Men Paid Expenses by Stephenson Say it Was Not Bribe

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30.—More details of charges that Senator Isaac Stephenson, by spending $107,000 in a primary campaign, had secured his election through bribery, were made today before the senatorial investigating committee.

H. R. Pestalozzi declared he never had been offered a bribe to desert F. H. McGovern, another republican candidate, for Stephenson, as was set forth in the specific charges sent to the United States senate.

Leo Kalpinak admitted that while working to promote the candidacy of S. A. Cook in the primaries of 1906, he accepted expense money from Senator Stephenson, but he denied it was intended as a bribe.

State Senator Paul O. Husting, a member of the committee which framed the Stephenson charges, was examined as to the statutes by which the committee was governed.

Explaining the detail with which the investigation has been conducted for four weeks, Senator W. B. Heyburn, the chairman, declared he never had any shall say we neglected any part of these charges, or that we have attempted to whitewash Senator Stephenson.

The inquiry as far as hearings in Milwaukee are concerned, probably will be concluded late today or tomorrow.

Taft Proves Philosopher

In the last twenty years, will silently pass before the presidential reviewing stand. Sixty thousand miners are expected to attend the meeting.

After luncheon President Taft will go to the Water Street wharf on the Monongahela river, and assist the Western Pennsylvania Historical society in commemorating the beginning of steam navigation on the western rivers. The New Orleans, the first steamboat to navigate the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in 1811, was built by Nicholas J. Roosevelt. A replica of the New Orleans has been constructed and will make a short trip down the Ohio under its own steam. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the daughter of former president Roosevelt and a great-grand niece of Nicholas J. Roosevelt, will christen the New Orleans.

In the evening the banquet of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will be held in Memorial hall, which has just been erected at a cost of $2,000,000 by Allegheny county, in memory of the men who fought during the civil war. It is the first banquet to be held in Memorial hall and therein lies a story.

Arrangements had been perfected to hold the banquet at the Hotel Schenley, but requests for tickets were so numerous that there was not room in the hotel, and the scene was shifted to Memorial hall. It was to have been a "wet" banquet, but committees of old soldiers and the county commissionaries of the Chamber of Commerce that it would be against the law of the Memorial to serve liquor within the hall, and it was announced that the banquet would be "dry."

It had been planned to extinguish the lights in the big auditorium suddenly and the waiters were to have entered from all sides of the banquet room carrying dishes of flaming brandy. It was conceded that the picture of 300 tongues of flickering blue flames being carried about the darkened hall and finally placed before each diner would have been effective. But the prospect of this picture was knocked into a crooked hat when liquor was barred, and the artistic chef's only consolation now is the fact that the service guard of the president would not have allowed the lights to have been turned down anyway.

The modulating pedals and the mechanism to carry the tune above the accompaniment are marvels of simplicity.
