Christmas and the Diamond

There is none who will deny the appropriateness of the diaord as a gift for Christmas. Some hesitate about making suca s present, for they think the price of these precious stones is too ligh. Such persons should remember that the diamond, while more costly than some presents, is such a beautiful stone and so valuable as an adornment that its selection as a gift carries more restige and greater admiration to the recipient than any other lewel that can be purchased. The diamonds sold here are priced low to the quality.

All diamonds sold by us are sold under contract to buy back at any time within one year at price paid, less ten per cent; or full price allowed in exchange at any time. We have a large assortment of rich jewelry gift-suggestions which you should see before buying elsewhere.
