NAVY

Served Through Civil War in Minor Capacity and Was Retired Three Years After Close of Spanish-American War.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley dropped dead today near the corner of Forty-fourth street and Fifth avenue while on his way down town. The admiral died before medical aid could reach him.

Admiral Schley had been out of town over Sunday and on his return had gone to the New York Yacht club in West Forty-fourth street. After a short stay at the club Admiral Schley started to walk along Forty-fourth street toward Fifth avenue when he was taken suddenly ill.

As Admiral Schley walked along the street a chauffeur of a taxicab, who stood alone on the curb bowed to him and then remarked to a friend how well the admiral was looking. Near the Berkeley theater Admiral Schley started across the street and as he stepped up on the curb passerby saw him fall.

Several persons rushed to his aid and physicians and an ambulance were called, but Admiral Schley was dead when they arrived. Dr. Miller of Flower hospital said Admiral Schley's death was caused by apoplexy.

Schley's son, Dr. W. S. Schley, said no funeral plans had been made. Admiral Schley had spent the summer at Lake George.

One of the first to reach the admiral's side after he fell, was Commander Elliott Kelley, who had only a short time before met him at the yacht club.

Semi-Official Note Declares No Troops Have Been Sent Ashore at Prevesa—Status Quo Stays Same.

BULLETIN. MALTA, Oct. 2.—Word just received from Tripoli says the Turks and Arabs are entrenched behind the city. Sixty thousand Arabs, said to be armed with Mausers, hold a strong position fifty miles behind the town in a country which is an excellent natural stronghold. An advance guard of stationed twenty miles from Tripoli. The Turkish garrison has left the forts.

BULLETIN. CHIARRO, Switzerland, Oct. 2.—It is reported that on Saturday Admiral Aubrey was suddenly ordered to postpone the bombardment of Tripoli, as there were signs of a possibility of reaching an understanding with Turkey through the intervention of certain powers, thus avoiding a continuation of the war.

Today's advices from Italy state that Deputy De Polce-Guafirda, who unlike the other socialists favors an Italian occupation of Tripoli, has telegraphed the following from Agosta to the Secola at Milan:

"A Turkish squadron transporting troops signalled that it was ready to make a desperate resistance in order to land men and ammunition on the Tripolitan coast. A squadron belonging to the Italian second division is reported chasing the Turks and hoping to overtake them Sunday night or Monday (today.)"

"I learn from a trustworthy source that our ships have begun the bombardment of Tripoli."

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—It was stated at the foreign office that although no offer of mediation had been made, the German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Marschall von Hieberstein, was already working actively at the Turkish capital trying to effect a peaceful settlement between Italy and Turkey.

Peace Proposals Expected.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The outstanding feature of the Turko-Italian war news today is the attempted mediation of Germany, the success of which appears more probable in the light of the statement made at the German foreign office today that a report that the German ambassador at Constantinople had presented Italian proposals for peace was "premature," indicating that such proposals were expected.

Cable communication with Tripoli remains cut off, but the city had not been bombarded up to Saturday midnight, according to refugees arriving in Malta this morning.

A dispatch from the island of Corfu off the Albanian coast, says that two Turkish torpedo boats were sunk and a third captured off Gumentaria by the Italian patrolling fleet.

It is reported from Malta that a British cruiser received a wireless dispatch saying that Tripoli had been occupied by the Italians.

All Reports Censured.

The Italian censorship is keeping the world in the darkness in regard to the progress of the war in the Mediterranean. From Italy itself, Turkey, Tripoli and the seas where the Italian navy is operating, conflicting reports continue to come in.

One cablegram announced definitely that Tripoli had been bombarded and occupied. Another said that no attack on the city has been made. It is certain that the Italians had not attacked the town up to midnight Saturday.

The reports as to the situation at Prevesa are equally conflicting. Turkish officials here confirm a news dispatch which says that the forts had been destroyed and 1,600 troops landed, while Italy gives an emphatic denial of the report, saying that the Italian government had no intention of resorting to acts against the territorial status of Turkey and Europe.

Europe is greatly relieved at the receipt of news that Turkey has agreed Greece that it has no intention of attacking it as had been rumored. The success of the Italian blockade of the Tripoli coast from Tunis to Egypt and its securing of two captured Turkish transports at Taranto and Brindisi respectively.

The impression prevails that the hostilities will be of brief duration. It is believed that Turkey, finding itself unable to dispatch troops to Tripoli, will accept the mediation of Germany.

Landing of Troops Denied.
