

GRAND JURY MEMBERS SPLIT

Some Want to Make Their Report and Be Discharged.

KLEIN FAVORS ADJOURNMENT

Argues that it is a Waste of Time for the Grand Jury to Investigate Minor Criminal Cases.

Omaha.

Douglas county grand jury members have split on the question whether further efforts shall be made to probe numerous charges and rumors of official corruption or whether the grand jury shall make a final report by the end of this week and ask that it be discharged.

Attorney Charles A. Goss, special assistant to the grand jury, let it be known that he would prefer to have the grand jury continue in session at least for several days.

Juvenile Officer Mory Bernstein and Bertha Lang, one of the young girls said to have been held for a week or more in a Greek rooming house, were witnesses before the grand jury this morning.

F. W. Brown, superintendent of the Omaha district of the Nebraska Anti-Saloon league, was called to testify as to his knowledge of alleged violations of the liquor laws, but was unable to give little testimony that was not hearsay.

Some testimony regarding pool halls in which minors have been permitted to play pool was received by the grand jury.

C. M. Peider, the barber's union agent who has been fighting for closed barber shops on Sunday, appeared before the grand jury as a willing witness in the hope of striking a blow at the opponents of Sunday closing, who have the upper hand at this time. He got little satisfaction.

Yon Mahammit, editor of the Enterprise, a weekly newspaper for colored people, was a witness before the grand jury this afternoon.

Following the lead of Home Miller and other hotel proprietors, who were witnesses before the grand jury, and donated their fees to the Child Saving Institute, Juvenile Officer Mory Bernstein today gave his fees to the Salvation Army Rescue home. They were for two days and amounted to $4.

Copper Didn't Know that Beer is Beer

John Parrot, a saloon keeper at 213 South Thirtieth street, was acquitted by a jury in police court on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday. The jury was out but five minutes when it announced that a verdict had been reached.

Steve Maloney on the stand told of entering the saloon and finding several men with glasses partly filled with beer before him, but did not see any money pass over the bar. Patrolman Good said he looked in the door and saw the men with the glasses before them, but could not tell what was in the glasses. The officers did not arrest any of the inmates. Every jury emphatically answered to the call of his name. They were Harry G. Jordan, real estate man; Ray C. Goddard, president of the Continental Coal and Coke company; Walter Wilby, real estate; C. J. Canan, real estate; Frank B. Brownlee, real estate, and F. D. Farmer, coffee merchant.
