

WANTS UNIFORM MAIL CARS

Omaha Man Goes to Washington to Help Formulate Plans.

MEETS WITH RAILROAD MEN

Mail Cars for Each Road Are Now of Different Construction and Government Wants Them More Uniform.

Assistant Superintendent Frank D. Johnston of the fourteenth division of the railway mail service will leave Omaha for Washington some time during the latter part of the week to attend a meeting of representatives of all the railroads doing business in the United States for the purpose of helping to draw up plans for a standard steel mail car to be used by all roads.

It means that each foreman of every car shop has a different idea of how a mail car should be constructed, said Mr. Johnston, and as a result there are some of the most outlandish contraptions conceivable used in the service. It not only causes much trouble to the clerk, but expense to the government, and a uniform car which could be made just as easily as not, would quickly do away with all bother.

Warmer Weather is Coming This Way

Weather reports received at the railroad offices indicate that the present cold wave is not to be of long duration and that by Thursday it probably will be much warmer. The same reports indicate that the present cold wave has been widespread, extending from Montana and the Dakotas far down into Oklahoma and from western Wyoming over into Illinois, with a fall of snow ranging from one to six inches covering the entire section.

So far as the weather reports to the railroads go Nebraska seems to have been the favored locality, at least the weather has not been so cold in this state as elsewhere. The storm and the cold has interfered somewhat with the movement of trains, all of them today being from one time to six and eight hours late. When they do arrive the coaches are covered with snow and ice hanging on the engines.

Passengers arriving from the east say that Monday night was a terror over in Iowa, and Illinois. All night the wind blew a gale, the velocity attaining in some places sixty miles per hour. Snow that had been falling most of the day and late into the night was driven about with conditions took every form of a well-developed blizzard. During the night it grew much colder and throughout central Iowa in many places the mercury marked 2 to 3 degrees below zero.

DR. MATTHEWS TO STUDENTS OF UNIVERSITY OF OMAHA

"Loyalty to Loyalty" was the theme of Dr. Shaylor Matthews address Monday afternoon before the students of the University of Omaha. Dr. Matthews is dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, is a member of the athletic board of that school and has been closely associated with the growth and expansion of the Midway institution. His remarks were largely along the line of "true sportsmanship in athletics."

"The work of the college," said Dr. Matthews, "is to teach every man to get into the game and make himself a unit in the team play, for this team work, or institutionalizing one's self, is the greatest thing in life. It is the tone of your activities more than anything else which is going to give the tone to the spirit you have."

NEW PLUMBING NEEDED AT EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

The city council will be asked for an appropriation to pay for repairing and remodeling the City Emergency hospital at 160-16 1/2 Douglas. Robert U. Wolfe, chief boiler inspector, has completed a thorough examination of the plumbing of the hospital, which was torn out by vandals, and finds that it will require new return pipes on the ground floor, new vent cocks to the return pipes, new perforated cast iron tops for the radiators, new radiatory valves, a safety valve and steam gauge for the boiler and four new radiators.

Uncle Sam to List the House of Hope

Since Rev. Charles Savidge started the House of Hope five years ago he has expended on charity $25,000, or an average of $5,000 a year. When he started the home he did not have 10 cents to use for the work.

The government has sent Rev. Savidge a blank, wanting to know if the charity work in which he is engaged should be included in its charity list. He wrote back, saying that he thought it should be included in the list, and the government is going to act on the matter in the near future. Among the questions which they asked him pertaining to his work was whether the people he was taking care of were in any way able to support themselves. He told them that over one-third of the people he is taking care of pay nothing toward their support and the remainder very little. Another question which was put to him was whether the charity work in which he is engaged is a financial benefit to any corporation or individual, to which Rev. Savidge answered that it was not.

Services will be held at the House of Hope Thanksgiving afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. The services will be composed of music and addresses. In the evening prayer and healing services will be held at the People's church.

GRUMMANN INTERPRETS GEMS OF MUSIC AND DRAMA

The lectures given yesterday afternoon by Prof. Paul Grumann at the Young Women's Christian association addition were well attended and there was marked interest in both subjects which he discussed. The first hour of the lectures was given up to the discussion of "Haldor or Haldur the Good, the shining one." Interesting comment, upon the relation of the Christian to the classical thought of the matter, the rise of many of the Christian stories and legends connected with the White Christ combined to make this hour one of the most enjoyable.

The second hour was an interpretation of "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg" (Richard Wagner), and in this the lecturer went back to the beginnings of the guild system, the origin of the crafts, which so prominently figure in this drama of Richard Wagner. Prof. Grumann drew fine word pictures of the various characters, simply and plainly, and expressed the wish that Wagner had done more with the optimistic side in his dramas, Hans Sachs being really an optimist with occasional slight fits of pessimism, whereas so many of the music-drama are pessimistic without much show of optimistic thought or impulse. Next week the first part of the lecture will have to do largely with the Siegfried stories.

BANK ROBBERS GET NOTHING

Are Frightened Away in Attempt to Rob Bank at Florence.

WERE EVIDENTLY AMATEURS

President and Cashier Drive Autos into Garage and Frighten the Men Away Before Job is Completed.

Taking advantage of the blizzard Monday night, yegmen forced entrance into the Farmers State Bank of Florence and attempted to loot the vault.

It is believed that the men, although they chose a night to attempt to rob the bank when a large amount of money was kept in the safe, are amateurs, for they made a bungling job.

Nothing was taken from the bank, as W. E. Wall, president of the bank, says the robbers were evidently frightened away when Mr. Wall returned home, about 1 a. m., in his auto, which he keeps in a garage under the bank. He says he thinks they were there when he and Mr. Parker entered the garage.

The robbers had secured a sledge hammer and a jimmy from the blacksmith shop, near by. They had worked on the thick wall of the vault but a short time when they were frightened away. They had five thicknesses of sole leather which was being used to deaden the sound. The robbers entered through the post-office by prying open the window, but did not touch anything there. There was about $2,000 in cash in the vault of the bank.
