GROUNDHOG SEES SHADOW

Belief is Six More Weeks of Cold Weather is Coming.

WELSH DOES NOT BELIEVE IT

Forecasters are Kept Busy Throughout the Day Answering Calls as to Whether or Not Marmot Saw His Shadow.

Forecasters were driven to exasperation yesterday by the large number of people who phoned him to know whether or not the groundhog saw his shadow. In all cases the forecaster replied that the only groundhog with which he is acquainted is known as sausage, and that as far as he knows it has never been accused of being a prognosticator. Mr. Welsh believes that he is the only one who is entitled to look for his shadow and he stamps all signs and prognostications that do not emanate from his sanctum as being rank drivel. Mr. Welsh says that next to government weather, the weather is best. Groundhog weather comes third and the railroad fourth. He says the way to tell what kind of weather is going to prevail is to look at the fish in the Missouri river. "Take a spyglass," says he, "and wait until all of the fish begin to swim in the same direction. If they all swim toward Council Bluffs, then six weeks of rain by the sheriff will prevail. If they swim toward Omaha it is a sign that an early spring will come. If they are headed toward St. Joseph, 'fairweather' experts are divided in opinion. Some say that it means that Peary really didn't discover the North Pole and, therefore, warm weather is headed for Alaska. Others say that the same direction means snow. Fish have groundhog beaten off the board when it comes to being weather signs," concluded Mr. Welsh. At any rate the groundhog saw his shadow about 8 o'clock yesterday morning and there are many who are willing to accept the sign that there will be six more weeks of cold weather.

Yeiser Hands Out a Package for Corrick

An interview given out by John O. Yeiser adds another chapter to the drama portraying the differences between the Roosevelt boom and the official La Follette spokesman in Nebraska over the proposal to divide districts. "I am not surprised at Secretary Corrick," says Yeiser. "He has a personal grudge against Colonel Roosevelt owing to the fact of his being postmaster at Conard where trouble existed and his service ceased on March 25, 1900. Of course he would not stand for the colonel, and would take any steps necessary to beat him on this affair. But from what I am able to learn of Mr. Corrick's residence in Nebraska, I do not anticipate any great opposition to the colonel from the gentleman's influence against this agreement. We shall deal with Mr. Van Dusen and other members of the committee, if they are not under the domination of Mr. Corrick, or the rank and file of La Follette's supporters in carrying out this agreement, which is as fair to them as it is to us. In fact they would make such an agreement if one had not already been made."

Baggage Man May Have Many Wives

William B. Johnston, formerly with the Union Pacific and frequently in Omaha, and arrested in Denver, Tuesday charged with wholesale mail thefts, is now accused of having numerous wives. Postal officials and the United States district attorney believe he has at least a dozen wives in as many cities between Omaha and Denver and that he was married not over three weeks ago to a Council Bluffs woman. In addition to about 400 articles found in Johnston's rooms there were several dozen photographs showing him hugging and kissing different women. In almost every picture he was either fondly embracing or holding a girl's hand. His wife appeared in Denver to tell what she knew about her husband's action. She denied he had ever brought stolen goods to her home and said if reports that he had given many other women presents were true, she didn't know it, as he never favored her in that way.

Holden May Assist on Seed Corn Trip

Dean E. A. Burnett of the agricultural school of the University of Nebraska has written to Prof. P. G. Holden, the noted Iowa expert, asking him to spend several days on the seed corn special which will run in Nebraska. Prof. Holden was director of agricultural extension in Iowa for many years, having recently resigned to become the farmers' candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

Electric Light Company MOVES TO NEW OFFICES

The offices of the Electric Light company are now moved completely over into the new Union Pacific building, Fifteenth and Lodge streets. The contract department and cashiers are located on the first floor just east of the Dodge street entrance, while the accounting department and general offices are on the second floor. The company retains its lamp and other offices in the Young Men's Christian association, but delivers lamps by auto, adding to the convenience of its patrons. The key to success in business is the judicious and persistent use of newspaper advertising.

SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS GONE

County Physician Has None to Turn Over to Successor.

M'CRANN REPORTS THEM STOLEN

Spirited Controversy Liable to Result from the Way Things Have Been Run at the Douglas County Hospital.

Dr. W. J. McCrann, retiring county physician, has nothing but an operating table, worth about $25, to turn over to his successor, Dr. P. J. Schler. The county bought $23,117 worth of surgical instruments of one kind and another for the county physician's office last year. The board of county commissioners wants to know what has become of them and of other instruments previously purchased for the office and will demand an accounting of Dr. McCrann. Dr. McCrann says the instruments have been stolen, instruments of his own that he took into the county office have been stolen, he has paid $80 in office rent for a county physician's office, and he has done $1,000 worth of work and received but $1,000 for it. The prospects are for a spirited battle between the county board and Dr. McCrann.

MEXICO REEKS WITH STRIFE

Strife is far from being near an end in Mexico, is the unanimous opinion of Sixth cavalrymen who passed through Omaha yesterday en route from the border to Fort Des Moines. The soldiers expressed the belief that the Madero government is honeycombed with men who for months, owing to not having been given important positions, have been ready to join in any revolt that leaders might suggest. Generally they have doubts about any man, or set of men bringing about results that will be satisfactory to the masses. Gomez, say the cavalrymen, has been jealous of Madero and the revolution that he has organized in Mexico contains scores of men who are seeking to become leaders and are always rallying about themselves a bunch of followers. Usually they are against the government and at all times are willing and ready to start and lead a rebellion.

On Two Special Trains.

The third squadron of the Sixth cavalry, consisting of 59 men, ten officers, equipment and horses, passed through Omaha over the Rock Island. The command occupied two special trains, one carrying men and equipment and the other conveying the horses and heavy guns. The Sixth cavalry left El Paso three days ago and just before the breaking out of the Gomez rebellion in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. When the command departed from the border everything was quiet in Juarez, the Mexican city, was across the Rio Grande river, from El Paso, and there the Madero government was as stable as at any time since the resignation of former President Diaz.

Internal Revenue Receipts Increase

Internal revenue receipts for the district of Nebraska during the last month amounted to $248,235.72, which is an increase of over $40,000 for the corresponding month in 1911. The revenue office made its report to Washington on the first month's receipts of corporation collections, which are about the same as the collections for 1911, notwithstanding the fact that a number of suits were instituted to bring tardy concerns to task.
