CITY OF CANTON IS INDEPENDENT

Demand of Government for Men and Money to Prosecute War is Flatly Refused by the Gentry.

SIACKAN, China, Oct. 28.—(From a Correspondent with the Imperial Army Under General Yin Tehang)—The native city of Hankow was recaptured from the rebels after a day of sanguinary fighting. The imperialists captured large quantities of guns and ammunition.

The fighting recommenced in the direction of the Tachih gate of Hankow. The rebels were strongly entrenched west of the gate. The imperialists forced their way across Saotia bridge and seized the town of Lichia. Driving the enemy before them the loyal troops entered the native city of Hankow.

The imperialists lost about forty killed, including a captain and two lieutenants, while 450 others were wounded. The rebels lost 420 men.

PEKING, Oct. 28.—The minister of war, General Ying Tehang, in a report to the government today describes a victory over the rebel forces in the vicinity of Hankow.

The first division of the imperial army advanced from Shekou yesterday, attacking the position of the rebels. The imperialists crossed Saotia bridge, defeating the enemy with much slaughter and capturing large quantities of guns and ammunition. Lichia was seized and the army advanced and occupied the Chinese city of Hankow.

General Yin Tehang is now at Siackan, otherwise known as Kiliometer Twenty. He further reports that he has sent troops to How and Ying Cheng in which district it is reported the rebels are assembling. These troops will also protect the railway communication which is threatened by the rebels.

Yesterday's fighting took place during a heavy rain. The troops fought with great vigor.

Canton Refuses Funds.
Canton is practically in a state of independence. The city has declined to contribute men or money for the support of the government in the present crisis.

The central government demanded large sums as a special military contribution but the victory of Kwai Tung, after consultation with the gentry, early replied that it was impossible to supply the funds, as at a meeting of gentry it had been determined to refuse the demand and that Canton should look after its own interests. The business of the city is proceeding peacefully.

The government has succeeded in obtaining a large loan from a French and Belgian syndicate. The amount is not divulged but the issue price is ninety-six with 6 per cent interest.

The board of foreign affairs announces that service on the Peking-Hankow railway will be resumed next Monday.

The foreign board also states that 5,000 loyal troops are marching on Chang Sha, now in possession of the rebels. The troops are proceeding from Yu Chow. The recapture of Pin Sen, a city in the Chien province, by the government forces is officially confirmed.

RULES AGAINST TWO CHALLENGES

McNamara Court Holds Jurors Winter and Framptom Competent.

DEFENSE ENTERS OBJECTION
Federal Grand Jury in Indiana May Indict McNamara for Illegal Transportation of Explosives.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 28.—Judge Walter L. Bordwell today decided a four days' controversy over Talesman A. C. Winter in the McNamara murder trial by refusing to excuse him from jury service.

The defense challenged Winter after he had said that he had a fixed opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, but told attorneys for the state that he could give a fair trial.

Further examined by the defense, he said it would take evidence to remove his opinion.

The judge also retained Talesman Walter N. Framptom, who was challenged by the defense because he said he believed that labor unions blew up the Times building and that John J. and James B. McNamara were guilty of the deed.

"I have examined the record very closely," said the court, "both as to Winter and Framptom and have given special attention to the testimony that Mr. Winter gave here day before yesterday, and I am going to ask Mr. Winter a few questions with reference to that matter again."

"Did you make a speech two years ago at the Merchants' exchange about the time of a strike here on the labor question?"

"I may have talked on the subject, but made no speech," answered Winter. "I don't remember any speech."

Attorney Darrow entered objections to the ruling on Winter and Framptom.

Talesman T. J. Lee was excused after he had said he would not convict in a capital case on circumstantial evidence.

May Face Other Charges.
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—That, according to information in the possession of the United States district attorney, a conspiracy unlawfully to transport dynamite from state to state has existed with headquarters in the offices of John McNamara here is the statement of a petition filed in the county criminal court today praying for possession of evidence in the case to be used in a federal grand jury investigation.

John J. McNamara, James B. McNamara, Orrie E. McNaminal and others working in concert with them are the persons alleged by the United States attorney for this district, Charles W. Miller, to have engaged in the conspiracy. Dynamite and nitroglycerine were unlawfully transported on passenger trains in interstate commerce through Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Missouri and California, according to the petitioner.

Admissions, incriminating letters and other evidence, the petition recites, are contained in books, papers and boxes of explosives and weapons seized by the police in a raid on the offices in this city of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, of which John J. McNamara is secretary and found in a box at the home of D. Jones, an iron worker, and at the lodging of John J. McNamara. All this evidence is now in charge of Judge Joseph Markey of the criminal court and it is desired for a federal grand jury inquiry to be opened on November 7.

It was partly on the evidence described that the grand jury here returned an indictment against John J. McNamara, charging conspiracy to destroy property by dynamite. Judge Markey denied a petition that the evidence be taken to California for use in the trials of the McNamaras there.

TAFT FAILS TO REGISTER

President Cannot Vote Because Formality is Neglected.

CERTIFICATE IS NOT ATTESTED
He is Notified by Mail and Letter Does Not Reach Him Promptly—Second Certificate is Too Late.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—President Taft today again changed his plans for his travels after leaving Pittsburg on Tuesday and incidentally learned that he had failed to qualify as a voter at the elections to be held on November 7. He failed to register and received word from Cincinnati today while entering on an afternoon train for Chicago, that he will not be eligible to vote this fall.

The president's new itinerary will take him from Pittsburg to Morgantown, W. Va., instead of direct to Hot Springs, Va. From Morgantown Mr. Taft will go direct to New York City to review the Atlantic fleet on November 2.

After inspecting the fleet, the president will go to Hot Springs to stay until November 6, when he will proceed to his home in Cincinnati, despite the fact that he cannot vote.

Mr. Taft was much disappointed over the fact that he had failed to register and was also chagrined to learn that ignorance of the registration laws had been his undoing primarily and that the lack of necessary speed by the post office had finally barred the chief executive of the land from voting.

The president sent his registration papers from the west a couple of weeks ago, but did not have them attested by a notary. He later received word that his unsealed signature would not be acceptable under the laws.

Secretary of State Will Decide.
CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 28.—According to members of the Cincinnati board of elections it has not been definitely determined that President Taft is barred from voting for city and county officers here on Tuesday, November 7. Secretary of State Graves will, it is expected, render his decision early next week.

MacFarland and Wife Had Agreed to Live Apart

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8.—The unhappy domestic relations of Allison MacFarland and the wife he is accused of murdering were described in a written statement made by MacFarland through his attorney today.

"For about five years my wife and myself had been considering a separation which we realized as inevitable," says MacFarland. "Neither could enter into pleasure or pursuit of the other. We did not consider either of us at fault; it was simply our misfortune that we were badly mismatched; we lived our lives largely apart."

"While our affairs were unsettled, she had the choice of remaining with me and taking one-half of the things, as I had them, or going to Maine until it blew over. She chose Maine and refused to come back until things were more prosperous, as her letters will show."

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Dora E. Doxey, charged in St. Louis county with a bigamous marriage with W. J. Erder, for whose death she was acquitted after a murder trial, will never face a criminal judge again because of illness, according to prosecuting attorney Mills of St. Louis county. Mills returned today from Savannah, Tenn., where he obtained statements from physicians. The charge against Mrs. Doxey has been continued indefinitely.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 28.—Suit for an injunction against the Keokuk and Hamilton Water Power company was filed today in the United States circuit court by the Mills-Ellsworth company of Keokuk, Ia. The concern asked that the power company be restrained from continuing the construction of a dam across the Mississippi river from Keokuk to Hamilton. The Mills-Ellsworth company claimed that when the dam is completed water will back up, resulting in great damage to real estate along the river.

The engineer and fireman of the passenger train were killed almost instantly and the other two who are dead were unidentified Italian laborers who were in the caboose at the rear of the freight train.

The testimony showed that Boerner employed "Chicago Jack" Daly, a pugilist, to assault Denon and other nonunion printers and that he in turn hired Daniel Cassidy, "Mummy" Wilson, John White and T. A. Garrity to do the work.

ALL BOOST FOR LAND SHOW

Merchants, Jobbers and Hotel Men See Its Good Results.

HELPS TO SETTLE THE WEST
Joseph Hayden is Impressed with the Sincerity and Gentleness of the Show, Which Works for Great Good.

Business men say the Land show, by locating easterners in the agricultural territory west of Omaha, will be a big factor in building up Omaha. Here are the opinions of a few of them:

Rome Miller, speaking of the Land show, said:
"My opinion of the Land show cannot be expressed in a few words. It is so far-reaching in an educational way, and valuable as a means of inducing increased immigration to this western country, and so valuable to Omaha and Nebraska in particular, that the whole proposition is worthy of a more than passing comment."

"Population never recedes from the Pacific coast states, or the states lying between Nebraska and the coast. Nebraska and the west must look to the east for its growth. Anything that tends to build the west builds Omaha and Nebraska. I care not where an easterner lands, so that it is west of the Missouri river. The wholesale trade of Omaha must look to the west for its patronage and its future development, therefore too much praise or commendation cannot be placed upon the management of this great enterprise, and I sincerely trust it will become an annual institution for Omaha. As a director for several years of the National Corn exposition, I have some knowledge of the vast amount of labor and expense connected with this undertaking. The exhibits themselves were fine, they were artistically assembled and splendidly housed. From the publicity standpoint, there has never anything taken place that has given the widespread publicity to Omaha that the Land show has given it."

Joseph Hayden likes the show.
"The Land show is an exhibition of real merit," said Joseph Hayden of Hayden Bros. "There is a sincerity and gentleness about it that makes one feel good. It shows people how little they have known about their own country, about its possibilities. It ought to make us a little ashamed that we have known so little. It ought to have the effect of awakening people to greater realization of the extreme good fortune of living in the west. The show is one of the big enterprises of Omaha and the west and as such it has my sincere approval and good wishes."

Escape of Alleged Rustler Causes Stir Among the Officers

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The escape of Tom Moore, the alleged horse rustler, from the jail in this city Wednesday night has stirred trouble for several people. It was alleged that the janitor at the jail said he was offered $500 to help Moore escape. This coming to Judge Hughes, Sheriff Laughlin, Jailor McMillen, Janitor Reisdorfer of the jail force of this county, and several other witnesses were called into court at Fort Pierre to make what explanation they could in regard to the matter. All told, evidently all they knew in regard to the matter, the janitor denying that he had ever been made such an offer, only saying that he believed that others west of the river would give $500 to help Moore get away, or words to that effect.

Jailor McMillen told of the manner in which Moore made his escape, and the matter was allowed to rest until Friday morning, when other witnesses were called, among them Tolbert Maupin, an old-time resident of Stanley county, now living at Dupree. He told too much at the start and failed to go far enough to satisfy the curiosity of Judge Hughes as to the effect that he attempted to see Moore after coming here, and the sheriff would not allow him to communicate with the prisoner. That he had a verbal message from a woman for Moore, but did not deliver it. When asked who sent the message and what it was he refused to tell, and he was committed to jail until he saw fit to divulge the information demanded, or until the judge saw fit to authorize his release.

Moore was supposed to hold the key to many who have been separated of rustling operations, which was one of the reasons for wanting him so badly.

LAND SHOW NOW THING OF PAST

Big Exposition Ends with the Whistles of Midnight.

DECLARED A MAMMOTH SUCCESS
Children and Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben Swell Crowds on Last Day—Workers Soon Clear Away the Exhibits.

With the blowing of the midnight whistle, the second Omaha Land Show, the most successful of any ever attempted or held, became a pleasant memory. The admiring crowds left the Coliseum reluctantly and were for two weeks order held held fast away, chaos became supreme.

Following the exit of the crowds, an army of workmen entered and within an hour, the beautiful exhibits had almost completely disappeared. Swift and experienced hands had packed away in specially prepared boxes and cases the delicate and attractive sheaves of grain; the green and canned products had been taken from their stations and had been carefully placed in their cases and many were on their way to the cars to be sent home, or to other exhibitions.

Biggest Day of Show.
Saturday was by all odds the greatest day of the Land Show. There were people present and in attendance than during any former day, but they were not farmers seeking lands or new locations; nor were they city people out to see and be seen, but instead, they were those who are to carve out the future destinies of this and the great states to the north and south, the east and the west. They were the boys and girls of Omaha, the surrounding towns and Douglas county.

Many Children There.
It was children's day at the Omaha Land Show and the children were thousands of them, and of all ages and all colors. They swarmed the gates and as they passed, each was given a tube filled with O'Brien's choicest candy, the gift of the Land Show management. During the day they trooped through the building, admiring the exhibits and listening to Ferrulo's band and the Hawaiians, but not once did they attempt to pick the fruit, or disturb the flowers that were on exhibition.

While the children had their day, there were others who had their night, and evidently they constituted the greater population of the city, for it seemed that everybody was in attendance. They comprised the men and women of all walks of life, the rich and poor, for once meeting on the same level and all enjoying the one program that had been prepared for all alike.

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben comprised the largest organization attending on the last night of the Land Show. Of them there were at least 1,200, and the Coliseum being their regular meeting place during the last sixteen years, they felt perfectly at home, as was apparent. They applauded the music and cheered the Land show until the lights high in the ceiling trembled and flickered.

There was no hilarity, but instead, everybody present had a good time. Extra musical selections were rendered and specially composed songs were sung. This program continued until midnight and then the second Omaha Land Show passed into history.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 28.—Claiming that the late Louis P. Ewald, who left an estate of $3,000,000, was of unsound mind, Harry F. Ewald and Rosa E. Damon of St. Louis, brother and sister of the testator, today brought suit here for the annulment of the will and asking that the adoption by the testator of Philip Golden, Helen Golden and Sterling Golden of St. Louis, be set aside. The petitioners charged that Mr. Ewald was unduly influenced by the principal beneficiaries of the will. Mr. Ewald was for many years a steel manufacturer of western Kentucky.

REPUBLICAN PARTY'S RECORD
What it Has Accomplished When in Power in the State.

DEMOCRATS DESERVE DEFEAT
Nebraska Can Only Make Progress by Turning Down Crowd that is Now Seeking to Gain Control of the State.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Governor Aldrich spoke here tonight in one of the largest gatherings that ever assembled in this town to listen to a political speech. He addressed his remarks largely to W. J. Bryan, his speech being something in the nature of a reply to the address recently delivered here by the Peerless Leader. Mr. Bryan urged the progressive republicans to vote the democratic ticket this fall; Governor Aldrich pointed out very clearly that the course advised would only help the democrats and would not be of any benefit to the progressives, and especially not to the cause of Senator La Follette. He was loudly applauded as one after another of his telling shots went home.

What the Governor Said.
Governor Aldrich spoke carefully, but emphatically, and said:
"A short time ago democracy's distinguished leader spoke in this city and with his usual graceful, plausible fluency advised duplicants to vote the democratic ticket on November 7, next.
"This is not an unusual course for Colonel Bryan to take, in fact it is quite the usual thing for him to do for he has not in twenty years failed to do this self same thing. It has become a fixed habit with our friend to annually, in the month of October, go out over the state of Nebraska and advise and prophesy, but there is nothing to be alarmed about from a republican standpoint in this matter, because no calamity has ever overtaken the state or the republican party by reason of Mr. Bryan's advice. Why should the republican party be alarmed as to his prophesies for none of them has come true. Mr. Bryan could not help going over the state and thus talking even if he wanted to, and we should not prevent his going even if we could, for he says a great many inspiring things and one and all, without regard to party affiliations, we are always glad to hear him. His splendid abilities, his fine diction, his luxurious imagination and beautiful word paintings make him an attractive, pleasing entertainer."

Question Before Voters.
"Theory and prophecy are always interesting and now and then impel investigation and experiment which may lead to the discovery of some great truth; but at this time there is no occasion for the voters of this state to be regaled with Mr. Bryan's beautiful word pictures or to listen to his prophesies because we have more serious business on hand. What the voter on November 7 next wants to know is, How and in what way can I cast my ballot that will work for the best interest and the greatest good of the nation? What man or men should I vote for to best conserve the interests of good government and common decency in my beloved state?"

"Here is a man running for supreme judge; First, what are his legal attainments? What of his record on the bench? What of his moral character? What of his ability? What of his integrity? What of his honor? Is he free from all entangling alliances? Is his candidacy being supported and financed by some special interest, which from the nature of things will have matters of vast importance in its relation to the people to be decided upon by this court?"

Supreme Court of Importance.
"It is of vast importance to the people of this state to know that our supreme court maintains its present state of efficiency. I have been practicing before the supreme court of Nebraska for twenty years, and I am here to say now, open and above board, that the Nebraska supreme court never had more ability, more character upon its supreme bench than it has at the present time, and let us see to it in spite of the advice
