JANUARY CIRCULATION
49,728
State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, ss:
Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that the average daily circulation, less spoiled, unused and returned copies, for the month of January, 1912, was 49,728.

DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager.
Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 5th day of February, 1912.
ROBERT HUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

It came in a-roaring all right.
Oh, you old-fashioned winter!
These ought to be good days for Ananias clubs.

Most anyone knows how to pronounce the second syllable of Juarez.
All wise mollycoddles will take to the other side of the street from now on.

Never mind, they miss their guess who imagine Colonel Yeiser will stay "quiescent."
After a lion-like entry, March will be expected to make good on the rest of the adage.

Mexico is still reported to be in a state of unrest. No more tired than we are of its unrest.
Dr. Willey will stay on the firing line. He is neither of the resigning nor of the resigned, kind.

Every time you see a bareheaded man now, you naturally conclude that he, but is in the grip.
A new Masonic temple is to be erected in Lincoln at a cost of $100,000. This is notice for Omaha Masons to get busy.

Speaking of "fretted vaults" and "pealing anthems," what is the matter with every man swelling his own note of praise?
When the ballots are counted it will be found that all those governors have each just one vote, the same as the rest of us.

An impatient reader asks us what this boy scout movement is all about. The ideal General Baden-Powell, of course.
The California man who died in a bath tub must have labored under the delusion that it was the scriptures that said, "Cleansing is next to Godliness."

On the Wrong Tack
As chairman of the Roosevelt campaign committee, Senator Dixon of Montana gives definite form to the colonel's contest for the nomination by issuing an attack upon President Taft and his administration. In this, we believe, he is starting out on the wrong tack. President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt both have abjured personalities in defining their own plans for the nomination contest. If they can afford to refrain from attacking one another, their advocates certainly can.

Suppose Once More
Colonel Roosevelt has persuaded himself that no valid objection to a third term for president lies unless the terms are consecutive and that a consecutive third term is objectionable only because the possession of the machinery of government gives the incumbent of the presidential office a tremendous leverage with which to secure renomination.

Parcels Post and Living Cost
Arguments for the parcels post generally center on the benefits accruing through improved delivery service from the town to the country, when, as a matter of fact, equally as great, if not far greater, advantages are possible in the other direction, from the country to the city.

Gallery-Play Reform
The outcome of the cases resulting from the sleuthing activity of our reform democratic sheriff is significant as illustrating that there is a great difference between making a spectacular raid and presenting evidence in court to convict.

People and Events
A sudden demand for the goods signals politicians about to jump in to dodge the hickory limb and place their political clothes in safety lockers.

Tramps a Railroad Problem
President Darius Miller of the Burlington railroad has appealed to the governors of the states traversed by his line for co-operation in reducing trespassing on railroad property to a minimum.

Color Line Drawn by Lawyers
The executive committee of the American Bar association raises a very delicate point in ousting from membership in the association a distinguished member of the profession because his skin happens to be black.

Twenty Years Ago
The sports were all agitated over the news from New Orleans that Bob Fitzsimmons had whipped Peter Maher in twelve rounds, and the fact that the way was now open for Fitzsimmons to meet anybody, even John L. himself, and it would not have to look far for a match.

Italy and Tripoli
Among the things Italy will inherit from the Turkish regime in Tripoli is a boundary dispute with France. Hitherto Turkey has constantly claimed that the southern frontier of Tripoli touches Lake Toudah and includes all the famous caravan routes and cases of the central Sahara, including Bilma, Agades, Ain Chaka, Borku and Tibesti.

Looking Backward This Day in Omaha

COMPILED FROM BEE FILES MARCH 2

Thirty Years Ago
The dump strike is described as in statu quo. The strikers have raised their ultimatum to $2.25 a day, and work has been completely stopped.

Some Side Lights on What is Transpiring Among the War and Far Nations of the Earth.

Millions for Warships
Of all the industries enjoying the favors of governments, the makers of armor plate and naval equipment alone possess a mighty, unmistakable grip on the cash boxes of nations.

POLITICAL SNAPSHOTS.

Whittled to a Point.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Prof. Woodrow Wilson, we hear, says his hat has been in the ring some time—with his head in it. Not altogether bad for the professor in politics!

Philadelphia Record: There is fun in the "recall" method of self-government. Mayor Hiram C. Gill, who was elected mayor of Seattle two years ago and recalled a few months later, has now by a vote of 12,000 ballots ahead of his nearest competitor carried the nominating primaries for re-election.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The colonel declares that he will abide by the decision of the republican national convention. But where does he draw the line in changing his mind?

St. Louis Republic: After this when a man says he will under no circumstances take another drink it will be understood by all the enlightened that he means another conservative drink. Grave injustice has been done men of great honesty of purpose through failure on the part of their hearers to comprehend this simple principle.

WHITTLED TO A POINT.

Are you a favorite son?

"Are you a favorite son?" asked the visitor to a South American. "No; I have just been defeated for the presidency. Last year I was a favorite son. This year I am a prodigal son."—Washington Star.

"I always heard that Jobber was an arrant coward, but he is continually boasting while in the Philippines of all the Moros he beat in battle." "Nonsense. If ever the did get into a battle he never beat anything but a retreat."—Baltimore American.

"The base ball season is drawing out!" "That's right." "Yes; the boys around the stove have begun preliminary practice."—Washington Herald.

Briggs—I see that the aviator who promises to fly across the Atlantic says he will make one stop in mid-ocean. Griggs—Well, I hope he won't conclude to stay where he stops.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Well, good-bye and don't be too hard on my friend, the company promoter. He's done some good things." "Yes; I was one of them."—London Opinion.

Paul Revere has finished his famous ride to a South American, which sounded the downfall of British power in this country. "Ha!" he said, with the prophetic instinct of a copyright, "where would this industry have been if I had been arrested for exceeding the speed limit?"—Baltimore American.

"I am quite ready now," said the Emment Citizen who was about to be interviewed; "and, if you please, we will step into the next room." "This is your office, isn't it?" queried the reporter. "Why not here?" "Because I know there's no dictagraph concealed in there, and I'm not absolutely certain about this room."—Chicago Tribune.

When you sit down to a table Sit down hungry as a bear. And find fault that's pleasing to you In the noon spread you're there. Do not judge the cooks deficient—Do not such injustice do; For the deficit, my brother, May be located in you.
