

mestic . disposition and her taste naturally runs to pots and pans, and if she marries a man who is well-to-do, and amply able to comfortably support her, the ques tion settles ifself. There are, however, many women ho have no turn for cooking and sewing and scrubbing, and to whom the very name of housework is Anathema, but who and helps along the family. Also in selecting a wife a man will look out for companion more than he does for a The kitchen and the drawing toom can take care of themselves, but the nursery is another matter. No incubator can take the place of a mother's breast, no trained governess is a substitute for the brooding mother love of even an ignorant woman. and when there are babies in a householu have the money-everything should be sacrificed to their needs. They are a mother's career, and they are her pay envelope. making talent keenly developed, and who But this question of the right of a breathe best in the atmosphere of store or office. There are also many other woman to work after marriage is one women who marry delightful men who that should never disturb the home circle. have every other charming virtue ex- In the first place, unless a man is able to cept the instinct for getting on in the support a family so that his wife doesn't feel the need of earning money, he has world. Should the woman who loathes to cook no right to ask a woman to marry him.

and loves to keep books be forced to And, in the second place, if a girl hates cook merely because she gets married ; domesticity and isn't willing to give up Should the woman who can earn the a her work and make a home for a man. she has no right to marry. outside of her home be forced to do the work that any $2 domestic could The only exception to this rule is when do better than she can? Should the wo- a couple are broadminded enuough to disman who has spent years of time and cuss the matter before marriage and to thousands of dollars perfecting herself have a thorough understanding that each to follow some calling abandon her pro-is to pursue bis or her calling after mar-fession and throw away all of this ef-riage, and that they are to be pals and fort and money just because she takes a comrades, and preserve their financial independence. I have known many couples husband?

left, stopped, started, reversed, acceler- Morse telegraphic keys. All of these ated, retarded and controlled in every way beneficent uses-the sending of mails and by an operation in a wireless plant on rescue of the perishing-together with a the shore. No wire from man to boat- hundred others, are harbingers of apwaves of electric force only. None must fall into the mistake, how-ver, that power to run the boat was ransmitted from land. Accumulators of ordinary torpedo can be surrounded with electricity-i.e., storage batteries-actual- a chamber of compressed air for power ing a motor were on board the vessel, and provided with an almost invisible Now, the wireless starts, stop and re- float. Two uprights hold antenna wires. verse this motor, or can actuate a gaso- One of these poles contains electric lamps line explosion motor, with a facility equal visible from the shore, but not from to that of an engineer on the boat, This, ship that is being attacked, Look at this indeed, is a triumph of limitless mind terrible engine of death. This floating over the forces of nature.

The first trial, made on a lake in Germany, was the managing of a boat thirty-three feet in length, having a four and one-half-horsepower motor. On board was an attuned receiver able to and visibly sent on its horrible errand. receive and use waves coming in from the signal station located in a distant proach of great blessings to modern civilization.

Good things turn to horrors. Thus an torpedo is not to he fired from any tube on a warship and is not limited to size. This one large torpedo, capable of being directed with unerring accuracy from an invisible plant on land, can be silently carrying a charge that will simply annihliste the largest dreadnaught.

lighthouse tower. If power could be batteries of colossal guns are obsolete, for transmitted, then the career of man a few torpedoes sent from unknown nooks should the woman who is capable of who have done this and who are happy earning enough money to give herself all and contented, although they live in the comforts of life be forced to go on hotels, and the woman makes money inhalf rations, and do without all of the stead of bread.

FREAKS OF BOOKLAND

By N. P. BABCOCK.

have met A man with "his heart in his mouth."

In a novel you'll meet him, and also you'll find

His after impossible friend, Who, if given sufficient alarm of some

AN EXCITABLE NOSE

Will tilt all his hair up on end.

refinements and luxuries she might have, simply because she is married to a man who doesn't get along, but whose pride will be hurt if his wife works outside of the family circle?"

In short, must a woman choose between love and husband and home, or business, unless she happens to have the luck to be domestic herself and marry a prosperous man?

I am rather inclined to believe as I look At persons I meet in the street, That a good many persons one meets in These be hard questions to answer and a book In only a book can one meet. I, for one, shall not attempt to solve the problem, which, after all, is one of those The 1 walk every day from my home to individual ones that each couple must set-I vow that I never have found Any lady so modest as gently to drop Before me an eye on the ground. le for itself.

In one way it seems a foolish enonomic waste for a woman to fit Herself for an Did she do so I fancy I'm gallant enough To stoop and return it. 'Cause why?' Any eye on the ground, if the sidewalk were rough. Would not very long be an eye. occupation that she probably will not follow more than three or four years. and not even that long if she happens to have appealing blue eyes and a peachy I have traveled in places I almost forget, Have journeyed north, east, west and routh. But I give you my word that I never complexion. It is also cynically amusing to reflect on the quality of a man's love who is perfectly willing for his wife to follow an uncongenial and exhausting line of work in the home in order to help him, but who is ashamed for people to see her doing some easy and agreeable work outside of the home. Nor, in strict justice, is there any more reason why a married woman has less right to follow the occupation in which she is happiest and most skilled than a married man has.

But of all those book fellows the one I Nobody suggests that Mr. Jones should give up being a commercial traveler and become a tailor, or a baker, just because become a tallor, or a baker, just because And 'sit on the verge of despair." he is married. Why should Mary Smith.

who is a gracker-jack suleswoman, be turned into a cosh just because she enters the holy estate?

On the other hand there is, of course, the traditional and conventional view of the subject, that home isn't home unless Senator Luke Lta of Tennessee, spropo a woman is chained to the kitchen range. and I have a letter from a woman who of the operation for transfusion of blood signs herself "An Old-Fashioned Wife." that he so nobly underwent on his wife's who ably sets forth this side of the matbehalf, said at a dinner in Washington: ter. She writes:

"Latter-day surgery is a wonderful "Does a husband feel finttered in the thing, and I'm sure you won't think me knowledge that his wife can earn a good at all disrespectful if I tell you a strange week's pay? Is he delighted to have the story about it.

world know that she does? Is a home, "I have a friend numed Jusper, and, where all the duties of housekeeping are seeting him the other day, I said: done by a hireling, alluring to him? Is "Jasper, you look, comehow, queer."

It not merely a boarding place for two "'I expect it's my nose,' said he. instead of for the public? Is home a feil down a coal hole and tore a big piece frome in the series of the good old days, out of it.' when women forsake the sacred fireside "Why your nose seems all right," said I for the office and such life channels of 'Oh, yes,' said Jasper, 'it seems all ight. The surgeons, you know, grafted What is to become of this dear, sweet, a piece of my arm on it. But the shape old institution known as home if the is changed, and besides I can't go to the mother, who should be its queen, is bail games any more.' hanging over a typewriter or ledger all her years? What is to become of the little ones who see their mother only long enough to hiss her good night?" All of these problems, except the one involved in the question of the children. are easily solved. As for a home not being alluring that is run by a competent servant, it is likely to be a lot more at-

'No?' said I. 'Why not?' 'Because,' said Jasper. 'having a piece of my arm in my nose, whenever I get excited over a good play I start to wave

The manufacture of artificial teeth of purcelain began in France in 1829. The first American college of dental it, and that makes me so conspicuous."

surgery was opened at Baltimore, Md., in tructive than one that is conducted by a blundering wife. We are getting a long 1539, with four professorships, designed ways from the supersitition that there for instruction in the principles and me was some magic in mother's touch that chanical practice of the art.

Sherlocko the Monk

BY GUS MAGER Copyright, 1911, National News Association.

The Mystery of the Missing Molars

would be almost completely changed from ' and corners could send to the bottom the its present status.

a gun on the boat to fire a signal shot to the sky by an operator on shore hidden attract attention of spectators. Then he from the sight of ships. Three men can started the unmanned vessel, which as now annihilate a fleet in short order. sumed a speed of ten miles per hour, and with little expense. It is not even Then he stopped the boat, reversed the necessary to plant harbors and roadmotor and likewise the direction of mo- steads with mines. Armies on land can tion, changed the rudder, aport, to starboard and amidship; fired rockets, turned sea. on lights and also signals and continued these modern wonders during several hours.

office is to select waves from space and few years, man may finally see that war traismit them to the receiver in the hold is absolutely unnecessary. And can it be of the vessel, were stretched between that lyddite, exploding from sky and two tail, alim masts. The receiver sent sea, is the only known chemical, device these impulses into the tuner, and, or substance that is able to awaken the when tuned, they were sent into the dis- reason of mankind? Flowing blood and tributer of force to the motor apparatus. The applications of this now perfected been without effect on war-obsessed men. wireless mechanism are numerous and of It now seems apparent that dynamite, lydgreat value. It enables those on shore to dite and cordite only can awaken slumpatrol harbors, sent hoats anywhere from bering reason.

most formidable armada. And deadly ex-The operator in the tower first caused plostves can be dropped on decks from be wiped out as easily as ironclads at

These terrific things may at last open up an avenue to the brain of man leading to the throne-room of reason. Then, The antennae, a system of wires whose after having listened to reason during a

1 31 8 1

How to Be Beautiful

By MARGARET HUBBARD AYER

thick ad the only reason I can account air and are really struggling for fresh for it is that I breathe with my mouth. air like a person who is smothering. three years ago, and I hoped that it high are also likely to breathe through would do away with mouth breathing. I the mouth because the jaw naturally bind my mouth when I go to bed, but drops in sleep with the relaxation of the that does not keep it closed. I have used muscles. an astringent for my lips, but that does not reduce them, so I thought I would without any pillow at all or with a tips. "Also the least exposure both dries and forward so that the jaw . A. FRIEND," chaps the lips. lie schools are making a crusade against cause of possible emanations from the Cangerous habit in a painful and effective manner. My correspondent, who had her nose operated on three years ago should go again to the doctor and have the pasal passages cleared. Some thin little membrane may be clogging the air passage, and it can be removed without pain, and in a few minutes. It is necessary to have this done not only because one's looks are ruined by mouth breathing, but be- Learn to use the muscles with determinacause it is had for the health to breathe tion, put more will power into closing air through the mouth, either by day or your lips. You can do some little exernight. Nature provided that the air class, such as pursing the lips forward should be warmed reaching the lungs and back, tensing all the muscles, and by passing through the nose, which also, using a great deal of force. Study dic-acts as a sort of filter and keeps dust tion, careful pronunciation and elocu-

Lots of people are mouth-breathers at [night only, breathing perfectly through little vaseline or cold cream; camphor , the nose during the waking hours. This ice is good, and if you want to toughen or is attributed sometimes to a slight de- the skin a little, wet the lips night and fect or clogging in the nasal passage, or morning with spirits of camphor, to the fact that people whose brains are You will find as soon as your nose has very active and whose circulation is bad, been attended to, that you will be able having overfatigued themselves during to sleep with your moutht closed, and the day, the blood does not leave the your doctor will probably order you to head, and expectally does not leave the cleanse the nasal passages daily with the large gland which is situated back of some simple remedy, like salt and warm the nose, and which, with the relaxation water, or with an antiseptic. of sleep, settles down as a sort of pillow to block the air passages of the nose, People who are foolish enough to sleep with their heads covered breathe through wood fastened upon gold plates.

Strigs.

"Dear Miss Ayer: My lips are very the mouth because they have not enough Now, I had my nose operated on about People who sleep with their heads too

Don't sleep with a high pillow, do ask you if there is any remedy for thick very small one. When you we settling yourself for sleep, tilt your and alightly it fall, Be sure you have the window open, and This generation ought to see the last don't sleep with your face too near the of the habitual mouth breather. The pub- wall, for that is not only unhealthy hemouth breathing, and the next general stone, plaster or paper, but because you tion will have its attention called to this will also have that smothered sensation unconsciously, and open some mouth for more air.

Of course you can bind your jaw up with a slik handkerchief or bandage, but I don't believe in that myself unless you have tried every way of making yourself breathe through your nose at night and failed.

Now as to thick lips. Your lips are thick because they are always relaxed. using a great deal of force. Study dic- re and dirt particles from reaching, the tion; all these things help in forming the contour of the lips.

For the roughness of the skin use a

In ancient Egyptian tombs Belzoni of discovered artificial teeth of ivory et