The last practice Thursday night was held before a hords of rooters who turned out to encourage the team. While the crowd was present the work was confined to signal practice, but later the gates were closed and a short scrimmage held with the freshmen. This was for the purpose of trying out some new plays, which went fairly well against the first year men. The varsity was excused early and taken to a banquet at one of the local hotels and from thence to the train Light work will be done tomorrow on the grounds of St. Thomas college in seapolis.

Omaha's first big foot ball game of the season will be played this afternoon when Creighton lines up against Morningside. This aggregation furnishes about the best foot ball excitement on Creighton's schedule.

For the last few years these two teams hav taken turns in wining, and in the natural course of events the blue and white bunch is destined for its coveted bacon, having been defeated last year by Morningside. They are now coming equipped with an unusually strong team, bent on overturning tradition. Most of its old man are in the lineup again and they are an altogether seasoned bunch. Creighton has overcome the reverses of its bad start and will present a stubborn front. Practically all of last year's men are again in uniform and all are on edge for to ay's battle.
