BOURKE'S CLOTHES SHOP. Stock Losses in Wyoming Normal. Russell Thorpe of Lusk, Wyo., one of the most extensive cattle and sheep feeders in the state, is in Omaha, discussing the live stock situation in Wyoming.

Both cattle and sheep are thinner than usual, owing to the long continued cold, but aside from this, they are in very good condition and are going to come through the winter fairly well unless there should be unusually cold weather and bad storms during February and March.

According to Mr. Thorpe, outside of the cattle and sheep country, people do not understand the situation. With many the opinion prevails that the owners of stock go into the winter with little hay, expecting that their animals will subsist picking the dry grass on the range. The situation is quite the reverse of this.

OMAHA PARKS COMPARED WITH THOSE OF OTHER CITIES. In a communication from the park commissioners the mayor and council are given an idea of what other cities are expending for parks and boulevards and the value of the Omaha park and boulevard system is set forth in comparison with other cities. The communication accompanies the annual report of receipts and expenditures. In part it says:

"In comparison with funds for our parks and boulevards, we quote Seattle for the year 1910, and its park area is only twenty acres more than ours. It expended for improvement and maintenance $400,871.89, while we expended $25.06, including $20,000 donated. Seattle's bond issue for the same year was $2,000,000 for purchase of parks and playgrounds, and our bond issue was only $50,000 for improvement of boulevards only. That city's bond issue has been $2,500,000, while ours for parks and boulevards has been $50,000."

New York Lad Lured Into West by Tales About Wild Indians

"Where are all the Indians?" queried Edward Downs, a 15-year-old New York boy, who had come to Omaha to see some of the real wild and woolly west. Instead he saw the police, who looked very much like the New York cops, and very much like they do in other metropolitan places. They led him to the station. "I read there were a lot of wild Indians around here, and that sometimes they just shut up everything and killed people and scalped them and held war dances and everything," the boy explained to juvenile officers. "A man told me if I would just wait around here they would come in and ride whoooping and shouting up and down the streets. I've waited three days, but I haven't seen any."

After being taken to the detention home the boy became convinced that there were no very ferocious Indians around here. "This place looks something like New York," he said and at this the detention officers smiled out their cheeks. "Say, I think I'll go home. I've got $1.25 here. Just go and send a telegram to my father and he will forward me a ticket." Juvenile officers did as directed and back by telegraph came the order for a ticket. The boy left yesterday for his home, much disgusted with the writers of things as they are not.

Bishop Beecher is to Have Automobile

All distance records made by bishops in the missionary district of Kearney were surpassed in 1911 by Bishop George A. Beecher, who traveled 16,000 miles, visiting near and remote parishes. "And this year," said the bishop while in Omaha to attend the meeting of charities and corrections, "I intend to break last year's record." Travel is difficult in parts of the district which are far removed from railroads and can be reached only by crude facilities. This, together with the fact that the district is very large, has prompted Bishop Beecher's supporters and friends to furnish him an automobile. The machine will be purchased in Sweeping Assertions. You can save 375 pounds of work on sweep day. Every time you sweep you raise the broom at least 1000 times. An ordinary broom weighs 35 ounces. That makes 35,000 ounces, or 2,187 1/2 pounds you lift every time you sweep. A Little Polly Broom is 6 ounces lighter than ordinary brooms. In using it you save lifting 6,000 ounces, or 375 pounds every time you sweep. Think what this means in a year's time. The saving on your carpets is considerable, too, as the Little Polly Broom is made of soft tipped broom corn, that gets into the nap and draws out the dirt with the least effort on your part. Little Polly handles are of hard maple—light and strong. The finish is guaranteed not to stick or soil the hands under any condition. The LITTLE POLLY Broom. Look for the Name on the Handle. This hard finish and the high polish we give Little Polly handles, is a secret process—the envy of all other broom makers who have tried to duplicate it, but have all failed. Little Polly handles come in canary or rose color and all bear the name The Little Polly, printed lengthwise. Be sure to look for and find this name, as it stands for the best broom that experience or money can produce. You can get brooms that cost more, and others that cost less, but, pay what you will, none offer so big a value as the Little Polly. Prove the truth of these facts by giving the Little Polly a trial. We guarantee satisfaction or money refunded. Harrah & Stewart Mfg. Co., Des Moines, Ia. H. J. Hughes Co., Distributor, Omaha, Neb.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp.
