ORDEMANN THROWS REIMER

Iowa Wrestler Wins Second Fall, but Loses the Third.

MATCH CLOSE AT ALL TIMES

Des Moines Man Shows Brilliant Form in Second Go, Pinning Opponent to Mat with Head Scissors Hold.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 15.—Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis tonight defeated Foe Reimer (Westerstrand) of Des Moines, Ia., taking the first and third falls of a grueling match.

The first fall went to the Minneapolis man on a half-nelson and crotch hold after 25 minutes and 35 seconds of strenuous wrestling. On the return to the mat for the second go, Reimer showed brilliant form and in 6 minutes and 36 seconds pinned Ordemann to the mat with a head scissors hold, but himself fell victim on the third go to the same hold and a half-nelson in 25 minutes and 45 seconds.

Although Reimer had slightly the advantage of Ordemann in weight, the former being in at 230 and the latter at 185, the men were well matched, and the outcome was in doubt until the last fall was awarded.

Springfield Defeats Saloon Ordinances

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 15.—In the first referendum election held since the adoption of the commission form of government about one year ago, the saloon regulation ordinances were overwhelmingly defeated today.

The vote against the "regulator" ordinances was even larger than the vote cast in 1909, when the city rejected local option by a plurality of 1,422.

Four ordinances were voted upon, as follows: Licensing bartenders, yes, 1,591; no, 4,377. One-ounce-draught license instead of 500, yes, 2,905; no, 6,216. Compelling the removal of screens, yes, 2,554; no, 6,541. Sunday closing, yes, 2,531; no, 6,281.

During the campaign each side indulged in bitter personalities, and with the announcement of the vote tonight there are numerous threats being made to recall the commissioners who favored the defeated ordinances.

Dr. Roller Throws Koch of Germany

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—It took Dr. B. F. Roller, the Seattle strong man, just forty-one minutes to throw Ernest Koch, Germany's champion, in two straight falls at the Oliver theater tonight. The match was the roughest ever staged in the city.

Koch, recasting the remarks of the audience and twice apparently attempting to push his opponent off the stage. His rough tactics aroused the crowd. Roller secured both falls with the toe hold, the first in twenty-seven minutes and the second in fourteen.

In the preliminaries Oscar Wassan of Lincoln threw Charles Van Naas in two straight falls. Wassan posted a forfeit of $500 with reference to the wrestling George Gion of Aurora, for the championship of the state, but Gion declined to set an early date for the match, stating he would meet Wassan later in the season.

LONG-DISTANCE BICYCLE RIDERS RETAIN STRENGTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Up to a late hour tonight scores of the riders in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden showed signs of weakening. The riders got ahead of the record by more than three miles at 3 o'clock, but three jams and tumbles in as many sprints during the next two hours resulted in the old record setting on top again by half a mile.

This includes Gotoh, Zhyzsko, Peiseron and Mahmoud. I am prepared to forward you one thousand dollars to guarantee appearance of Schmidt, the same to go as a side bet if they desire. I ask it that the match be one to a finish.

Recital by Karel Havlicek

Last night at the First Baptist Church, Mr. Karel Havlicek gave a violin recital. It is always a pleasure to pay a deserved tribute to the faithful and conscientious work of a young musical aspirant who has been brought up in Omaha, who has made the most of his advantages locally, has gone abroad for further serious study, and who has returned to have his fellow-citizens pass judgment upon him and his work. Several instances of this have occurred recently in Omaha, and it is justly proud of its younger branch of the profession.

Mr. Karel Havlicek is the latest of the successful ventures. He has worked earnestly, he has worked faithfully, and he has achieved a great deal. He has accomplished much in the way of securing good tone-quality throughout the far stretches of the violin's compass and range. He has a good sense of style and "form" in his work and his technique is a demonstration of many hours of hard and unremitting labor. In consideration of the many brilliant things he did, he may be forgiven for perpetrating that unspeakable monstrosity for violin alone, the Sextette for Lucia; the devter or arranger, Mr. St. Lubin should be un-mentioned and the St. Lubin from his name. Has this sextette ever been arranged for cymbals only?

However, the Lalo Synchronic made up for the latter mentioned "pieces," and the other numbers on the program were well worth place. The three Burmester arrangements struck a popular chord with the audience.

Mr. Havlicek may feel justly proud of his progress and it is for him now to go on and climb the heights.

Miss Louise Ormsby contributed two groups of vocal numbers with her usual success, and she emphasized the good opinion already expressed in this column, especially on account of her excellent enunciation and her musical feeling.

Madame Auguste Borglum had an exceedingly difficult evening's work, and she arose to the occasion with her customary ability; she was more than accompanied, and did her trying pianistic part with well balanced judgment. K.

Lucia Glaser's New Opera a Hit.

"Miss Dudeslack," the joyous operatic success, about which so much has been heard since its premier in Berlin and Vienna, has proved the hit of Lucia Glaser's career. She has been scoring heavily in it in Philadelphia, Boston, Washington and other cities and is to present it in Chicago during the holidays. The stirring melodies and wondrous vocal numbers in "Miss Dudeslack" are said to be at par with those of "The Merry Widow" and "The Spring Maid."

What Theaters Have to Offer

AMERICAN: "War Great Match." BRANDS: "The Newly-Weds." GAYETY: Burlesque. KRUG: Burlesque. ORPHEUM: Vaudeville. Matinees today at the Gayety, Krug and Orpheum.

"The Newly-Weds" at the Brands. When Napoleon Newlywed was translated from the comics of a newspaper to the condition of hero of a musical comedy the change was startling, if not successful. The McCann cartoons had had a considerable vogue, and the popularity that followed them through the printed pages of the daily papers that published them has attached to some extent to the players who have undertaken to visualize "Lovey" and "Dovey" and the baby. The affair is now on its annual visit to Omaha, showing at the Brands, where it opened last night.

Feature of the evening was the attendance of the wool growers of the country, who were there as the guests of the Omaha Commercial club.

Local Notes of the Stage.

Miss Lillian Dilworth, who will play the Orpheum next week in a sketch called "The New Leader," is the personification of health. Such a beautiful complexion has she that it is really not necessary for her to make up for the stage. She attributes her splendid physical condition to the long walks which she takes every day of her life. She is also a strong believer in the motto "Early to bed and early to rise, for she is up with the birds in the morning and goes to bed almost immediately after act in the evening. It does not make any difference to Miss Dilworth whether she has a companion on her long hikes, for she enjoys them just as much when she is alone. At the end of each engagement she is more familiar with the town in which she has been playing than any other person on the bill—simply because she has walked from one end of it to the other.

The closing performance of "Her Great Match" will be given at the American today and tomorrow, the run ending with Saturday night. This bill has proved very week. Conspicuous in the group are Bill Cherry and Hill, whose bicycle act is nothing more or less than a masterpiece of vaudeville. Bicycle acts have been before the public for years and, nowadays, a manager hesitates before engaging a bike act, because of the risk of a broken leg. But this duo is being continually engaged and when you see them you will not wonder at it. The big chorus of spring lambs is a special feature during shows show weeks. Tired shoppers ladies' matinee every day.

The finals of Miter's Americans at the Krug this week is one of the best staged acts of the present Krug season. All members of the chorus are elegantly costumed in pink, light blue and white, and are of white metal, surmounted by brilliant plumes, form the head decorations. The backdrops show an American flag creation that is unusual. Each of the wing pieces is decorated to represent a foreign country.

SIX IDA GROVE MEN WILL SPEND CHRISTMAS ABOARD

IDA GROVE, Ia., Dec. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—John Lansink, sr., John Lansink, jr., Henry Wlesnik and Herman Metjerink left here for Holland, where they will spend Christmas in their native land. There is a story of what America will do for the foreigners of the right sort who come to this country seeking a home. Metjerink came to America alone in 1878, and, as he prospered, he sent money to his friend and neighbor, John Lansink, and told him to come over. A little later Wlesnik was sent in the same way. Now, thirty years later, they are all well to do and prosperous. John Lansink, sr., owns two of the best farms in Ida county, E. A. Christiansen and Edward Meents left for Germany, where they will spend the next three months. State Representative Ed H. Campbell of this county was to have been one of the party, but he was taken sick with typhoid and had to give up the trip.

Champ Pedestrian Is Here.

J. H. Mooney of New York, who walked from New York to San Francisco in eighty-nine days, stopped off in Omaha today, on his way back home by rail. To see a friend at Fort Crook, Mooney left New York May 19 and arrived in San Francisco September 5, walking the entire distance. He now holds the record for the coast-to-coast walk, beating Edward Payson Weston's record of 105 days.

Feature of the evening was the attendance of the wool growers of the country, who were there as the guests of the Omaha Commercial club.

President Cole, Commissioner Guild, Members Pickens, Judson, Buckingham, Hugo Brandts, C. C. Rosewater, Baxter and others of the executive committee and a number of leading members of the club were on hand to receive the guests of the club and see that all were properly cared for. It has been a long time since the lobby and foyer of the beautiful Brands presented so animated a scene as on last night. The reception was surely a success. It delayed the rise of the curtain for some minutes, but the time was not wasted. When the curtain did go up it found the members of the company, chorus and all, imbued with the spirit of the evening, for each wore a badge of Omaha's welcome to the shepherds, and some of the comedians wore several. And as far as the lines of the play would permit the conversation turned on the presence of the shepherds.

"The Newly-Weds" is a mixture of music, mirth and dance, with a plot sufficiently tenuous to hold together a number of episodic events. James E. Rosen is funny in his impersonation, first of the baby, then of the tough young dwarf who has escaped from a sideshow. Margaret Braun, who plays Mrs. Newlywed, sings several ambitious songs, and Eugene Young, a vivacious subterfuge, leads one chorus and helps Miss Braun lead another, which are the features of the bill. The company is well qualified for the work it has in hand. The engagement lasts till after Saturday night, with a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Glaser's engagement in this city will take place early in January.

BIG BRIDGE OVER HELL GATE

Two years from next spring the East river will be spanned by another bridge. It will be across Hell Gate, from Long Island to The Bronx, and will serve to connect the New Haven & Hartford and the Pennsylvania systems.

The New York connecting railroad bridge, as it is called, will be ready in the spring of 1914, according to former Bridge Commissioner Gustav Lindenthal, who designed the structure with Palmer & Hornbostel. In it New York will see one of the most massive bridges in the world. With viaducts it will be three miles long and nearly 100,000 tons of structural steel will be required to build it. There are taller bridges, but heavier span there is none. It will be used exclusively by the builders, the Pennsylvania and the New Haven & Hartford.

There will be three great spans. The first will connect Long Ward's Island and Randall's Island, and the third Randall's Island and The Bronx.

The span crossing from Long Island to Ward's Island will be the largest. This will be known as the Hell Gate bridge. It will be of the braced steel arch type and will resemble a gigantic river gate. It will also mark the entrance to the East river from the north.

Two big steel arches 3,000 feet in length will support the deck. These will rise to a height of 300 feet above the water. The deck will be 100 feet over the river, which is the distance that separates the old Brooklyn bridge from the water. The bridge will look like the old Brooklyn bridge turned upside down.

The distance between the towers will be 1,107 feet, or about one-fifth of a mile. About 100,000 tons of steel will be required for the span. Some of the members alone will weigh 15 tons. In this respect the span is superior to every other in the world.

The bridge crossing the Pirth of Forth in Scotland comes next. This bridge has two spans of 1,700 feet each and carries two railroad tracks.

The Hell Gate span will carry four tracks embedded in stone ballast, so there will be no rumbling noise to disturb sensitive nerves.

The towers will be 200 feet high. There will be four of them, two on each side. They will be of moulded concrete masonry surmounting abutments of cyclopean gray granite. Parts of the masonry work have been completed, while other parts are still under construction.

Excavations for the abutments were started some time ago, but it will be months before they will appear above the surface. They extend down to bed-rock, which in parts is 150 feet down in the bowels of the earth.

On the Astoria side the piers run down from 195 to 150 feet. On Ward's Island rock was found much nearer. The Astoria piers are on the old Barclay homestead and not far from rocky rock.

In the upper parts of the tower will be rooms for switches and other railroad necessities. About 600,000 cubic yards of masonry will be used.

The viaduct will be of solid steel. In Long Island it will follow a line 140 feet north of Barclay street southwestward to the Pennsylvania yards at Sunnyside. It will pass over Long Island City at an average height of sixty feet and will rest on a series of concrete arches supporting steel trestles. Mr. Lindenthal's original plan called for an all steel viaduct, but this did not come up to the aesthetic standard set by the Municipal Art commission, and the plans were rejected.

Since then the plans have been changed to call for concrete land supports, and other decorative changes suggested by the commission for the span have been made. From an engineering point of view the changes do not alter the bridge as originally planned.

The viaduct across Ward's Island will also rest on concrete piers. This viaduct will be 2,000 feet long and will connect Little Hell Gate bridge with the one crossing Little Hell Gate to Randall's Island. Little Hell Gate will be spanned by a riveted truss bridge 1,000 feet long.

Altogether the miles of viaducts and bridges will cost approximately $30,000,000. The improvement was started seven years ago, and has been carried on steadily ever since. All these years were put in on the foundation and abutments.—New York Sun.

City to Take Appeal in Carlisle Case

A majority of the members of the city council, including Mayor Maloney, have decided to instruct City Solicitor Kimball to appeal the case of Charles Carlisle against the city to the supreme court. This case has been tried twice. The first trial resulted in a verdict for the city, taxing the costs to the plaintiff. This was aside and the issue tried again on an amended petition making Contractor E. A. Wickham co-defendant with the city on the ground that the city's responsibility was secondary if there was any on the part of either.

During the progress of a heavy storm two years or more ago the water washed out a newly filled sewer ditch, into which Carlisle drove, and he lost a horse. The contention of the city is that the washout was caused by the excessive rainstorm then prevailing that the accident occurred during its progress, before anybody could have had knowledge of it, and that the city cannot be held responsible for the washout any more than it could for the storm.
