

against summer base ball retained, just as long will Minnesota insist on its being played in every town.

By forcing its own athletes to regard all the rules Minnesota will be in a position to expose violations at other schools. This is just what the Gophers will do. Chicago and Wisconsin will have to keep their skirts clean, for the least dirt will call forth an it should-a protest and exposure from Minnesota.

WEIGHT RUINS GOOD JOCKEY

Frank Wotton, Great English Rider, Grows Too Heavy to Race Well.

JOCKEY'S CAREER IS UNCERTAIN

Horsemen Discuss Feats of Luck that Have Caused Making and Breaking of Famous Jockeys in Past Years.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The news that Frank Wotton, the leading English jockey, had increased in weight from 105 pounds until he had gained 125 pounds in the north, coupled with the information that the rider would not contract to do less than 125 pounds in 1912, marks the passing of a real good horseman and brings under the attention of those who are fond of the turf the fact that no calling is more uncertain than that of jockey.

YANKEE CYCLISTS TO ENTER

Best Dozen Men in America to Ride Against World in Olympiad.

LOST HONORS TO BE WON BACK

United Cyclists and Other Organizations Start Movement to Create Enthusiasm to Make Great Team.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—It is the intention of the committee in charge of making the arrangements for the selection and sending to Stockholm, Sweden, of the bicycle team which will represent this country in the Olympic games next summer to avoid if possible the recurrence of the rather peculiar condition of affairs in sending the team to a country of the games held in London in 1908.

The team which represented this country then was not a complete one. It was composed of the best American runners, jumpers and weight men and a few of the best in other branches of athletic activity, but there were still other sports in which the United States was not represented or was represented by not truly representative competitors.

For instance, in the bicycling races George Cameron and "Lew" Wertz represented the United States and did fairly well. It was not decided until the eleventh hour before the team sailed that this country should send any cyclists, and Cameron and Wertz, who were known to be two of the best amateurs here at the time, were picked almost at random.

Interest is Growing. The intention of the committee now working on the selection of a team is plainly shown in the interest which it has already manifested in the activity of the men who have taken it upon themselves to stir up country-wide enthusiasm in sending a team to a complete bicycling team, composed of twelve riders, to the Olympiad.

Those who know state positively that the team will be sent, but support, not only enthusiastic support, but support of a more substantial kind, is needed. The Olympic committee has said that it will aid in sending the team to a complete team if anyone near the required amount of money be raised by a subscription. It is estimated that it will take $4,000 to pay the expenses of the twelve men while abroad.

After a period of time, during which it appeared as if interest in bicycling were waning, the followers of the sport who have stuck to their colors through adversity have, by dint hard work, succeeded in reviving interest.

Now there is more interest in cycling than there has been in years, and the work of preparing to pick this team is a great boom.

The United States Cycling Association, a new organization for the fostering of the sport, is very active. It is pushing matters with a will, and its efforts are sure to be attended by success.

Famine in New-Money in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—On the last business day before Christmas New York discovered that there was a "famine" in new money. At the subtreasury it was said today that the supply of crisp, used bills and shining coins which it is usual to distribute at this season of the year to persons and institutions which wish them for Christmas gifts had been virtually exhausted.

Each year the banks are subjected to a heavy demand for new money, and formerly they had no difficulty in obtaining it from the subtreasury. Secretary MacVeagh made a ruling some months ago, however, which upset this procedure. His ruling was to the effect that where there was sufficient currency in the nearest subtreasury to meet demands the government would not pay the cost of transporting new bills or coins merely to meet the preferences of the banks.

These banks which wished unusual supplies of unused currency have consequently been obliged to pay the cost of transporting it from the mint. Where they were willing to meet this charge the Treasury department accommodated them.
