PACKERS' BOOKS IN COURT

General Ledgers of Morris & Co. Placed in Evidence.

ITEMS ARE READ TO THE JURY

Prosecution is Trying to Show that Allowances for By-Products Are Too Low—Other Books Missing.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Further details of the bookkeeping methods employed in the fresh meat business were given today in the trial of the Chicago packers charged with maintaining a combination in restraint of trade.

The general ledgers of Morris & Co. from 1907 to 1910 were taken before United States District Judge Carpenter, and items showing the allowances credited for by-products were read to the jury by the district attorney in an effort to prove the government's contention that these allowances are inadequate.

The government's attempt to show by the intricate method of accounting employed that the systems of the different packers were practically uniform.

Several witnesses who have been examined stated they were unable to recollect the details of the allowances for by-products to which they had previously testified by a federal grand jury.

They declared that many of the books and records which the government desires to use in the present case and which were produced before the federal grand jury in a robbing investigation against the packers in 1909 had disappeared.

When Harry A. Timmins, chief accountant for Morris & Co., resumed the witness stand he brought with him the corporation's general ledgers for 1907 to 1910, inclusive, for which the government had asked.

District Attorney Wilkerson inspected the books before continuing the direct examination of the witness. The witness declared that the cost of killing cattle was higher than the charge of $2.70 a head shown by the books, but that this was adjusted later when the actual items of expenses were available.

Costs Books Taken to the Vault. Emil W. Schmuhs, an accountant in charge of figuring the beef cost for Morris & Co., was the next witness.

It developed that Morris & Co. used a "dressed cost" in determining the selling price of fresh meat, while Armour & Co. use a "net" system.

"When did you last see the cost books for 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908?" "I do not remember," replied Schmuhs. "Did you ever see them after they were taken from the federal building in 1907?" "Yes, I saw them once in the office vaults."

"Did you do anything with them?" "I cut out some blank pages." Asked what was done with them after that, the witness said Dick Ellis, "a handy man around the office, took them away and he never saw them afterward."

"Where is Ellis now?" "He is dead."

Schmuhs said the bound sheets used in figuring the dressed cost of beef in Morris & Co.'s offices were always destroyed a few weeks after they were compiled, as there was no further use for them.

GRANT—The 15-year-old daughter of James Houchin, living three miles south of town, was probably fatally burned last evening. She had filled a lantern with kerosene and spilled some on her clothing. When she lighted the lantern her clothes caught fire and before it could be extinguished she was fearfully burned. Her mother suffered severe burns on her hands and arms in the effort to save her daughter's life.

TALKS OF TARIFFS AND TRUSTS

Ohio's Governor Tells Democrats in East St. Louis of Road to Salvation for the United States.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. 12.—"Oh, for an hour of Andrew Jackson!" This wish for the resurrection of the tariff and economy policies of President Jackson summarized the views of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio in a speech tonight before the Democratic club here.

The occasion was a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the battle of New Orleans in the war of 1812.

"Jackson urged a gradual reduction of tariff taxes," said the governor, "especially on necessities, at a time when they were levied mainly for revenue. When recently we saw a president led, against his just inclination, to sign and praise a tariff bill which broke his own and his party's promise of reform, and then in the face of his express admissions into bills for reductions passed by congress under direct command of the voters of the entire country, men everywhere exclaimed, as they did in the days of the vacillating Buchanan, 'Oh, for one hour of Andrew Jackson!'"

The governor attacked the financial policy of the three last republican administrations as having increased the federal outlay from $1,000,000,000 each year. He devoted most attention, however, to what he described as "one of the worst abuses in history"—arranging tariff taxes so as to enable favored manufacturers to collect from the public a much larger sum than $1,000,000,000 for their own benefit.

"It is significant that the Sherman anti-trust law and the McKinley tariff law were under consideration at the same time and passed at the same session," he said. "That tariff law went far beyond earlier laws in the bestowal of special favors. There was plain warning of its evil effect, and the leaders did not dare face the country on it without a law to prevent stiffening the competition from which great benefits were promised to the people."

"It is said that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. In this instance it would have been worth a ton, for the Sherman law was distinctly a preventive measure."

"The first step surely must be to reduce the tariff from its perverted use and restore it to its proper place as a revenue measure by gradual reductions so that all concerned may have time to prepare for the change. With the chief cause of the trouble thus removed I believe we shall make our way safely back to normal conditions."

Safe Robber Opens Oklahoma Strong Box for Treasurer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okl., Jan. 12.—Paul Hayes, accused of several safe robberies in Oklahoma City, gained entrance to the state's strong box yesterday under official supervision.

When State Treasurer Dunlop tried the combination the vault door did not respond. Experts were called, but their efforts were without result. Hayes was brought from the prison at Tecumseh.

After a few minutes' manipulation Hayes had the safe, which is equipped with a time lock and burglar proof appliances, open and the state funds at the disposal of the treasurer. Before his arrest, Hayes was employed as a safe expert.

KANSAS CITY MAN HANGED IN SAN QUENTIN PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Mark A. Wilkins, who was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Verne Carmen, with whom he eloped from Kansas City in 1907, was hanged at San Quentin prison at 10:21 a. m. today. The body was pronounced dead and taken from the scaffold at 10:30.

Wilkins made the following statement to the warden:

"I want you to say for me, as my last words on earth, that I am an innocent man and have no fear of death. Express my deep gratitude to those who have been active in trying to secure a pardon."

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Verne Carmen, for whose death Frank A. Wilkins was executed today, was the daughter of Henry P. Linderman, a hotel proprietor at Sheffield, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City. She was the wife of Louis L. Carmen, a railroad engineer, from whom she had separated a year ago, before her death, but they were never divorced.

SHERCLIFFE'S FATE
DEPENDS UPON GOVERNOR
DEI FER. Colo., Jan. 12.—Whether Sherman W. Morris, alias Frank Shercliff, will be freed from the penitentiary at Canon City, where he is serving a term for murder, depends upon the action of the governor. When the pardon board met today two members favored granting the pardon, while one stood out against the proposed action. Governor Shafroth is said to be opposed to releasing Shercliff, and it is generally believed, will decline to issue the pardon.

GOVERNOR ALDRICH SPEAKS AT BROTHERHOOD MEETING
(From a Staff Correspondent.)
BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 12.—(Special Telegram.)—Governor C. H. Aldrich was the principal speaker at the Men's brotherhood banquet held in the Christian church this evening, which was attended by about 300. His subject, a rather unusual one for a man in political life, was "The Mental Biography of the Nazarene." He showed that he had given the subject much study and his address was one of the best ever heard here.
