FEW VACANCIES HIGHER UP

Commandant Crown of Regular Army Has Taken Special Care to See that Officers Are Qualified for Duty.

The 333 mid-term promotions of the Omaha high school cadet regiment was issued Monday with the concurrence of Principal McHugh.

Captain Arthur S. Cowan of Fort Omaha, the new commandant of the cadets, has taken especial care to see that every one of the lads are capable of fulfilling their duties in a creditable manner.

OMAHA FIRMS PROVIDE ALL FOR NEW BUILDING

Following its policy of making the flatiron, its new apartment house at Seventeenth and Howard, a building of strictly Omaha material, the Payne & Water company has let the contract for its furniture, carpets, draperies, and linen to the Orchard & Wilhelm company.

This will be a classy building, with thirty bath rooms, velvet carpets on the floors of the sixty-six guest rooms and furniture of mission design in velvet finished cases. Samples of the furniture, carpets and draperies are being displayed. The office fixtures, designed by architect Prinz, are being made of solid mahogany at the Bloom fixture mill.

The flatiron has been built and the material furnished by Omaha contractors. It will be ready for occupancy in about sixty days.

YOUTH SENT BACK TO IOWA WHENCE HE CAME

A lad of 20 came trudging out of the snow and applied to the Associated Charities for help. He was bumming his way as Colorado, thinking the blither altitude would prolong his life a little, for death by tuberculosis threatened him.

The doctor told me I had to go into the mountains, said the young man. "And I left my home in Iowa without a cent. I have come this far and want to go on."

Miss Fortier of the Charities discovered that the young fellow had a rich uncle in Iowa who had refused to help him. Knowing that if he was sent on to Colorado he would be sent out, as dozens are who have no means of support, he was given his transportation back home.

MAKING UP THE CITY SLATE

Citizens' Union Executive Committee Engaged in the Work. Why Should the Committee Seek to Know Partisan Affiliation of Man Who is to be Non-partisan Candidate?

Interest in the city campaign is now directing itself to the slate makers and the next promulgation of a slate is expected to come from the Citizens' union.

This intrusion of political affiliations in a commission plan election supposed to ignore party politics altogether has stimulated inquiry as to the politics of the slate makers themselves.

The executive committee of the Citizens' union which is to do the business is composed of Charles Harding, republican; W. F. Baxter, democrat; Lyle L. Abbott, democrat; Ernest Sweet, republican; C. J. Smyth, democrat; C. G. Cunningham, democrat; A. H. Hippie, democrat; Edwin E. Swobe, republican; W. Lester Rice, republican; E. A. Benson, republican; A. H. Burnett, republican; N. T. Thorson, republican; Charles A. Alden and Robert Lynn, Jr., party unknown, but supposed to be republican on national issues.

What particular interest can they have in a man's age, nationality or political affiliation? said a deeply interested member. "My understanding, which agrees exactly with that of others I have talked with, has been that this thing was to be conducted along nonpartisan lines, with a sole view of getting the best men, regardless of all other considerations. Perhaps these apparently trivial details explain the rumors we have heard recently that an inner circle of wise, practical politicians is to make the final decision on the ticket."

The taking of the referendum vote has given rise to a good deal of speculation as to just what it will lead to. It seems practically certain the executive committee will be held responsible whichever way the cat jumps. Those candidates eliminated from consideration by the committee, but who may be voted for in the referendum, can be relied on, say the political wise ones, to rise in rebellion when the ticket is announced, and to put up a howl that will be reflected in the action of their nominators. And if this protest is strong enough it may upset to an alarming degree the calculations of the leaders.

Dehman Goes Alone. It has become generally understood since Mayor Dehman filed that he has decided to go it strictly alone in his own peculiar fashion. He has been busy at work personally and through his lieutenants for the last two weeks lining up his friends in the lower wards, and the Dehman boosters insist the mayor cannot fail to land. Other democrats holding office do not take kindly to the Dehman one-man campaign, and this fact will very likely lead to a democratic slate that may interfere with the mayor's hopes.

Family is Found in Critical Condition

Without wood or fuel, and but scant clothing, was the condition Harry Sigler, superintendent of the Union Gospel Mission, 100 South Fourteenth street, found a family Monday morning.

When found by Mr. Sigler, the five children and mother were huddled over a small blaze in the kitchen stove, and the father was lying shivering in a bed in one corner with nothing but a tattered blanket over him. The family is in great need of assistance.

City May Soon Get the Water Plant

Further testimony to prove the expenditure of $125,000 in the improvement of the water works plant was offered by attorneys for the water company at the hearing Monday morning before Special Master in Chancery George H. Thumel.

The city's contention in a number of instances is that some of the items charged to improvement expenditures should have been charged to the upkeep account.
