C. F. ROBINSON IS MURDERED

Hog Rancher Dies from Fractured Skull Received in Quarrel.

CASE HAD BAFLED DOCTORS

Autopsy Shows Cause of Death—Police Investigate and Learn the Facts—Now Seeking His Assailant.

C. Forbes Robinson, the East Omaha hog rancher, who died at the county hospital Wednesday night after an illness which baffled the doctors for two days, came to his death as the result of a fracture of the skull. This fact was brought out by an autopsy held over the body Thursday afternoon by the coroner. An investigation was begun by the police Thursday night, and it has been learned that Robinson was slugged. Although the police assert they know the man who slugged Robinson, they will not divulge his name. However, when the man is arrested he will be charged with murder. The police and County Attorney English are searching for the murderer and think they will land him some time today. Two witnesses to the slugging made statements in the presence of Mr. English Friday morning and swore to the same.

According to the story given out by the police, Robinson was not slugged with a motive for robbery, as he had some money and a watch on his person when he was arrested Monday morning. It seems that Robinson was brought into Omaha from the hog ranch Saturday afternoon, by a friend. The statements made by the witnesses were to the effect that Robinson got into a quarrel with a man in lower town Sunday morning, but which seemed to have ended with both men good friends. However, a short time after, Robinson was struck in the jaw by his late adversary and knocked to the ground, where his head hit the pavement. He was rendered unconscious. Fearing that he had killed Robinson, the assailant hired two men to hide the body in some weeds at Tenth and Capitol avenues.

Body Left in the Weeds. All day Sunday the body lay in the weeds. At night the offender went to the weeds and seeing the body still there hired the men to take it to Ninth and Lavenport streets, where it was put in a conspicuous place. The next morning Robinson was found by Officer Hagerman at 4:15 o'clock and taken to the station charged with being drunk. There was no blood on his person, but he smelled of liquor and staggered. Tuesday morning Robinson was so weak he was unable to talk and was not taken to the court room. On Tuesday afternoon his condition was such that he was hurried to the county hospital where several doctors worked over him and pronounced it a case of apoplexy. However, his condition became worse until Wednesday night he died, leaving the doctors baffled and disagreeing over the case. The autopsy brought out the fact that Robinson had died as the result of the fractured skull, which he must have received when he was felled by the blow of his assailant.

F. G. Robinson, a brother of the dead man, said that his brother roomed at 817 North Twentieth street and that Saturday afternoon he paid his room rent for the week and at that time he had a large roll of bills in five, ten and twenty dollar denominations. When he was arrested a very small amount of loose change was found on his person. The police say that the man who is wanted for the murder is well known in Omaha.

OLSHUN'S WOUNDS FATAL

Farmer Who is Shot by Brother Dies in South Omaha Hospital.

MURDER CHARGE TO BE FILED

Ill Feeling Had Existed Between Brothers for Some Time and Shooting Was Climax to a Plot Fight.

William Olsahun, who was shot by his brother, John Olsahun, near Papillion Thursday morning, died Friday morning at 4:45 o'clock in the South Omaha hospital. The brother, who is now in jail, must stand trial for murder.

The shooting came as a climax to ill feeling that has existed between the Olsahun families for several months. The brothers live on adjoining ten-acre tracts, and it is said their wives have been at sword's point, widening the breach between the brothers. It was only a short time since that the brothers engaged in a hand to hand fight and since then feeling between them had been intense. John Olsahun is married and has five children. William has no children. The two brothers some months ago got into a quarrel over some cattle that invaded the cornfield of John. William and his wife took offense at the complaint of John and are said to have cut and beat John about the head and face. Following the trouble William, it is claimed, made threats against his brother.

Yesterday morning John was on his way to work for Louis Leader. He took a short cut through the fields that led by the home of William Olsahun. William has been bothered by corn thieves lately and about 5 o'clock was on guard. When the brothers met John claims that William made at him with a big stick, which he mistook for a gun. He claims that he shot in an effort to defend himself.

MAN WHO MADE MILLION IN PRISON COMES TO CONGRESS

Griffith J. Griffith of Los Angeles, Cal., capitalist, reformer and philanthropist, is in Omaha to attend the meeting of the Prison Reform association. On this matter Mr. Griffith speaks with some authority, having spent a term in San Quentin, being convicted on a charge of deadly assault. He admits that the experience was not a pleasant one, but it gave him ideas first-hand which he has embodied in a work on "Crime and Criminals." He also applied himself to business with such assiduity and success that he accumulated $1,000,000 while in prison. Mr. Griffith's last visit to Omaha was in 1878, when he was going west to join the editorial staff of the Alta Californian. He spent his first morning here in going about the city on board a taxicab, and admits that it has grown some since he saw it before. To The Bee he said only his patriotism and exact knowledge of facts prevented him from saying Omaha is a better city than Los Angeles.

H. S. LADS TO RECEIVE PRISON CONGRESS DELEGATES

The high school boys' reception committee to the visiting delegates to the Prison congress, met at the Commercial club Friday afternoon to receive instructions for their work.

Eighteen lads, all officers in the Cadet regiment, will officiate on this committee, and Principal McHugh has made a careful selection of those chosen. There will be three shifts on the committee, one working at the Burlington station, another at the Union, and a third at the Rome hotel. Those assigned to the stations will meet all incoming trains both on Saturday and Sunday, in the morning and in the evening. Their duty will be to act as a ready informant to the visiting delegates and receive and direct them to the various places where sessions of the congress will be held.

Following are the eighteen lads on the committee: Malcom Baldrige, George Grimes, Hugh Millard, Beryl Crocker, Will Noble, Finley Jenkins, Edward Perkins, Rex Houston, Milton Peterson, Horace Blake, Norman Potter, Charles Shook, Harry Jenkins, Fred Kiewit, Clarence Sharp, Paul Mackin, Fred Bucholz and Joe Woolley.

CHANGES SCHEDULED IN RAILROAD LEGAL FORCES

A change in the legal representation of the Missouri Pacific at Omaha is scheduled, Francis A. Brogan having given it out that he will retire from that position not later than the first of the year in order to give attention exclusively to private practice. Quite a number of members of the local bar are said to have signified willingness to take the job, to which the appointment will come from the general solicitor.

A report has also been going around among the lawyers to the effect that the Burlington law department would soon lose its head in the person of James E. Kelby, who was considering a proposition to locate in Los Angeles. Mr. Kelby, when questioned, insists that he has not resigned and that he has no such plan now in contemplation.

Chances for Omaha Folks to Register

D.) reservations had only reached a total of $1,000 up to Thursday evening, thus leaving a splendid opportunity for those registering to be among the successful. ing, as the trip can be made at the weekend with so little lost time, Saturday generally being part holiday. Passengers leaving Omaha Friday evening can register at Dallas and Gregory Saturday morning and get back home Saturday evening, while those leaving Omaha Saturday morning at 9 o'clock can register at Gregory and Dallas same evening and return home on Sunday.
