Ex-President Reads Part of Letter to Newspaper Men. NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—With the correspondence of Abraham Lincoln as a text book and six newspaper reporters as pupils, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt addressed today what he called his "First Class in Applied Decent Politics."

Wants to Name Folk.

He said that he had tried to take Lincoln's letters as a guide for himself and he thought that excerpts from many of the martyred president's letters would make proper replies to questions that are being asked him daily.

One of Lincoln's letters especially, Mr. Roosevelt thought, would apply to conditions confronting him today. This was a letter written at Springfield on April 6, 1861, to C. F. McNeil. The part emphasized by Mr. Roosevelt reads as follows:

Rev. M. O. McLaughlin, pastor of the United Brethren church, is objecting to the report that he is in the race for commissioner. "It was reported that I took out a petition," he said, "but I didn't. "Perhaps some of your friends took out the petition," said a reporter; and asked Rev. McLaughlin if he would enter the race. The possibility that some of his friends were circulating the petition had not occurred to him.

Duke Will Resign From Presidency of American Tobacco

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—James B. Duke soon will resign from the presidency of the American Tobacco company to become chairman of the British-American Tobacco company, limited, with its chief office in London.

It was announced late today at the American Tobacco company offices. With this announcement was coupled the statement that he will be succeeded as president of the American Tobacco company by Percival S. Hill, long a vice president.

Mr. Duke's desire in making the change, it was explained, was to devote himself to the extension of the business of the British-American Tobacco company, limited, which now has plants principally in China, India, Australia, Canada, South Africa and continental Europe.

Mr. Duke said he felt that a larger field of activity and usefulness awaited him in the British-American Tobacco company and the other companies which were disintegrated under the decree of the court and were now fully organized and embarked on their separate careers.

YEISER TIES UP WITH HARRISON

Unrest, the uncertainty and the distracting effect on business that hovers over a presidential campaign. It would be known in the start what his attitude towards business would be, what his attitude in all the great essential relations in conducting the affairs of a prosperous people would be, for he has been tried out in the fiery furnace of experience and not found wanting.

"In my humble judgment, all things taken into consideration and weighed from every viewpoint, it would seem that at the present time the republicans of this country ought to unite in the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt."

Edward O'Brien of the counsel for the insurance company then outlined his side of the case and what he expected to prove. His preliminary statement agreed in respect to Kimmel's early history with that already made to the jury by the plaintiff's attorney.

Andrew J. Hunt, a former Omaha neighbor of Kimmel, was named as a new and highly important witness by O'Brien. Hunt, he said, would be used as a witness for the plaintiff.

"Certain witnesses for the plaintiff," said O'Brien, "take great interest in keeping Kimmel dead."

Physical Weak, but Keen Nerves. O'Brien in closing his statement painted a vivid word picture of the findings of the claimant in Matteawan (N. Y.) asylum for the insane.

"It was in 1905 we heard of a prisoner in Matteawan who claimed to be George A. Kimmel," he said. "On investigation in May, 1905, we found a near-wreck of humanity who had scars, troubles, sickness and scars and was wounded and bruised both in body and in mind. When he stood up and shut his eyes he would fall down. He was physically and mentally disqualified."

"He was a man who had suffered some wonderful tragedy. He sat with his head in his hands and moaned. A scar on the back of his neck indicated that at some time his head had almost been severed. He had depressions on his skull in two places and his left thumb had been amputated. But he still answered to the name of man—and of George A. Kimmel."

KIMMEL CASE STATEMENTS

Attorney for Bank Says that Plot is Revealed.

ANSWER OF INSURANCE COMPANY

Attorney Says Certain Witnesses Are Taking Great Interest in Keeping Kimmel Among the Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 7.—Outlining to the Kimmel jury today the first efforts to establish the identity of the present claimant as the missing George A. Kimmel, Attorney Frederick H. Bacon said: "This reveals a plot. There will be much said in this trial about plots."

Bacon, attorney for the receiver of the "Miss. Mich. bank, which is suing an insurance company for Kimmel's insurance, referred to Andrew J. White, the former New York convict, who the defense contends is Kimmel, as "the claimant."

White, according to Bacon's statement to the jury, was first discovered June 22, 1899, eleven months after Kimmel disappeared in Kansas City. Bacon called the jury's attention to the fact that Kimmel at that time would have been 32 years old and that White had stated to the prison authorities he was 52 years old.

The claimant had blue eyes and Kimmel had dark brown eyes, according to the attorney.

Differences in teeth, weight, height and marks on the body were also called to the jury's attention. The trip of White to Niles, Mich., after his release from prison last September was narrated. Bacon said White did not recognize any of Kimmel's boyhood acquaintances.

Edward O'Brien of the counsel for the insurance company then outlined his side of the case and what he expected to prove. His preliminary statement agreed in respect to Kimmel's early history with that already made to the jury by the plaintiff's attorney.

Senate Committee Begins Steel Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The senate committee on finance today began a series of hearings on the house steel tariff revision bill, which would make an average reduction of 35 per cent in the present tariff law. The hearing marked the first real work of the senate on the tariff question at this session of congress.

No attempt has been made to limit the hearings, but Chairman Penrose had indicated a view that the committee may be able to finish the hearings in about three weeks and then proceed to consider the bill in executive session and make prompt report to the senate.

Many men representing interests affected have asked to speak. Those whom the committee agreed to hear today were William Pigott of Seattle, Wash., for the Pacific Coast Steel company; J. L. Gitterman of New York, representing manufacturers of tinplate and bottle caps; President H. P. Miller of the National Alloy company of Philadelphia, and representatives of card-clothing and steel pen interests of Philadelphia and New York.
