LADIES RELIEF SOCIETY BALL

Jewish Women Will Hold Big Ball at the Auditorium.

MEET FOR WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

Will Sew an Additional Star on the Flag to Celebrate California. Joining Woman's Rights Column.

The Jewish Ladies' Relief society will hold its sixth annual charity ball November 2 at the Auditorium. The proceeds of this year's ball will go toward providing a maternity ward in one of the hospitals for the society's patients. The society started eight years ago with fourteen members, the object being to care for the sick and poor among the Jewish women and children of Omaha. The size of the organization has kept pace with its activities. It now numbers 100 members. Mrs. J. H. Harris, who is serving her sixth term as president of the organization, and Mrs. E. Kulakofsky, the treasurer, are chairmen of the committee in charge of the ball.

The Society of Fine Arts will meet Thursday morning at the public library. Mrs. W. B. Millard will be leader and the paintings to be discussed will be those of Sir Joshua Reynolds. "The great ancestor of British art."

The Dundas Woman's club will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. L. Hathaway, when the book to be studied will be Hawthorne's "House of the Seven Gables." Mrs. D. C. Dodds will report on current topics.

The Woman Suffrage society will meet Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the Union Outfitting company to sew the sixth star on the suffrage flag in celebration of California voting to enfranchise its women. There will be some music and a talk by Mrs. George Covell, the newly elected vice president of the society.

Mrs. Covell was a member of the first suffrage society in Omaha, started fifteen years ago. She is also an active temperance worker.

"But," says she, "I feel more joyful over California's voting for woman suffrage than sorrowful over Maine's voting to strike out the prohibitory amendment." Mrs. Covell's idea is that with the advent of woman suffrage, the various menaces to society, including the liquor traffic, will disappear.

The activities of the Social Settlement on South Thirteenth street will start Friday evening with a house warming for the young people of the neighborhood. Among the workers who will be present are Miss Clara Schaefer, head resident; Miss Mary Wallace and Miss Joy Higgins.

The settlement library will open this week and the clubs and classes will probably start next week. Miss Grace Sorenson will have a story hour for the children this year, and sewing classes will be conducted by Miss Hazel Degan and Miss Blanche Cohn.

The Visiting Nurse association will hold its annual meeting, with reports and election of officers, Wednesday morning at the Paxton hotel.

City Officials from Towns of State Are Coming to Meeting

Members of the city council are hard at work in anticipation of making the meeting of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, November 15 to 18, inclusive, the best in the history of the organization. It will probably be a week before the program is completed, but it has gone far enough to indicate that the visiting city officials of Nebraska will be kept busy during every minute of their stay here.

Councilman Berka has taken hold of the convention matter and is giving it a goodly portion of his time. Advice received by him indicates that at least 100 Nebraska mayors, councilmen and other officials will be in attendance upon the Omaha meeting. Of course, there will be the regular routine of speeches and business meetings. In addition, there will be plenty of relaxation from hard work. Excursions have been planned to the water works pumping station, a trip through the North Omaha sewer in boats, visits to the South Omaha stock yards, to the gas and electric light plants and to the fire engine houses. A conference has been held with the members of the Fire and Police board and they have promised that at some time during one of the days of the convention they will give the visitors an exhibition of the fire department in action. During the evening of November 16 a banquet will be tendered the visitors at one of the hotels. All of the business meetings will be held in the council chamber of the city hall.

New Turn is Taken in Barbers' Fight

Warrants charging violation of the closed Sunday barber shop ordinance will be sworn out against forty barbers of Omaha open shops Monday, according to C. M. Fieder, organizer for the barbers, who is conducting the campaign for closed shops on Sunday. The barbers who want their day of rest believe they have found a way to effectually close the shops that have been evading the ordinance on a technicality. Since Police Judge Crawford ruled that under the ordinance barbering consists in shaving and cutting hair for money and barbers may render these services for nothing and charge for all other barber services on Sunday many shop proprietors have kept open on Sunday and operated in conformance with this ruling, taking no pay for shaving or hair cutting. The union barbers now will contend that though the journeyman barbers in these shops are not paid by the customers and though the customers may pay no one anything for shaving or hair cutting, the journeymen, nevertheless, receive pay for such services from the employing barbers.

Chief of Police Donahue will have charges filed against twelve journeymen barbers in the Henshaw shop and the union barbers will file charges against enough more to raise the total to forty, according to Fieder. All will be prosecuted on the new theory.
