Attorney Gets Big Fee from the Hill Estate, Now Settled

Testimony of eminent Omaha attorneys as experts on attorney's fees were heard by Judge Howard Kennedy Thursday and after hearing the testimony the court allowed Frank T. Hanson and E. H. Westfield, attorneys for John W. Hill, Jr., trustee of the estate of the late Lewis W. Hill, a fee of $12,000. John L. Webster, John J. Sullivan, Joel W. West, John F. Stout and other attorneys estimated the value of the trustee's advisers. Their estimates ranged from $12,000 to $20,000. Sullivan's estimate was the lowest, $12,000.

The trustee wanted a fee of $10,000 for his services as trustee and wanted it as well as the attorney's fees paid out of the estate's funds. The legatees objected in the amount and thought the trustee should pay the attorney's fees out of his own pocket. Judge Kennedy fixed Hill's fee at $12,000 on the ground that that was about what a real estate dealer would have charged for the same work.

Both sides were dissatisfied and wanted to appeal. While Judge Kennedy was drafting the unprecedented appeal bonds the parties agreed to abide by the ruling and not to appeal.

The actual apportionment of the estate was made by Judge Sutton and affirmed months ago by the supreme court. James H. and John W. Hill each receive a third and the last third is divided equally among George T. Wilson, Shirley Wilson and Rosanna Kroll, children of a dead sister.

SELF-STARTER RUNS CAR FOR MANY BLOCKS

Manager Reim of the Cadillac Automobile company demonstrated yesterday afternoon the great power of the electric self-starter on this car. The car was run from the Auditorium to Sixteenth and Farnam streets on the power of the self-starter. Besides Mr. Reim, there were Rome Miller and two other men in the car. A large crowd witnessed the demonstration and were thoroughly convinced that the self-starter on the Cadillac is one of the best on the market.

GUYE TO SEE SCHOOL BOARD

Will Ask Why Fire Escape is Not on High School.

HE ORDERED IT IN SEPTEMBER
Omaha Factories Are Being Inspected and Mr. Guye Reports Managers Ready to Take Suggestions.

Louis V. Guye, deputy state labor commissioner, says he will appear before the Board of Education and ask why fire escapes have not been put on the high school building. They were ordered by Mr. Guye in September, but have not yet been installed.

Mr. Guye is in Omaha on two missions, to see how his two deputies are getting along with their inspection of Omaha factories and to confer with managers of several big buildings who have been ordered to put on fire escapes, but have not been granted an extension of time. "My inspectors have been working among the Omaha factories about a month," said Mr. Guye, "but they are nowhere near through, because there are so many factories and so many conditions to be considered. They are checking up the factories on the score of sanitation, ventilation, safety of machinery and safety of buildings."

"The manufacturers in most instances seem perfectly willing to comply with the requirements of law, once the provisions of the law have been made clear to them. It is no trouble at all to get them to put on fire escapes, to clean up their dirty rooms and to paint the danger points in their machinery in red."

"The problem of proper ventilation for the factory workers, however, is more serious, for the factory men do not like to go to the expense necessary to ventilate adequately. In many cases this requires a considerable alteration in the building. It will require time to get proper ventilation in all the factories, but I do not look for any serious opposition to the enforcement of legal requirements."

OMAHA HIGH GETS RETURN GAME WITH LINCOLN HIGH

The Omaha high school athletic management has succeeded in scheduling a return game with the Lincoln high school basketball flippers, which will be played off at the local "Y" association gymnasium on Saturday evening, March 2. The locals trimmed the Capital City lads in a close floor contest earlier in the season. The purple and white quintet will battle with the Sioux City High school five at the Sioux town this evening.

FATHER ON HIS DEATH BED CRIES PITEOUSLY FOR SON

Assistant Postmaster Woodard has received a pathetic letter from H. H. Hagle, a druggist of Egan, Okl., who wishes to locate a butcher named Oscar Vetter, who was last heard of in Omaha. Hagle says that Vetter's father is dying and in want and that since he became sick he has been piteously asking for some word from his son.

Omaha Selected as Place in Which to Open Branch Store

Omaha is to be the first western town to be favored with selection for one of the famous Leon hat stores. In the east a string of these stores has been conducted for several years by Marcus B. Leon, and now the head of the firm has agreed that Omaha is a logical place for starting a western branch, so beginning March 23 a Leon exclusive hat store will be run at 218 South Fifteenth street, where the Bourke clothes shop was located.

In the east the elegant fixtures and decorations are characteristic of the Leon stores. The Omaha branch is to be kept up to the high standard of the eastern shops. The fixtures will be splendid. A special decoration scheme to make the interior of the store beautiful is being arranged, so the new little fashionable hat shop will have a bewitching and inviting atmosphere. Leon quality in hats is recognized everywhere in the east. It is declared that in a short time this quality will be as famous in this section as it is east of the Mississippi.

The key to success in business is the persistent and judicious use of newspaper advertising.
