

WONDERS TOLD IN PANORAMA

Commissioner Buckley Signs Big Attraction for Land Show.

TO EXPLOIT OREGON'S VALE

Willamette Garden Spot Will Be Well Represented at the Exposition to Be Held This Month in Coliseum.

The present Omaha Land Show will bring to the attention and interest of the people in and around Omaha some decidedly original exhibits, which are to be both educational and entertaining, says Louis W. Buckley, exhibit commissioner, who has just returned from an eight-months' tour of the west. I found that the communities in the great western states that seek colonists and immigration have a desire to improve the opportunities of the exhibitions of the products of the soil and waters, and that they have solved the question of attractiveness through novelty in arrangements of the exhibits.

As an illustration the good people of the beautiful Willamette valley in prosperous Oregon, through the Salem Board of Trade, have had built and painted a wonderful panorama of the valley. It was the work of L. H. Schryer, the artist who made the famed Johnstown flood panoramas and model with its wonderfully effective lights and flood of waters. There is scarcely a person who has not seen or heard of the Johnstown flood attraction at the Buffalo exposition and at many other expositions since that great exhibition. It was so extremely novel and educational as to cause considerable comment and many expressions of praise from all sections of the country.

Schryer also worked on the Creation show that made a sensation on the Pike at the St. Louis exposition and he made a record for fine work at the Seattle exposition in decorative and artistic work.

Costly Production.
The Salem Board of Trade at once arranged with Schryer at a cost of several thousand dollars to arrange and build the Willamette valley panorama and to put it up at the Oregon state fair at Salem. I at once secured it for Omaha. The panorama will cover a space of 60x60 feet and will have electrical effects, smoke from factory chimneys of Salem, the prune dryers in operation, hop pickers in fields, apple orchards with men and women picking fruits, tiny trains and electric cars in operation along the valley, the beautiful scenery and clouds and the rising and setting sun. Mr. Schryer, himself, and one assistant will come and operate the panorama and a score of electric lights will aid in the effects.

Besides this the "Valley" people, taking in such thriving communities and counties as Albany and Linn count, Corvallis and Benton county, Eugene and Lane county, with Salem and its capital county, will form an exhibit of grains, grasses, fruits, preserved stuff, cereals, manufactured articles and woods, that will prove good for both the exhibitors and Oregon, but will also be a fine attraction for the Land show.

BURLINGTON OFFICIALS MEET WITH MR. HOLDREGE

A meeting of Burlington railroad officials was held Tuesday forenoon at the office of General Manager G. W. Holdrege and while no statement for publication would be issued, one of the officials declared that it was probable the Burlington would "abandon some of its work when the snow begins to fly." The policy of retrenchment was discussed at the meeting and the general impression is that the superintendents left with the understanding that there is to be little improvement expenditures this winter and a possible retrenchment in several departments.

General superintendents came to the meeting in special cars. Those who attended were L. P. Allen, superintendent of the Lincoln division; E. E. Young, superintendent of the Alliance division; A. G. Smart, superintendent of the Omaha division; C. Bignell, superintendent of the Lincoln division; L. B. Lyman, superintendent of the Wymore division; C. B. Peckenbaugh, superintendent of the Sterling division; W. M. Wiederhamer, superintendent of the Alliance division; F. G. Robbins, superintendent of the Sheridan division. The superintendent of the McCook division was not present.

SPECIAL TEACHERS TO HAVE ROOM FOR OWN USE

The work of converting the old assembly room on the fifth floor of the city hall into offices for the special instructor in the public schools, will probably begin the last of the present week. It is the intention to divide the room into nine offices, giving one to each of the nine special teachers. When not at work in the schools, the teachers can meet their patrons and the pupils, transacting the great volume of business that is required of them outside of the school room.

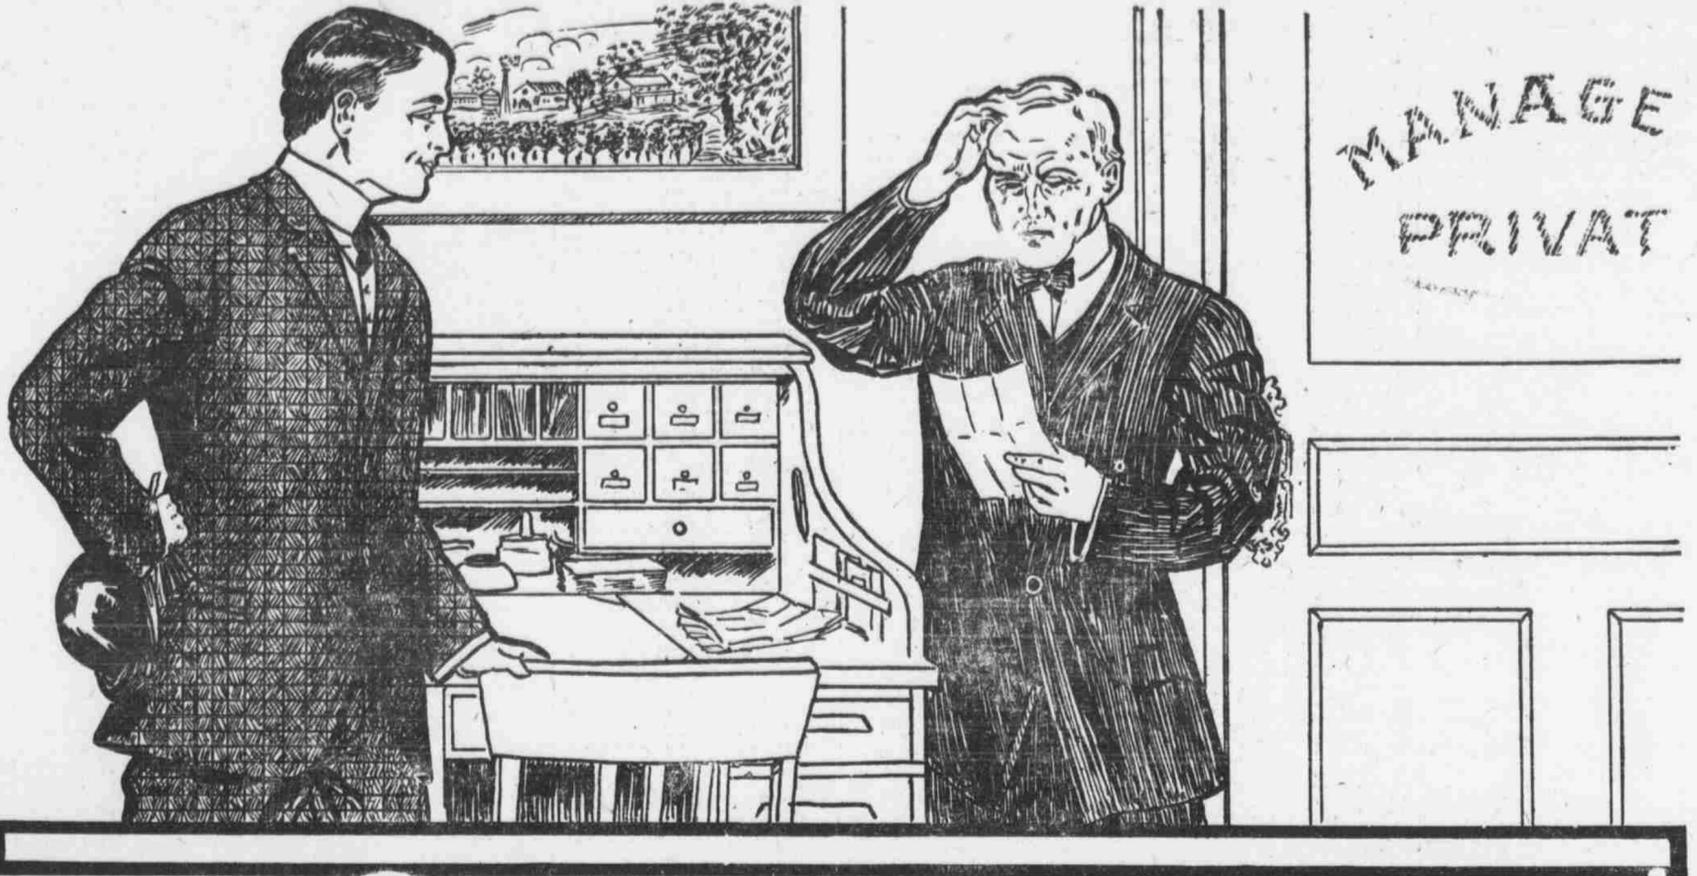

The old assembly room was formerly used as a weekly and monthly meeting place for teachers. During the past few years the teaching force has grown until now, when the room is only about large enough to seat half of the teachers. To solve the difficulty, the auditorium in the Young Women's Christian Association building has been leased, and there the meetings are held. This will be used until the new High School building is completed, when the teachers will probably be assigned the main auditorium, a room enough to seat 1,000 persons, as a meeting purpose.

Salaried man, what are you going to do?

THE day must come when you no longer can stand the pace, when youth must succeed you. Have you provided for that time? Are you assured of independence, peace and prosperity for the rest of your life. The pace in the city throws salaried men out of employment at a very early age in this rapid-progress period; for many the age limit is forty years. When this time comes you should have a

Farm to fall back on

The one who owns a small farm need not worry about the future—he has the best possible insurance—a home with an income. The man in the city, working on a salary, must worry all the time. When he is ill his income producing ability stops, but in the country crops will continue to grow and produce an income even though the owner be incapacitated. Besides, the man with a farm knows the pleasure of treading on his own soil. He is independent and an integral part of the community.

There are places in the west where a 5-acre farm, intelligently cultivated, will give you a comfortable living. Come to the Omaha Land Show and learn all the facts about these wonderful farms and how you can provide for your future.
