SHERIDAN COUNTY EXHIBITS

Has Splendid Display of Its Resources at the Land Show.

EXHIBIT MOST COMPREHENSIVE

Shows the Wonderful Changes Which Have Been Wrought in the Northwestern Part of the State.

Out in Nebraska, 412 miles northwest of Omaha, 100 miles southeast of the Black Hills section of South Dakota and 200 miles north of Denver, lies Sheridan county, one of the comparatively new divisions of the state. The county is thirty-six miles wide and seventy-two long, crossed by the Northwestern railroad on the north and by the Burlington on the south.

Sheridan county is at the Omaha Land Show and it is here with an exhibit that well represents the interests and industries of the people. The exhibit is purely agricultural, but it is an eye-opener, showing most convincingly that by reason of having tilled the bosom of old mother earth with the plow, the farmers have indeed nature to do what as not been done in many other localities. The farmers have conquered the wilderness and in a few short years have converted a large portion of their section of country into a region that abounds with plenty.

ASSISTANT CITY ATTORNEY OF SOUTH OMAHA RESIGNS.

ROBERT E. MCALLEY.

In operation. No resident of the county is outside of the range of public schools. The county is out of debt and has $75,000 in its treasury, its officials occupying a magnificent fireproof court house erected at a cost of $50,000 in Garden, the county seat. There is no poor house, nor poor farm in the county and what may seem more remarkable, but which is true, since its organization more than twenty years ago, but two persons have asked for or received public assistance.

Resources of County.

Some idea of the resources of Sheridan county may be obtained by the shipments as shown by the books of the Northwestern railroad at its stations during the year 1910. They were all carload lots and were as follows:

Wheat, 208; flax, 1; corn 2; oats, 21; rye, 5; barley, 5; hops, 7; horses, 31; potatoes, 64; sheep, 18; hay, 85; miscellaneous, 21; cattle, 21.

Boasters' Club Active.

In order to make the exhibit the Sheridan County Boasters' club, acting under authority of the commercial clubs of Rushville, Gordon and Hay Springs, appointed Messrs. Oberwetter, Peters, McGrew, Bowman and W. R. Kent as a committee to gather, arrange and show the products of the county. In automobiles these men started out among the farmers and in nearly every instance met with the most flattering success. As a result they are enabled to place before the public an exhibit that represents almost every portion of Sheridan county.

BOYS ESCAPE FROM KEARNEY, CAUGHT IN ST. JOE CRIME

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—Caught in the act of robbing Jerry Wing's haberdashery here at an early hour, Ward Haystet and Elmer Allen, both only 17 years old, are being held for trial in the criminal court. A night watchman passing the store saw one of the lads light a match. Summoning some police officers, he had the place surrounded and then entered it. One of the boys drew an automatic revolver, but was disarmed. In company with Elmer Miller and Ray Stock, Haystet and Allen escaped from the Nebraska State Industrial schools at Kearney, Neb., recently. The lads say they have robbed stores in Sioux City, Ia., and Council Bluffs during the last week.

CASE OF MRS. RUSH TO JURY WITH FEW ARGUMENTS

MASON CITY, Ia., Oct. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—Mrs. Rush was acquitted by the jury after thirty-five minutes' deliberation.

MASON CITY, Ia., Oct. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—By a clever legal movement the murder trial of Mrs. Althea Rush at Hampton, accused of shooting her husband, went to the jury today. Attorney Crook for the state had just made an opening statement, expecting that after the defendant's two attorneys had spoken Attorney Ligitt would make the close. The defendant's attorneys waived their right, thus putting off Attorney Ligitt. Mrs. Rush was on the stand in her own defense, charged with the murder of Vincent Altman, was completed today. Six hundred talesmen were questioned.

WILSON DENIES WARNING LEGISLATORS NOT TO TALK

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Council for the United States senate committee investigating the Lorimer case today charged State Representative Robert E. Wilson with having made a tour of Illinois in April, 1910, for the alleged purpose of warning certain legislators not to talk to anyone of the Lorimer election.

Although Wilson denied this charge and declared that his trip through the state had been made in the interests of the Chipfield commission, a subcommittee of the stand tomorrow.

Wilson was the only witness to appear before the committee today. He related the same story, in essential points, that he told before the previous senatorial committee of inquiry.

BOLT OF LIGHTNING SETS FIRE TO BIG COUNTRY STORE

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Latest estimates place the loss of Peters & Heran, proprietors of a general store at Tea, at $20,000, the loss being caused by a fire which destroyed their store building. The fire originated from a bolt of lightning, the building being struck during a storm. It was the only general store at Tea, which is a small village a few miles south of Sioux Falls, on the Great Northern railroad. The amount of insurance carried by the firm is unknown.

Fifty Golden Years Rounded Off Today

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berckheimer of 3202 Popplinton avenue were married fifty years ago today in Pennsylvania. The golden bride is quietly observing the day in the pleasantness of her home, while Mr. Berckheimer is spending his time as usual as a postal clerk on the Rock Island. He will be home this evening to welcome his wife as he did on the eventful day a half century ago. There will be a few friends there, and they will make merry. Mrs. J. G. Preston, a daughter, together with her husband, are under the parental roof. T. F. Berckheimer, engaged in railroad and living at Cedar Rapids, and Mrs. C. E. Hoover at Friendwood, Tex., are not here to attend the jubilee of their parents. La. M. Hoover, a granddaughter, came from Texas, though, to assist in the celebration. Mr. and Mrs. Berckheimer have three children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Out This Out

Recipe that Breaks a Cold in a Day and Cures Any Curable Cough.

"Mix half ounce of Concentrated Pine compound and two ounces of glycerine with half a pint of good whiskey; shake well and use in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. Any one can mix this. But be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If the drugist does not have it he will quickly get it. Many mixtures are of large quantity and cheap, but it is risky to experiment. This formula comes from a reliable doctor and is certain.

One of our principal up-town druggists states that he sells these ingredients constantly during the winter and that he has seen this mixture work wonders in curing the severest kind of a cough and cold in short order. He advises that it be kept on hand at all times in every family.—Adv.

Your Dealer Must Know

It is wise policy to go to an experienced diamond dealer because he is certain to obtain good qualities and worthy stones when he makes purchases for this store. The experienced dealer is not only likely to be also likely to be deceived himself. This store has been engaged in the diamond business for more than 21 years and knows the value of the stones it buys. Every purchaser receives as much value for his money as he can get at any other store in the country. Wise, sagacious and careful buying makes this possible.

THEFTS OF ART TREASURES

Several Famous Paintings Have Shared the Fate of Da Vinci's Mona Lisa.

Paris stands astounded at the disappearance of Mona Lisa, thirty-five years ago London was stirred by the theft of its new-born wonder, Gainsborough's Duchess of Devonshire. The latter, till now most famous of all the paintings which have played a part in the romances of art by being lost, stolen, argue a degree in importance to Da Vinci's Leonardo, with her enigmatic—and $2,000,000—smile. These two, together with the brown-skinned Madonna of the Mexican convent, killed the Goose Girl, the portrait of Saskia, said to be by Rembrandt, and half a dozen other, comprise the muster roll of those who (to personify them) have been kidnaped.

That most of these paintings have been portraits of women allows at least a hearing for the sentimental plea of infatuation of those who took them. Long-haired persons have stood in tears before La Joconde in the sale carree, and half a dozen poems and letters to this unresponsive lady of the Louvre. The wanderings of the Lost Duchess for a quarter-century stuffed in a tin tube, however, and the generally ready sale of such plunder to art buyers, argue a devotion a bit short of infatuated attachment, and it is likely that Mona Lisa will be held, as were the others, for ransom, not for love.

The last theft of any painting of consequence was that of Millet's Shepherd and Flock from the Golden Gate museum, in San Francisco, in March, 1910. "Impelled by his love for the beautiful," a young artist ruthlessly cut the canvas from its frame. This picture was soon restored. Millet's Goose Girl, together with a Rousseau, was stolen from Frederick L. Ames of North Easton, Mass., in 1882, and was found ten years later. The reward of $1,000 went to the useful purpose of defending the thief against a charge for a second offense in this city.

New York has had some connection with the stories of many lost paintings. The strange recovery of the Mexican Madonna—a piece of art of creditable excellence, but notable chiefly because the models had been Indians, and consequently the characters were represented

DREAMS OF OCEAN FLIGHT

Engineer of Wellman Failure Talks of Crossing Atlantic in Two Days.

The work of filling the saabag of the big airship Akron at Atlantic City has begun. It is more than 200,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas have been pumped into the receptacle. When the expedition is ready to start on the trip across the Atlantic ocean the bag will contain more than 600,000 cubic feet of gas.

Melvin Vaniman, who will head a crew of five men in this second attempt to cross the waters, will not set any specific date for his departure, but declares that just as soon as he is ready he will start. This, in all probability, will be about the middle of this month. More than 100 expert mechanics are working on the airship and every effort is being made to complete the big dirigible.

Of the hundreds of visitors who appear at the hangar here daily many are curious to know why it is that the start across the Atlantic should be made in October. Mr. Vaniman, while the busiest man about the place, is always ready to answer any of the questions put to him.

"The reason we are crossing in October," said he, "is that the government charts show that the air currents are favorable at that time. If we are lucky and should get a good, stiff wind, I believe we could cross the ocean to Europe in two days."

While Mr. Vaniman is a scientist, he is of the opinion that his aeronautical cat, Trent, which accompanied the America last year, will bring him good fortune on the coming trip. Trent is a big, good-natured looking cat and is guarded just as carefully by Mr. Vaniman as though he were the most valuable asset of the expedition. The feline mascot is kept indoors all the time and is never permitted to stray from the sight of the Vaniman family. He is very much attached to both Vaniman and Mrs. Vaniman. In the evening, when the engineer goes to his cottage from the hangar, Trent is always at the door to meet him.

Last year, when Mr. Vaniman was preparing the America for its attempt to cross the ocean, a little, forlorn kitten was found in a sack. The cat became a member of the Vaniman family, and when the America sailed from the shores of Atlantic City last year he was among those present. After the abandonment of the airship and the rescue by the steamer, Trent, it was decided to give the cat the name of the boat. Since then he has borne the name of Trent and has waxed fat and proud in his position as the Vaniman mascot.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Taxes Are Low.

The population of Sheridan county, according to the last census, was 1,228. Taxes are very low, being from $1 to $12 annually on 100-acre tracts of land, being slightly higher on highly improved farms near the town. Unimproved land can be bought at prices ranging from $15 to $25 per acre, the price depending much upon the location and the character of the soil. Many of the lands that were formerly used for range purposes. Much of this has now been placed upon the market, and as a sample of their confidence in the future of the county, they are offering to sell this land to men who will move upon it and improve it on cash payments as low as one-fifth of the purchase price, the balance on long time and easy payments.

During recent years the farmers have given much attention to hog raising, and strange as it may seem, a case of hog cholera has never been known in the county.

Sheridan county has first class schools and numerous churches. Each of the towns—Rushville, Gordon and Hay Springs—has high schools as well equipped as those of any other in the country districts there are ninety schools
