

Desperate Desmond

The Finder of a Camera Proves a Real Finder This Time to the Villain's Discomfiture

By Hershfield

The lovers, mounted on feet camels and in company with Reckless Hardy Shavus, the famous war correspondent and moving-picture man, hurry over the desert to the Italian camp, they are pursued by Desperate Desmond. The lovers have not noticed his presence, and the correspondent means to give them an unpleasant surprise, as you may guess by looking at the revolver in his hand.

All ignorant of Desmond's pursuit, the lovers are happy in being together once again, and also in the knowledge that the moving pictures taken by Reckless Hardy Shavus will show the Italian general clearly that Desmond is a scoundrel fit only for instant execution. Of course, every one who Desmond's reputation, but that is different from actually seeing the record of one of his crimes thrown before one on the screen.

Reckless Hardy Shavus is a man used to surprises. His career as the greatest living war correspondent has led him into many strange places, and his advice to generals has led to the sudden ending of many wars. But Reckless Hardy Shavus now gives a start of surprise. In the leader of his camera he sees the figure of Desmond! And Desmond is in hot pursuit of the little party.

It takes Shavus but a moment to recover his composure. With a quick movement he gives warning to Claude, and our hero is instantly turned around and covers the now surprised villain with his trusty six-shooter. With all his acumen, Desmond had not guessed that the innocent-looking camera of Shavus would prove his undoing. It is all of with the scoundrel's plan now, and he knows it.

Securely bound, Desmond is led before the Italian general. When questioned as to his guilt, the villain declares across his heart that he has never made the slightest attempt to harm either Claude or Desmond! Nothing like a really good lie in Desmond's opinion. Notwithstanding the villain's denial, Claude, treating as Reckless Hardy Shavus, is quickly confident of convicting him.

"I'm the boy!" cries Desperate Desmond, "but I'm no moving-picture actor." The critical moment has come, and Shavus throws his announcement on the screen. Desmond does not believe that the prosecution has any real evidence against him, so he regards the show as a joke. However, he is quite likely to meet with another disagreeable surprise. So be sure not to miss the great series of pictures to-morrow.
