MEANING OF THE MOON LAW

Immediate Closing of 229 Saloons in Iowa Follows Soon.

DE GRAFF THROWS BOMBHELL

District Judge Holds No Partnership or Corporation in Hawkeye State Can Legally Operate Saloons.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—According to the computation made by Superintendent Barber of the Iowa anti-saloon league, the decision of the supreme court in the Moon law case means the immediate closing of 229 saloons in Iowa. The total now is 795 and there will be 575 left in operation if the law is found to apply to the charter cities which are not mentioned in the law.

Five years ago there were over 3,000 saloons in the state and the reduction has been by reason of the moon law and the change in public sentiment.

All saloons existing in Iowa cities of the first and second class in excess of the one to 1,000 ratio fixed by the Moon law, must close immediately. This was the statement this afternoon of Nels J. Lee, special counsel, from the office of George Conson, attorney general, who says that in all cities the saloons are operating under petitions of consent approved since April 15, 1909.

No Partnership Saloons.

Saloons owned by partnerships and corporations are in direct violation of the Iowa state law, according to an opinion handed down by Judge Lawrence De Graff of the equity division of the district court here today. More than 1,000 saloons in the state will be affected by the ruling, if it is sustained by the supreme court, to which the liquor interests will appeal it.

Judge De Graff withheld his decision until the supreme court had rendered its opinion on the Moon law, which limits saloons to one for every thousand population. This law was sustained yesterday. The case before Judge De Graff was filed by the Anti-Saloon forces against fifteen saloon partnerships in Des Moines. The court interprets the Moon law to mean that a license to sell liquor may be granted to one individual for each 1,000 inhabitants.

By "individual" Judge De Graff says the law means one person and not a corporation or partnership. The court holds it was the intent of the law to fasten the responsibility of operating a saloon upon one person and that this cannot be done when the saloon is operated by more than one individual.

Lieutenant Bloom has already been assigned to duty at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo. His nomination for partnership in the senate along with a large number of other recess appointments in the army and was conferred with others receiving no special attention.

After Private Bloom's first examination for a commission in the army President Taft's attention was invited to a report by Colonel Garrard in which there appeared to be a discrimination against Mr. Bloom because of his Jewish blood. The president immediately wrote a vigorous denunciation of any discrimination against Jews in the army and ordered that Private Bloom be given another trial.

Cost of Meat Inspection. Representative Carr of Milwaukee today introduced a bill amending the act of June 30, 1906, which provided for an inspection of all animals slaughtered for food so that hereafter the expenses of inspection shall be borne by the establishments engaged in slaughtering, which shall hereafter be required to pay into the treasury of the United States the sum of 3 cents for every head of cattle, sheep, swine and goats so inspected and stamped.

CASE PUZZLER TO PHYSICIANS

Major Olmstead, Retired Major in United States Army Cavalry Service, Passes away at Home in Des Moines.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—Des Moines' famous sleeping woman died this morning. This was Mrs. L. J. Farmenter, who slept for two weeks some time ago, but afterward awakened and remained awake for some time. Her case was regarded as an unusually peculiar one.

Major J. A. Olmstead, who died here today, was a retired major in the United States army cavalry service, a graduate of West Point and long on duty with the army in the west. He was 66 years old and on duty with the Iowa National guard as the personal representative of the secretary of war as inspector.

GUESTS DRIVEN FROM HOTELS

(Continued from First Page.) hostilities and the guests awakened. The sight of the flames threw women and men alike into panic and there was a hurried scramble for clothing and valuables.

Scores of persons appeared half clad in the hotel lobbies and many dragged trunks or carried suit cases. Although the window sashes of the Kaiserhof were burning on the three upper floors at one time, a steady play of water on the building kept it out of danger. No person was injured in any of the hotels.

Directly across from the Open Board of Trade in LaSalle street stands the Chicago Board of Trade, and with which the Open Board has no connection.

The fire was one of the most spectacular seen in downtown Chicago for months. Flames leaped more than 200 feet into the air and fire brands were carried for blocks by the wind. In little more than an hour after it started the fire was under control.

The guests in the hotels represented nearly every state in the union and there were a few from Europe.

One little guest driven with her parents from the New Victoria was May Edgren of Milwaukee, said by her father, Jesse L. Edgren, to have been the first white child born at Dawson City, Alaska, while he and his wife were gold hunting there.

Gifts That Serve Many Generations

Gift-giving is settling down upon a rational basis, and people of superior understanding mostly give things of lasting qualities. Why a token of friendship should not be, above all, durable as well as beautiful, as well as easy to comprehend. More people are buying gifts of jewelry this season, because they prefer to give those presents which will endure through generations and be passed down from heir to heir. Diamond jewelry and sterling silverware sold at this store become permanent and enduring possessions. They possess something of great and enduring value.

The selection here is large and the range of prices wide.

referendum and recall, taking a stand against such legislation, but this portion of his remarks did not meet with a hearty reception. The speaker stated that he had not always agreed with Mr. Taft, but he recognized in him a sincere, able man who all the time was striving for the right, but that it was not to be expected that any two men should always agree. In the general conduct of his office, however, he could not see how any thinking man who believed in republican principles could fail to support him if he really knew what the president had done and what had been accomplished in the face of difficulties. He concluded his address with a compliment for the president's last official act of prominence in serving notice on Russia of the abrogation of the treaty with the country for its persistent disregard of the rights of American citizens.

The following committees were appointed:

Committee on resolutions: John L. Webster, Omaha; Allen W. Field, Lincoln; J. A. P. Black, Hastings; Samuel Kinaker, Beatrice; Jesse McNish, Wisner.

Committee on organization: Frank Curtis, Broken Bow; H. C. Lindsay, Pawnee City; E. G. McElilton, Omaha; John Nesbit, Tekamah; William Hunszetter, Lincoln; George C. Junkin, Fairbury.

Taft's Fight on Trains.

After the reading of the resolutions, the crowd called loudly upon John L. Webster for a speech and he responded with an address which aroused much enthusiasm. He pointed out how William H. Taft had made good in every position he had held from judge in the state court in Ohio, on the federal bench, as governor of the Philippines, as secretary of war, and finally in real accomplishment as president. He discussed the legal phases of the trusts and pointed out that they were the separate creatures of the states that had democratic governors and administrations who had it in their power to annihilate them if they really desired to do so, New Jersey, New York and Ohio being the corporate home of practically all of them. This federal government, however, could only interfere with the interstate features.

while the states could kill them in their inception.

Jeffers Speaks.

A. W. Jeffers was called on and called attention to the animus behind the attacks upon the president tracing them largely in their inception to the magazine trust, which was the subject of investigation and prosecution by the government and which the government had forced to pay its legitimate share of maintaining the postal department. To this he attributed the campaign of muck-racking and misrepresentation which they have pursued. The convention concluded by a suggestion that those present each contribute $1 to defray the expenses of the meeting, and the preliminary work of the league and this was met with a general response. Just as the meeting was dispersing, a resolution was presented reciting at length the condition of pending pension matters and asking the gathering to go on record as favoring the Sherwood bill now before congress, and it was adopted.

SUPPOSED BLACKHANDERS SET FIRE TO BIG HAYSTACK

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 19.—(Special.)—What is believed to be the work of Black Handers, who have been working against John L. Adams of Solon, Ia., was the burning of a large haystack on the Adams farm late Sunday night. It contained about thirty-five tons of hay and was valued at $600.

The light snow enabled detectives to trace the incendiaries from the haystack to Solon, where they broke open a tool house in which the keeper of the block system kept his handcar. One mile north of Solon this morning the same handcar was discovered, a complete wreck, and the men who had been on it had evidently made their escape from there on horseback.

Dr. Charles Ham, J. T. Wortner and Charles Yarborough, arrested in connection with the Black Hand outrages at Solon were this morning arraigned before federal commissioners at Cedar Rapids and waived examination to await the action of the April federal grand jury.

THREE HUNDRED TROOPS ARE ORDERED TO DUNDEE

DUNDEE, Scotland, Dec. 19.—The dockers here who are on strike have suddenly gotten out of hand and are causing great nervousness. Rioting became so serious today that the lord provost sent a requisition to headquarters for a detachment of troops.

The rioters threw several wagons and a quantity of goods into the harbor and demolished considerable property. The police used their clubs, but were powerless to repress the disorders.

Many strikers and policemen were seriously injured. A detachment of 300 soldiers have been ordered here.
