Trained Seals Want to See the Land Show

Charley Alaska, one of Captain Tiebor's trained seals which are entertaining the crowds at the Collseum this week, has fallen under the spell of the great Land show and sometimes when his desire to celebrate with the throngs of people is promptly queiled by the captain he becomes unruly and threatens the trainer with dire things.

Tuesday the continual hum of conversation and the ceaseless beat of trampling feet was too much for Charley. He kept his eye on the trainer until he saw him safely lost in the crowd about the Salem panorama and then, with a flip of his tail, he silently bounded over the edge of his tank and, with a few awkward jumps, cleared the enclosure about the space and began making friends with a small boy who was badly frightened at

Bud Brutus, who is loyal and not always of an optimistic inclination, was ill-pleased with his brother seal's behavior and, with a great and angry grunt, leaped out of the tank and went after him. He succeeded in surprising Charley and was chastising him properly, but the punishment was accompanied by too much noise and the captain entered the field of war.

With a broom he beat the two rebels and drove them back into their tank, although they fought back bravely, Charley taking the opportunity to prove that was not a coward even if Bud had licked him. After the retreat had been effected with some damage to the broom the captain forgot the incident and returned to Salem. Bud was thoroughly riled and, after he had peeped over the edge of the tank and made sure his master had gone, he renewed the conflict with Charley. But it was abruptly ended. A janitor was sweeping the space and the whish of his broom was heard by Bud. Without investigation he gave up the fight and with a whine began a great splashing in the water as if enjoying a wild, free submarine voyage

Dermatologist Gives Complexion Secret

The great secret of keeping the face young is to keep off the dead cuticle," said Dr. J. Mortimer Mitchell, the noted English dermatologiet, now visiting this country. "It is well known that the surface skir is constantly dying, falling off in imperceptible particles, except in some diseased conditions, when the same appear like dandruff. But the particles do not drop off immediately they die, being held for awhile by the live akin.

"To have the dermatological surgeon peel off the entire cuticle at one time is a painful and expensive process The same result is obtained by applying ordinary mercolized wax, as you would cold cream. This is both painless and inexpensive. The wax, procurable at your drug stores, hastens the natural shedding process. It gradually absorbs the dead and half-dead revealing the new, healthy. youthful-looking skin beneath .- Adv.

KATE BARNARD A WHIRLWIND California Shows

Woman from Oklahoma Comes Rightly by Her Title.

SPEAKS AT PRISON CONGRESS Little Woman Who Makes Her

Appears-Holds a Public

Presence Felt Wherever She

She never had a home because her mother died when she was a baby and she had to be "boarded out" while her father was at work. But she knows how to cook and believes that girls should be taught how to make bread and ple and make homes. She never had a college education be cause when she was at the period when girls are sent off to boarding school and college, there were little boys and girls in her town going around neglected, underfed, scantily clothed and uneducated; and she had to get busy right away and see that they were cared for. That's Kate-Kate Barnard, the "Oklahoma Whirlwind," at the Prison congress, who makes the college professors, riminologists, prison wardens and chaplains sit up and take notice when her burning words come down into their midst like lava from an overcharged vol-

Don't be mistaken, Kate isn't a suffragette. She's entirely too busy cleaning up Oklahoma politics to go around clamoring for a chance to vote. Her time is too much taken up with her duties as state commissioner of charities and corrections to which she has been elected two terms, to kick up a fuss because she man't the ballot. Kate isn't a politician. Republicans, democrats, socialists-they are all one to her. And yet she is an old hand at stump speaking and her name is more amiliar to Oklahoma legislators than that of almost any one else in the state. It's laws that Kate wants-laws that will nake society happier and better.

Kate len't a writer. She doesn't name hetoric among her accomplishments. But it was she who wrote three of the most humane planks to the Oklahoma constitution four years ago-the compulsory education and child labor laws and the plank providing for a state chairty department.

But Kate is an orator, She's a wee little mite of a thing, but when she gets up on platform and fixes those big blue-black eyes of hers on her audience she "has" them and she holds hem right up to the very last word. The spirit of her Irish ancestors who for centuries have fought for their lib erties rises in her and keeps her going Kate doesn't make up her speeches be forehand and recite them to herself in her own room.

Many Novelties at the Big Land Show

The San Diego and Los Angeles exhibits at the Land show are rich not only in gems and fruits and flowers and grains, but also in what J. A. Jasper and L. Wilson, who are in charge, call novelties."

Among these novettles are several strings of beads of an ancient manufacure, one that is becoming again the ogue of the women of California after in the Missouri Pacific wreck Sunday, cars of disuse and oblivion.

These beads are constructed of the nill thirty-six times, moistened with olive oil and then laid away to harden City, Kan., for burial. The fragrant perfume of these quaint lar intervals a large bead is placed and Crook has been inlaid like on expensive mosale with the most painstaking care and with much patience and labor.

Another "novelty" which has created an endless succession of comment is a portiere constructed altogether of the seed pods of the eucalyptus tree. This urtain cannot be in the least degree lassed as a crudity, but is a beautiful ornament. It is much used in the bunga-
