TURKS HAVE NO NAVAL TERM

Development of Marine Hindered by Poverty of Language.

ENGLISH CRIME DECREASING

British Prison Commission Reports Falling Off of Fourteen Thousand in Number of Persons Incarcerated.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The discussion incident to the present unpleasantness between Italy and Turkey of the unpopularity of the Turkish fleet has recalled an unusual difficulty experienced by the founders of the original Ottoman navy.

English Crime is Decreasing

The report of the British Prison commission, just made public, indicates that crime is on the decrease in the kingdom, as there is a fall of 14,000 in the number of prisoners. The commission's denunciation short sentences and plea for longer terms with a view to successful reformatory effects. The report bears testimony to the good moral effect of lectures and concerts in the prisons.

Last 'Bus to Quit

When Andrew Gibson, for thirty-seven years the driver of an omnibus in London, throws down his reins some night near the end of the present month, the last horse-drawn 'bus will have finished its final trip through the streets of the world's metropolis.

Friend of Twain Broke

Joseph Verey, friend and courier of Mark Twain during nine of the European tours made by the American humorist, has been rescued from want by a society of professional humorists. Verey left the place of poverty from the loss of his savings, which had been unwisely invested, and he was in actual want when discovered in obscure London lodgings by a local paper's representative. ## JUST THE SAME HOT BALL

Fifty Million Years in Business Without Showing Up a Wrinkle.

A book on the sun has just been published by Charles G. Abbott, director of the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, which is intended for the general reader as well as for the scientist. It begins with an introduction covering the various branches of solar investigation, and follows with more specific discussions well illustrated by photographs and drawings.

that the temperature is too great to permit its being in a solid or liquid condition. As the temperature attributed to the sun, 6,500 degrees absolute, would melt any known substance, it seems only reasonable to believe this statement.

He further states that the specific gravity is too low to permit the sun's mass being other than gaseous.

The visible part of the sun is in the form of a gaseous shell, known as the photosphere. It is clear and incandescent, due to the great temperature. Although it is theoretically probable that the diameter of the sun is slowly decreasing at a certain rate, due to radiation and contraction, it cannot be decided practically, as it would take 30,000 years to cause an appreciable change in the solar diameter. Even after transmitting energy to the earth, in the form of light and heat, through some 33,000,000 miles of space, during a period of about 20,000,000 years, the sun is apparently none the worse for wear.—N. Y. Post.
