Harry Mason Drives

Into Omaha Behind

Team of Malamutes

Harry Mason drove into town last night from Cape Nome, Alaska. He had heard that F. J. Kolash, postmaster at Nome, by whom he was employed a few years ago to deliver mail over a small route of about 500 miles, was here, and he drove in to see him on a reversible sled-wagon behind even malamutes and nine huskies. Although Mason doesn't say so "malamutes" and "huskies" mean dogs.

Both men are snowbound in Omaha. Neither can get home because of snows in the north which have cut them off, but Mason doesn't care. He and his wife, who is traveling with him, have until most any time after May 1, 1912 to get back home.

For a standing prize of $10,000 offered by the All Alaska Sweepstakes Race company, promoters of the annual spring race between Nome and Candler Creek, Mason is attempting a dog trip around the world. He started from Nome, October 27, 1906 and must reach San Francisco by May 1, 1912, with two of the twenty dogs with which he started his trip, still alive. Only three of the original dogs at present are living. The others have disappeared through theft and death by poison and accidents. Mason will visit Kolash, who is stopping at the home of an aunt, Mrs. Anna Palik, 1820 North Thirty-fifth street, leaving the city today.

Commemorate Death

of the Irish Martyrs

Several hundred loyal sons and daughters of Erin who attended the exercises held in Creighton auditorium last night in commemoration of the hanging of the Manchester martyrs forty-four years ago in England allowed their thoughts to wander back to the land of their ancestors for an interesting program had been arranged to keep alive the memory of the men who sacrificed their lives for a principle.

The Rev. Father M. A. Shine, who was the principal speaker of the evening addressed the crowd, telling them of the struggles for freedom of the Irish for the last eight or nine centuries. C. P. Heafey made the opening address in which he pointed with pride to the indomitable courage of the Irish race, and he congratulated the audience for their patriotic made evident by their attendance to the commemoration services. Miss Mary Ryder sang two pretty Irish songs which held the crowd as if under a spell, and the Creighton Glee club also gave several selections. The South Omaha Ancient Order of Hibernians band played a number of patriotic airs which seemed to give the audience an inspiration. A recitation, "The Three Martyrs," by T. J. O'Leary was heartily applauded as were songs by Arthur Linn and Mrs. M. Harte.

Mrs. Susan J. Christie, who with her husband, William B. Her sickness had taken her to bed only at intervals, however, and until a week ago, she was in good health, considering her age, 67 years.

Mrs. Christie is survived by her husband, who is well known in Omaha as "Uncle Bill," two sons and a daughter. The daughter, Mrs. F. N. Shelton resides in Bluewater. N. M. The sons, B. W. and C. W. Christie live in Omaha.

Mr. Christie, having been connected with Omaha republican politics for years, is at present city sewer inspector. He was married to Mrs. Christie, Susan J. Farrell, at Lebanon, Ia., and they removed to Omaha six years later, in 1887.

OFFICERS TO AID M'NAMARAS

Starred Labor Officials Requested to Give Week's Pay.

JOB HARRIMAN IS ENDORSED

Gompers' Resolution Favoring Socialist Candidate in Los Angeles is Adopted—Says Witnesses Threatened.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24.—By a vote of 125 to 7, the convention of the American Federation of Labor late today requested all starred officers of the federation and affiliated unions to give one week's pay to the McNamara defense fund. President Gompers estimates that about $50,000 thus will be added to the fund, now reported to be $250,000.

Another action aimed to help the McNamaras was the adoption of a resolution framed by President Gompers himself endorsing the candidacy of Job Harriman, the socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, and calling upon wage-workers all over the country to give such moral and financial support to Harriman's campaign as lies within their power.

Leaders in the convention headed off the proposition to have the body make a direct appropriation of $50,000 for the McNamara fund. A sum greater than that by $10,000 will be raised by the voluntary subscription of labor officials if all respond to the appeal. Several speeches denunciating the prosecutors of the McNamaras were made during the day.

one Los Angeles delegate making the statement that $50,000 would be spent if necessary to secure their conviction.

Justice Wright Scored.

News of Justice Wright's decision in Washington today reached the convention as resolutions characterizing the Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison case as a "persecution" were being read. Mr. Gompers then explained the status of the case to the delegates and attacked Justice Wright, asserting he would not render "a just and impartial decision," in any organized labor case.

Vice President John Mitchell, one of the defendants, told the convention he was opposed to the federation spending any more money in defending him in this case.

"If the vindictiveness of Justice Wright cannot be escaped," he said, "I want to serve my sentence and get it over with."

In spite of the declaration the convention voted to continue the defense of the three leaders. Practically all of Mr. Gompers' recommendations in his annual report were endorsed.

The convention refused by 80 to 34, to adopt a resolution proposed by the postal clerks opposing 1-cent letter postage.

BULLET FROM TARGET RIFLE

PINKS JAMES SILK IN LEG

Paul Dillon, the 15-year-old son of Michael Dillon, 1846 North Sixteenth street, stood on his back porch yesterday afternoon to shoot his new .22-caliber rifle, and like Longfellow's arrow, the bullet "fell to earth, he knew not where."

James Silk, 11 years old, standing in front of a house, 1826 Seventeenth street, a block away received the lead ball in the calf of his left leg.

The injured lad was carried to his home, 1846 North Sixteenth street, where Mrs. LeRoy Crummer and C. C. Allison treated the wound with a temporary dressing. He will be taken to St. Joseph's hospital this morning to have the bullet extracted.
