Wrinkles and Double Chin Removed by Applied Heat

The average woman is often surprised after she has spent good money for them and tried them faithfully, to discover that the numerous patent preparations advertised to remove wrinkles, "crow's feet," enlarged pores and a double chin are not effective, either temporarily or permanently. Also, she becomes rather wary and is loath to believe that the old-fashioned thermozed jelly, which she can buy of any druggist, will surely and safely make wrinkles, enlarged pores and double chin vanish. This supplies heat-energy and nourishment. The first application will show her that thermozed jelly will do more good than all the patent remedies put together. Half a teaspoonful rubbed into the face until it is absorbed, and followed by a wash of very cold water, is the way to obtain best results. Used daily, really marvelous results will follow.

Removing Muddiness and Blemishes from the Complexion

(Ladies' Quarterly Review.)

It is a foolish makeshift to attempt hiding a shallow complexion or, for that matter, a poor complexion of any kind. One can easily clear the skin itself by applying a coaled balsam at night—washing it off in the morning with warm water and soap. The coaled balsam is an enemy of dirt, germs and diseased particles of flesh, which clog the pores and in time cause the face to become unsightly with either sallowness, pimples, liver spots, etc.

There is no reason in the world why you should continue to tolerate these blemishes; coaled balsam will attack them and drive them away once and for ever. The diseased portions of the flesh "flake-off" in tiny particles, revealing the normal, fresh, lovely complexion of youth beneath. You can get your druggist an ounce and a half of coaled balsam. After a few days' treatment the skin will begin to look brilliant and clear and youthful.
