MRS. PANKHURST TO JAIL. Leader of British Suffragettes Given Months' Term.

WOMEN BREAK MANY WINDOWS. Destructive Attack on Government Offices and Shops Made to Attract Attention to Their Cause.

LONDON, March 2.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Mrs. Tuke, and Mrs. Marshall, the three leaders of last evening's window smashing campaign by which the suffragettes succeeded in terrorizing the London tradesmen, were today sentenced each to two months imprisonment.

They were the first three of the 124 women who were arrested in the course of the street demonstrations and who are to be arraigned at the Bow street police court chiefly on charges of causing wilful damage to stores in Bond street, Piccadilly, Regent street, Oxford street, the Laymarket and the Strand, as well as other busy shopping streets.

The attorney for the prosecution announced in court today that the total damage done by the suffragettes in their stone throwing manifestations was estimated at $5,000 and on behalf of the government he stated that time had now arrived when the consideration which had been hitherto shown in connection with suffragette raids could no longer be allowed.

The steady advance that Mrs. Pankhurst has made in the police court at suffragette prosecutions was absent today. The benches were occupied by sympathizers with the storekeepers whose premises had suffered damage. The sentences of the three leaders were received with applause.

Says She Will Do It Again. On the delivery of the sentence by the magistrate, Mrs. Pankhurst declared that she intended to go farther when she came out of prison and that the suffragettes were prepared to go to the fullest limit to show the government that women were going to secure the vote.

Sentences ranging from a fortnight to two months were pronounced on a number of prisoners, but most of the women were remitted for trial at the London sessions, as the damage committed by each exceeded $5. About thirty cases were dealt with today, the remainder being adjourned.

Women Break Many Windows. Because the coal miners had been able to gain government recognition of their grievances by threatening the business of the country, the suffragettes last Friday also entered upon a policy of menace to trade.

They carried it out suddenly and with an order that resulted in heavy financial losses, brought consternation to merchants of the most prosperous shopping district of the city and paralyzed business. Before the police were able to muster their forces and restrain the women, streets were covered with shattered plate glass from the show windows of stores.

It was a window-breaking expedition and a thoroughly organized one. Hundreds of windows in many of the most famous shops of the world and several government offices and clubs were wrecked by the suffragettes. The damage will aggregate many thousands of pounds, but is largely covered by insurance.

Women Dragged to Stations. One hundred and fifteen women were dragged to the police stations by police or excited and indignant merchants. Many others escaped. All those arrested were released this morning on bail, coupled with a promise to refrain from further window wrecking.

Some shopkeepers who saw the storm coming were able to close their shutters and barricade their doors. The trouble centered about Trafalgar Square, ranged along the Strand eastward and westward, and up Regent street, Piccadilly and Oxford streets, where are situated the fashionable jewelry and dry goods houses.

Mrs. Pankhurst Leads. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the veteran of many a suffragette battle, struck the first blow. In an automobile, accompanied by Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Tuke, she drove up to the premier's residence in Downing street at 5 o'clock. The three women leaped from the machine and drew out axes, commenced in their efforts.

Four windows crashed in before the police could reach the women. The trio were arrested, but while being led to the station pursued to have missiles through the windows of the Colonial office.

Franticness broke out in the shopping district at the same time. Taxicabs were the favorite vehicles of approach used by the suffragettes, and large numbers of innocent-looking women were lashed out of them by porters, stationed in front of stores. There was no hesitation on the part of the women, who at once attacked the show windows with bricks or lammers. The surprise of the porters was so great that a majority of the miscreants were able to lose their way in the crowds before the guardians of the shops could collect their senses and restrain them. The women who did not use taxicabs merely walked along the streets, cracking or smashing windows with hammers, while crowds fol-

FOREIGN TROOPS AGAIN ON THE WAY TO PEKING

(Continued from First Page.) body of 1,000 troops is on the way there. The action of the ministers in calling in foreign troops to Peking was decided on at a meeting convened partly as a result of a communication from Tang Shao Yi, asking the powers to take measures to prevent further bloodshed and loss of property in Peking.

So systematically and quickly was the work accomplished that it was well over before police reserves could be called out. Hundreds of extra policemen were on duty tonight protecting the damaged buildings, while thousands of sightseers tramped the streets to view the havoc wrought by the women.

The suffragette leaders declare it is their purpose to continue their campaign of window breaking until, like the coal miners, they force the government to take up their claims for suffrage in order to protect business interests.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 2.—"This is the beginning of the end," said Miss Sylvia Pankhurst today, when informed of the sentence imposed upon her mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the suffragette demonstrations in London yesterday.

"My mother and the others will go to jail, but women the sooner will have the ballot. Window smashing hits the Englishman in his pocketbook and he will be stirred to action."

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., March 2.—(Special Telegram.)—A sensation was exploded in local political circles today when the Laymen's Civic union made public a report which had been prepared, giving results of an investigation into the records of various candidates for city office. The union made a serious attack upon only one of the candidates, Councilman Zell Roe, and this attack relates to his record in office prior to his election to the council. He is accused of juggling of his books and failure to make proper reports as justice of the peace, and the statement declares that he is still indebted to the county in a large sum.

Carmen Would Arbitrate. A board of arbitration to settle the wage scale dispute between the street railway company and the street car men will be demanded by the union, following the proposals submitted by the company. The entire membership of the union voted against the acceptance of the proposal made by the company through General Manager Harrigan.

The settlement of the difficulty by a board of arbitration will be taken up at once and the men will ask the company to agree to the submission of the dispute to a board. Some time ago, when General Manager Harrigan refused the demands for an increase of 25 per cent in the wage scale, he declared in his statement that if the matter went to arbitration he would insist that the present scale be lowered.

All the remainder she leaves to D. H. Hedrick of Battle Creek, a banker who since Mr. McHugh's death has been special administrator of the estate with her. A codicil of the will leaves $20,000 to Robert Leroy Hoover, son by her first husband. The codicil was executed pursuant to a contract entered September 1, 1911, between Mrs. McHugh and her son, by which he agreed to accept the sum in lieu of any interest he might have in the estate. The will is witnessed by George Hubbard, county treasurer, and Robert Linton, banker. It is said here that Hoover will contest the will on the ground he did not realize the size of the estate.

The court room was thrown into an uproar. Women cried in sympathy with the overwrought wives. Weeping and still hysterical, Mrs. George Rabenau and Mrs. John Stacey were led from the room, while the prisoners and their confederant, William R. Channell, also sobbed. The mother of Rabenau staggered to her feet and wailed, "Oh, save my boy; save my boy!" when the younger woman screamed.

The case will go to the jury Monday.
