Every Nation Contributes to Our Magnificent Holiday Displays

Not merely our own great country has supplied merchandise to complete our beautiful assemblage of holiday goods—we look beyond domestic resources; we also seek the best foreign achievements. Every country in this wide world has contributed the best they could produce for a Christmas trade.

It will be interesting for you to note this fact while shopping here—interesting to speculate on which nation furnished certain articles. Generally it will be easily evident.

One part of the store is given up to the arts, crafts and wares of the clever little Japanese. Germany is best represented among the toys and dolls because in one of the mountainous districts of Germany the people spend their every endeavor in originating and making the things the children love.

We could write on and on, telling about the beautiful bits of linen, drawn work, handkerchiefs; how they came all the way from the Emerald Isle, sunny France and picturesque Switzerland to make your Christmas a merry one.

But we will leave these little mysteries for you to pleasantly solve—as you can so many of your perplexing gift problems at this store. And, during your shopping here, isn't it quite astonishing, even wonderful, how surprisingly low most of the prices are?

What an enthusiasm and spirit of good will there is about the happy throngs of little folks to be seen in our Toy Town every day. Could you mingle with them, hear their exclamations of delight over some particularly attractive toy or novel and ingenious mechanical device; watch their eyes, already big, grow larger with surprise at some new revelation; you would feel as they feel, see as they see, grow enthusiastic yourself and for the time being forget the responsibilities of being grown up—in spirit you would be a child again.
