

General Manderson's Last March

CARRYING CASKET FROM OMAHA CITY HALL.

The mourners and closest friends passing ground to the east entrance.

As the body was taken into the church it was followed by the members of the Loyal Legion, the Grand Army of the Republic, the army officers, the city officials, pioneers and members of the Pennsylvania club in the order named.

Inside the church, Charles H. Pickens was master of ceremonies. There was no sermon. It was the regular and simple burial service of the Episcopal church. The music was by a quartet from the church choir and consisted of the selections, "The Strife is Over, the Battle Won," and "Abide With Me; Fast Falls the Ev'n Tide."

Concluding the regular services, Rev. Mr. Mackay said:

"By request of Mrs. Manderson, with whom all our hearts beat in loving sympathy today, no eulogy will be pronounced. Our dead friend and gallant comrade needs no eulogy. His eulogy is woven in the land he loved so well.

"He has done the work of a true man. Crown him, honor him, love him; Weep over him tears of woman; Scoop manliest brow above him. For the warmest of hearts is broken. The freest of hands is still And the gap in our home The long years may not fill.

"For him his strife is over, his battle won. The victory of life is won. 'Alleluia!'"

At the conclusion of the services the body was carried to the hearse, the members of the societies taking up positions similar to those previously occupied and the cortege wended its way out to Farnam street and thence east to Seventeenth, north to Capitol avenue, where it disbanded, friends in the carriages going to Forest Lawn, where the burial was private.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS; A SIMPLE REMEDY RESTORES COLOR

Cures Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair and Makes It Grow.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "Sage

BODY IS CONSIGNED TO TOMB

Many Friends Pay Tribute to Gen. Charles F. Manderson.

CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS ATTEND

Elks, Loyal Legion and Grand Army of the Republic in Cortège

Commanded by General Frederick A. Smith.

Mourning relatives and loving friends have paid tribute to the memory of General Charles F. Manderson, respected citizen, brave soldier and distinguished statesman, and gentle hands have laid his body at rest beneath the green sward of Forest Lawn cemetery.

The funeral services were conducted at All Saints' Episcopal church at 10 o'clock Wednesday.

The body of General Manderson, after lying in state in the rotunda of the city hall Tuesday afternoon, was taken direct to the old home, 519 South Thirty-eighth street, where it remained during the night and until removed to All Saints' church. From the residence to the church it was accompanied by the relatives. The pallbearers were:

Active: W. F. Gurley, Charles H. Marley, Clement C. Chase, Isaac E. Congdon, Robert W. Patrick, Arthur E. Walseley

Honorary: Henry W. Yates, E. Wakeley, G. W. Holdrege, Earl Gannett, R. Swobe, Edward F. Peck, Joseph Barker, J. E. Wilbur, L. W. Wakelley, W. H. Munger, George W. Doane, H. F. Rose, Randall Brown, Edson Rich, Frank Walters, Joseph H. Millard.

In the rear of the cortege followed the carriages of some of the intimate friends of the family. The greater number of friends, however, gathered at the church prior to the services.

Many Friends Attend.

All Saints' church was filled to its capacity, space having been reserved in advance for the members of the civic and other organizations of which General Manderson was a member. The balance of the auditorium was thrown open to the public and was filled long before the commencement of the services.

In some respects the funeral took on a distinctively military aspect. General Smith of the United States army, accompanied by his personal staff and the department officers, were in attendance, all in full uniform.

The inside of the church, especially about the chancel, was a mass of flowers. They were banked high on either side.

How English Beauties Peel Their Faces

(From Society World.)

"While abroad recently I could not help observing that the average Englishwoman's complexion is far more beautiful than that of the average woman of our country," says Mrs. Scott, secretary of the National Health-Culture Society.

"Making inquiries, several intimate friends in London confided to me that they regularly used on their faces what is commercially known as mercolized wax. I do not know whether the habit is general there, but I know that this wax has wonderful rejuvenating properties, for I've tried it myself.

"If you will get an ounce of this mercolized wax at your drug store and apply it like cold cream, you will soon behold in your glowing cheeks their first resemblance to the remarkable transparent beauty of the Englishwoman's complexion. This wax gradually peels off the lifeless scarf skin in tiny, almost imperceptible flakes, revealing the fresh new skin underneath, pinky white, with the bloom of youth and health."—Adv.
