DEFECTIVE WIRING AT PERU
 State Normal Board Orders Inquiry Made by Expert Electrician.
MARBLE ONCE LINCOLN STUDENT
 Date of Unveiling of Monument of Lincoln Likely to be Fixed Soon by State Board of Memorial Day.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, March 5.—(Special.)—The State Normal board was in session today, but the time was mostly occupied by routine business such as reading reports of superintendents of the various schools, allowance of bills and approving recommendations for supplies.
 The superintendent at Peru in reporting on the small fire at that institution in February reported it was caused by defective wiring, incidentally reporting that the wiring in practically all the buildings at that institution was defective, and much of it old. He reported that owing to shortage of funds it had been done originally in a poor manner and much of it now was actually dangerous. The board authorized E. Shurig of Omaha, who is the expert employed by the state, to inspect the Peru buildings and report on their condition and what was needed to place them in a safe condition.

Marble Nebraska Student.
 John Hobart Marble, secretary of the Interstate Commerce commission, was at one time a student at the Nebraska State university, though he did not remain long enough to graduate. He registered in the literary department from Hermann, S. D., in 1888, and was also in school the following year. He was appointed in 1907 to his first position with the Interstate Commerce commission, that of confidential clerk and was credited to California. Among those who knew him when he was attending the Nebraska university was T. L. Hall, at present one of the members of the Nebraska State Railway commission.

Date of Monument Unveiling.
 The Board of Public Lands and Buildings will meet tomorrow to fix the date for the unveiling of the Lincoln monument on the site selected at Grand Island. The monument, which is designed by Daniel Chester French, is now cast and the founders are finishing the work. It will be ready for shipment the latter part of February and it is thought it can be ready for dedication on Memorial day. Art critics who have seen the plaster model pronounce it one of the finest presentations ever designed of the martyr president. The orator for the unveiling is decidedly uncertain, as several names have been suggested, some of which evidently are not practicable, and it has not been ascertained as yet who of those desired can be obtained.
 D. D. Price, engineer of the irrigation board, has gone to Holt and Boyd counties to see if he cannot adjust the difficulties between the two counties regarding the state aid bridge over the Niobrara river between the two counties.

Hansen Gets His Watch.
 Food commissioner Hansen thought he had been "touched" for his watch while in a crowd trying to get in to hear a lecture. Today he received a telephone call from a young man who said he found the time-piece on the floor near the entrance, where Mr. Hansen evidently dropped it, or it was pulled out of his pocket accidentally in the jam.
 To Test New Law.
 A case to test the legality of the station registration law will be heard, according to present plans, at Grand Island, March 11. The firm of Robinson & North, horse importers, contend the law is invalid, and also, that it is unjust and therefore have refused to have their horses inspected or pay the fee. The board has brought action to compel the firm to do so and this is set for hearing March 11. The board is well pleased with an early determination of the point involved, as it would be unjust to go on collecting for some if the law is void and if it is good the board proposes to play no favorites, but to collect from all.

Harrington in Murder Case.
 Former Senator Allen, opposing, and H. F. Harrington, supporting, at Grand Island, argued the case of the state against Joseph McKay in the supreme court today. McKay was convicted of the murder of Arthur Brown in Antelope county and the supreme court reversed the verdict for the reason that H. F. Harrington appeared as a prosecutor without having been appointed by the court or the county attorney, but was employed by the relatives of the murdered man and for the further reason that in arguing the case to the jury Harrington exhibited the bloody coat of the murdered man, the court ruling that the fact of the murder was not in controversy, but it was a question if the coat committed the crime and that the coat had nothing to do with proving this, but was simply an instrument to work in the feelings of the jury.
 Harrington insisted the court was wrong in both conclusions and is therefore asking the supreme court to reverse itself. He cites the law and practice of the court against reversing verdicts on technicalities and insists no substantial right of the defendant had been violated either by his appearance or by the exhibition of the coat. Mr. Allen contended that in the reversal of the case the court has clearly followed the law and the practice in this state and he further contended Mr. Harrington had no standing in court at present, even if he ever had, for the reason that no motion for

Farmers in Numbers Hear About Seed Corn
HARTINGTON, Neb., March 5.—(Special Telegram.)—About 200 people surrounded the seed corn special today and so great was the interest that in addition to two splendid indoor meetings a large and enthusiastic overflow meeting was held at the rear end of the train.
 The special arrived and departed here on schedule and made its last stop for the night at Crofton, where a night meeting was held. Prof. Keisselbach, one of the speakers accompanying the train, reports a most successful day's trip and estimates that the lecturers have talked seed corn to about 1,100 people today. Farmers all along the line are showing an increased disposition to proceed carefully and test their seed if necessary. There is also an increased disposition to quit sending long distances for seed and to buy it nearer at home. Another fact that has developed on the trip is that the seed corn selected before the heavy frosts last November, where it has been kept dry, in the best seed.
 It is also becoming more and more evident that as a rule the small farms of corn are the best.
 The trip of the seed corn special so far has developed the fact that good seed corn is a scarce article in Nebraska this spring and has fully vindicated the campaign of agitation and education which is being carried on.

DEAN BURNETT WRITES MOVE WITHOUT AUTHORITY
KEARNEY, Neb., March 5.—(Special.)—Somewhat of a sensation was sprung at the regular meeting of the directors of the Kearney commercial club today when a communication from Dean E. A. Burnett of the Agricultural college at Lincoln, who stated that he had not been approached by those interested in backing the proposed demonstration farms.
 Some two weeks ago George B. Odell, secretary of the Nebraska Rural Life commission, accompanied by Nels P. Hansen, pure food commissioner and Sam Bassett of Gibbon, addressed the directors on the plan of having ten demonstration farms in Buffalo county, as well as nine other counties. A part of the plan was the furnishing of three experts from the agricultural school, one skilled in agriculture, one in horticulture and one in dairying, who would visit the farms at least once a week giving the farmer such advice as his schooling had taught him was best. No action was taken, as the dean had signified his intention of investigating the matter.

NORTH PLATTE TO BUY WATER WORKS SYSTEM
NORTH PLATTE, March 5.—(Special.)—At a special election held here Monday the people decided by a large vote to authorize the mayor and city council to comply with a decree of the United States circuit court of appeals and to pay for the water works in this city, owned by the North Platte Water Works company, in accordance with the provisions of the decree. The money is to be obtained from the proceeds of the $100,000 bonds issued October 1, 1909, which bonds were voted at that time with a view of constructing a new system, but since the courts have decided against the city, by entering into certain negotiations with the old company, thereby became the owners of the system, the money will be used for the payment and improvement of the same.

ROYSE SAYS BANKS DO WELL
 Secretary of Banking Board Makes Annual Report.
ONE FAILURE IN EIGHT YEARS
 Finds Some Ambiguities in Guaranty Law and Makes Suggestions Where Legislature Might Change It.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, March 5.—(Special Telegram.)—Secretary Royse of the State Banking board has just made his annual report to the governor, and in it embodies the bank statements of the year, and in his view of the same says that the period has been one of marked success for banks in spite of the general slowing down of general business.
 Two banks are in the hands of receivers, but the failures are old, there not having been a failure in five years and only one in eight years. He calls attention to some friction caused by the interpretations of the new banking law and which in some instances is indefinite, leading to arbitrary rulings, and in some others to litigation. He expresses the hope that those ambiguous features may be remedied by the next legislature.
 Secretary Royse cites the conflict of the law regarding the guaranty fund, one section of which says it shall be levied on the average of deposits exclusive of public money otherwise secured, and another which puts public deposits on the same basis as private and secured by the guaranty fund.
 He says he has, under the decision of the courts which held banks need not give security for public funds, ruled that public deposits shall be included with private in computing the amount to be levied for the guaranty fund.
 Ex-Sheriff James Chirnside alleges he is entitled to $200 as jailer's fees and has employed Charles H. Denney to plead his case. County Attorney Frank L. Hale will represent the county. Both of the cases on the docket are causing a great deal of comment.

Humfelt Contempt and Chirnside Cases Come Up at Fairbury
FAIRBURY, Neb., March 5.—(Special.)—Judge L. M. Pemberton of Beatrice came over to Fairbury, Monday evening, and will hold a short session of district court. Quite a number of important cases in the equity division will occupy the attention of the court this week, the leading one being the injunction case of Frits Humfelt and the other the claim of ex-sheriff James Chirnside, who is suing Jefferson county for $1,150 jailer's fees while sheriff for six years.
 A great deal of interest centers on the injunction case. Several weeks ago County Attorney Frank L. Hale made a trip to Beatrice and secured an order from Judge Pemberton, citing the defendant to appear in court March 5 and show cause why he should not be fined for contempt of court. This is the outgrowth of a dispute over a public highway between Humfelt and another farmer by the name of Henry Arend, six miles west of Fairbury. In the early part of December, Humfelt built a fence over the road, thereby blocking traffic. An injunction was secured, restraining Humfelt from blocking the road. He then employed a road surveyor and after he received the findings, decided to block up the highway in spite of the injunction.
 Ex-Sheriff James Chirnside alleges he is entitled to $200 as jailer's fees and has employed Charles H. Denney to plead his case. County Attorney Frank L. Hale will represent the county. Both of the cases on the docket are causing a great deal of comment.

Senator Percy is Asked to Resign by Legislature
JACKSON, Miss., March 5.—A joint resolution demanding the resignation of United States Senator Leroy Percy was adopted by both houses of the Mississippi legislature today.  "Will you resign or decline to resign?" he was asked.
 "I cannot say anything yet," was his reply.
