DEBT OF LINCOLN CLUB PAID

Norris O'Neill Takes Up Notes and Receivership is Lifted.

COMISKY IS BACK OF THE DEAL

Proprietor of White Sox Furnishes Part of Funds—Rourke, Hanlon, Fairweather, Isbell and Holland Give Balance.

LINCOLN, Jan. 30.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon President Norris O'Neil of the Western league paid to Attorney Claude Wilson, acting for George F. Truman in the receivership action against the Lincoln base ball club, a certified check on a local bank for $7,223.95 and gave another check to the clerk of the district court for $11 covering the costs. The receivership suit was accordingly dismissed, although four creditors of the club had filed petitions in intervention in the morning, their claims totaling $2,220. Two other suits against the club are still pending, but they total only about $500.

The notes on which the suit was brought by Truman were turned over to the private secretary of Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, which confirms the belief that Comiskey is backing up the local club. President O'Neill, however, stated to District Judge Stewart that each of the club presidents here, Tom Fairweather and Frank Isbell of Des Moines, Hanlon of Sioux City, Jack Holland of St. Joseph and William Rourke of Omaha, had put up a part of the funds. All these gentlemen were present in the court room in the afternoon when the case was settled.

This afternoon a meeting of the magnates present is being held in the offices of the base ball club, at which the matter of transferring the schedule meeting from Denver to Chicago is being discussed. It is expected that the magnates, with the possible exception of President O'Neill, will leave Lincon this evening.

OIL INSPECTOR SUGGESTS SUIT TO TEST THE LAW

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Jan. 30.—(Special Telegram.)—State Oil Inspector Husenetter has issued a circular bearing on inspection of low grade oils in which he says all oils must be inspected under penalty of $100 fine. He finds on examination that the product called distillates is a low grade coal oil and its use is prohibited under penalty.

Low grade gasoline, however, for uses other than power, light and heat, while prohibited, is not under the law subject to penalty, but at the same time the inspectors are instructed not to approve any such. He has suggested a friendly suit by heavy consumers of low grade oils for uses other than light, power and heat that the present law, which he considers too drastic, might be tested.

Omaha Coach Will Assist to Revise Basket Ball Rules

Joy Clark, coach of the Omaha High school basket ball squad and one of the foremost enthusiasts of the floor game in the west, has received an invitation from Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago to attend the annual conference of the national amateur rules committee on basket ball, which will be held at the La Salle hotel in the Windy City February 28 and 29.

Representatives from all over the country will be present at this meeting and some radical changes are expected, the feature of which will probably be a complete revision of the much mooted "dribble" rule which has caused such a stir among promoters of the floor game during the last two years.

If Clark attends the conference he will go as the representative of this section of the middle west.

SUES ARBITRATION BOARD

Green Asks One Hundred Thousand Dollars' Damages.

SERVICE SECURED ON O'NEILL

Former Owner of Lincoln Team Charges Value of Independent Club Was Injured by Publication in Bulletin.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 30.—A damage suit for $100,100 was filed today against the National Board of Arbitration, the National Association of Professional Base Ball Clubs and the individual members of the arbitration board, including Secretary J. H. Farrell, by Guy W. Green, former owner of the Lincoln base ball club. The suit is filed in the federal court and service has been had on President Norris O'Neil of the Western league, who is in this city untangling the affairs of the local club.

Mr. Green sets up four counts in his suit. He alleges that in 1910 he was engaged in independent base ball. He alleges that Secretary Farrell wired the secretary of the Seward, Neb., base ball club to cancel a game scheduled there and that he was forced to return the gate money taken in, losing $90. While playing at Auburn, Neb., at a later date, he alleges that Farrell wired the Mink league club secretary there to cancel the game unless Green paid $100. This was paid, says Green, "under coercion."

Shortly after this fine had been paid, alleges the plaintiff, the Official Bulletin, the official publication of the national association, contained an article stating that GGGGGGGcmrbm gfagfr gfrafwd that Green had been fined $100 for violation of the rules of base ball, and added that it was hoped this would have a good effect on other independent owners. This article is alleged to have demaged the plaintiff's business and his good name to the extent of $50,000. In the fourth court it is alleged that the result of the publication was to make it impossible to secure games for his club the following year so that he was forced to sell the club for $400. He alleges that he had been making a profit of $5,000 a year from the club and asks an additional $50,000.

Guy Green owned the Lincoln base ball club in the season of 1908 and part of 1909, selling to the present owner, Donald Despain, and a partner, Lowell Stoner. He also owned the Nebraska Indianas, an independent club. His attorney, R. L. Hagerlin, asserted that this suit had been held up for more than a year awaiting opportunity to secure service on a number of both the national board of arbitration and the national association. President O'Neill's presence afforded the opportunity.

Mid-Yearly Exams Causing Anxiety in Iowa Athletics

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 30.—(Special.)—The chief concern of local dopesters this week is the fate of Iowa athletes in their semi-yearly examinations. Of most immediate importance, of course, is the basket ball team, for the experience of two years ago, when one of the strongest teams Iowa ever put out was riddled in the middle of the season, is remembered. But the track and foot ball teams are also the subject of some concern. Few of the base ball veterans are believed to be in any danger. It is at this time that most of the damage is done to the promising freshmen, as their scholastic weaknesses are more likely to be found out in their first trial.

Not much apprehension is felt as to the basket ball team in respect to conditions, but the injuries sustained by the squad in the last week is the ground for more apprehension, with Grinnell coming next on the schedule. Three men who would have started in the Normal game were kept out by injuries. Embree, who has been slated to replace Leo at center, dislocated his knee two days before the game and is still unable to work. Berry suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Minnesota game and cannot use his arm, while Captain Schmidt's bad ankle kept him out until the latter part of the Normal contest, when he was compelled to go in to insure victory.

SYNOD MAKES REQUEST THAT TURNER RECONSIDER

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 30.—(Special Telegram.)—The commission of the Presbyterian synod has addressed the local board of trustees of Hastings college asking that President Turner reconsider his decision to resign at the end of the college year. A member of the board said today that Dr. Turner probably would not reconsider and if he withdraws from the college most of the local members of the board will also retire.

The trustees declare that the synod has not given the college the support that was pledged three years ago when the institution was made the synodical college of Nebraska. The commission lately proposed retrenchment in the management which the local officers insist would lower the institution's standard of efficiency. Interference by the commission and lack of financial support is given as the reason of the present difficulty.
