

WOMAN MAKES DYSPEPTICS

Too Many Girls Marry Knowing Nothing of Housekeeping.

STRIVE FOR THE IDEAL STATE

Men Are Responsible for the Bad State of Affairs and the Women Must Reform Them, Say the Women.

"In addition to a certificate of good health from each man and woman contemplating matrimony, every woman should be required to have a certificate of good housekeeping," said Mrs. George Covell before the social science department of the Omaha Woman's club yesterday.

"Many girls think it refined not to know how to do housework; working girls have no opportunity to learn housewifery; the result is that they are going out into the world making dyspeptics and ruining homes," declared Mrs. Covell, whose talk was on "Woman's Responsibility Toward the High Cost of Living."

She placed the great share of responsibility for high cost of living, however, on the shoulders of the men who control trusts, tariffs and other terrible "T's."

"Women pay 60 for a hat, but men pay $5,000 for an automobile. To be sure women buy ribbons and flowers, but they at least have something to show for their money after the men's cigars and drinks are gone."

Mrs. W. E. Shafer, president of the Omaha Woman Suffrage society, read a paper on "Women's Influence on Social Evolution" in which she stated that in the past woman had been more influenced against than influencing, a mere jack of all trades to comply with the desires of men; but at the present and in the future she is and will be more and more powerful in human affairs, especially when given political freedom.

Mrs. F. H. Cole, member of the committee appointed at the last conference of State Charities and Corrections in the interests of a board of control for state institutions, and also member of the civil service reform committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, urged the women to use their influence at the spring primaries on behalf of the proposed addition to the state constitution, and explained the desirability of taking institutions for those who are subnormal mentally, morally and physically out of politics and placing them on a religious and humanitarian basis under the merit system.

The feeling for reform ran high at the meeting and took tangible form in a resolution to recommend to the club proper co-operation with the Frances Willard Woman's Christian Temperance union in the formation of a civic federation for promoting good government in Omaha. Mrs. Clara E. Burbank, ex-president of the union, presented the proposal.

W. F. Baxter of the Citizens' union urged the women to use their influence in securing support for the union's candidates for commissioner.

Taft Nears Control of Hawkeye State

DES MOINES, March 26.—(Special Telegram.)—That Taft will control the fifth congressional district, which is the fifth in Iowa to go for the president, was conceded here today by the Des Moines Daily News, a Cummins organ, and by the Cummins press throughout the state. Taft requires but one more district to control the state and the regular claim he will get this in the second district.

The progressives in the papers today concede so far Taft has in the state convention of delegates and the opposition, divided between Cummins and Roosevelt, 415 votes. Indications now are Taft will get Iowa's delegates at large.

THPEMING, Mich., March 26.—Twelfth Michigan district delegates to the republican national convention are J. C. Kirkpatrick, Escanaba, and J. H. Rios, Houghton. They are instructed for Taft.

TASTING OF EVIDENCE BY JURY NO BAR TO REVERT

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 26.—The fact that the jury smelled and tasted the evidence in the case of A. D. Baker, convicted of selling intoxicants in a "dry" town, in no way impaired the legality of the verdict. In an opinion handed down today the supreme court held that it was within the power of the trial judge to have permitted the jurors to sample the contents of various bottles in the courtroom and the fact that they did so after they had retired was not grounds for reversal. The verdict was affirmed.

City Hall Quakes For the Old Regime

Excitement reigned rampant in the city hall for a while yesterday afternoon, following the fall of a part of the ceiling. A patch of plaster dropped the eighty feet to the first floor, narrowly missing Street Commissioner Tom Flynn, who was headed toward an elevator. As a larger chunk of plaster was loosened the area where it was likely to fall was fenced in to forestall possibility of injuries.

A crowd gathered where the plaster fell, several councilmen and city hall officials speculating as to whether the entire roof would give way. "Oh, no," said somebody, "no more will fall. It was just a shiver up the spinal column of the municipal castle at the thought of the old regime's departure."

KNOX ALTERS HOSTS' IDEAS

Avowed Anti-Foreign Sentiment in Salvador is Broken.

Welcome Sign Succeeds Coat of Arms Over Entrance to Casino Where President Entertains at Ball.

ACAJUTLA, Salvador, March 26.—(By the Associated Press Correspondent With Knox.)—The visit of Secretary Knox to Salvador developed several surprises. Not the least of these was the frank avowal to those accompanying the secretary of a strong anti-foreign sentiment. In Panama, Costa Rica and Honduras it was admitted that among the poorly informed there was a certain suspicion of "outsiders," but it remained for Salvadorans to proclaim this prejudice as a matter of fact. Even many of those in official life made no secret of the matter, though they softened the effect by explaining that the antagonism was against foreigners generally and not toward Americans in particular.

This extreme view of foreigners is not shared by the present government so far at least as Americans are concerned, as was made clear as the visit progressed. Mr. Knox made an excellent impression from the very beginning, and when he left President Arango accompanied him to the railway station and volunteered the statement to the correspondents that "the visit of Mr. Knox has been considered here as a courtesy and a proof of the affection of the North American people for us."

Change of sentiment. The change of sentiment was noticeable in the cafes and on the streets from the moment the secretary made his first informal acknowledgement of a rather formal welcome. At the dinner on the second night of the visit, Mr. Knox made a plea for closer commercial relations, about to be made possible by the opening of the Panama canal. Then he turned to the subject of misrepresentations of the attitude and aims of the United States, which he intimated had been made, saying that only a knowledge of the truth was necessary to dispel all misunderstandings.

The effect was magical, and the occasion turned out to be something in the nature of a love feast. After the dinner the Salvadoran coat of arms flanked by electric lights, which had been placed over the entrance to the casino, where the president's ball was to be held the following evening, was taken down and the word "Welcome" blazoned forth from electric bulbs, was substituted. Mr. Knox was guarded in Salvador, but no arrests were made, the police limiting their activities to a close surveillance of possible disturbers of the peace. This precaution was a surprise to the visitors, as was the statement of General Muller that all the suspicious characters under observation were "Americans."

SCRAP AMONG CITY OFFICIALS

Ure and Cosgrove Clash Over Safeguarding City's Cash.

CHARGES OF NEGLIGENCE MADE

City and County Official Says Somebody is Responsible for Loss of Several Thousand Dollars to City Each Year.

City and County Treasurer W. G. Ure and City Comptroller Fred Cosgrove furnished the nucleus of a war in two pitched battles before the committee of the whole yesterday afternoon. The first engagement occurred over Mr. Cosgrove's request for a joint depository in which the treasurer should keep his securities, the depository to be opened only in the presence of the comptroller. The second battle began when Mr. Ure recommended radical changes in the method of issuing improvement district bonds.

"This is simply a personal thrust at me by the comptroller," said Mr. Ure, replying to Mr. Cosgrove's argument in favor of a joint depository. "Pass it if you want to, but I won't pay the least attention to it. The charter defines my duties and your ordinance would be a violation of the charter. Anyway, my personal estate and my bond stands between me and any indiscretion I might commit."

As to whether the council had any right to interfere the members thereof differed in opinion, the finance committee, headed by W. S. Sheldon, upholding Cosgrove's contention. City Attorney Hines was asked for an opinion and said he believed the council could prescribe what Ure ought to do. Treasurer Custodian. Mr. Ure asserted he ought to be retained as custodian of the city's cash, saying the proposed plan would place the control in the comptroller's hands. Sheldon objected to this, and Cosgrove insisted that in his opinion there was not sufficient safeguards around the city's securities and cash.

"A month ago I asked you for vaults and additional burglary insurance," Mr. Ure said. "The request was referred to the finance committee and that is the last that has been heard from it." "This plan is submitted in compliance with your request," confided Mr. Sheldon. "Well, it doesn't comply." A motion to postpone further discussion of one week carried. When Ure came forth with his recommendations to change the time of maturity of improvement district bonds, declaring that the city was losing several thousand dollars annually and would lose $50,000 within the next ten years if provision was not made to pay the bonds the first few years after their issue when money was available, Cosgrove replied: have separate funds. "It's untrue, these statements he makes. There is a separate fund for each improvement district and Mr. Ure is attempting to consider all these districts as one. There are 32 districts, each with its separate fund."

FLORIDA WORLD'S FASTEST DREADNOUGHT BY ITS TEST

ROCKLAND, Me., March 26.—The fastest "dreadnought" in the American navy and, probably in the world, is the title claimed for the government built battleship Florida, which made 22.4 knots on its standardization trial over the Rockland course today. The British dreadnought, Vanguard, with a record of 22.0, has been considered previously the fleetest battleship of the world, and the Florida's sister ship, Utah, built at a private shipyard, made a record of 21.67 on its fastest trial run. Today's tests were held in a rough sea and a brisk wind, with the big fighter using only coal, as its oil tanks have not been installed.

FATHERS AND SONS BANQUET

Three Hundred Gather at Y. M. C. A. for Annual Affair.

BOYS TALK OF THEIR "DADS"

Elders Speak Words of Cheer for the Lads—City Engineer Craig Tells of "Home" as Place of Boy's Training.

The second annual Father and Son dinner at the Young Men's Christian association last night was pronounced a huge success. Three hundred men and boys, mostly fathers and sons, were at the tables and it was about as democratic a gathering as could be found. No lines of distinction were visible to the naked eye. There was Protestant and Catholic and no-religionist and nationalities galore, all blending into a fine assemblage of sterling American citizenship. The dinner was held in the large dining room on the second floor and President George F. Gilmore of the association said that if greater success attended the event next year, they would have to resort to the gymnasium for more space. The dinner, itself, served by some of the mothers and sweethearts, was a "big hit" with the kids and after the eating was over came a little informal speech-making.

President Gilmore was the toastmaster and the first speaker was one of the boys, Melvin Bekins, who gave a very good account of a budding orator on "Dad." He was followed by Mr. F. W. Booth, the father of two boys, on "Son."

General Secretary E. F. Denison wound it all up with a characteristic word of cheer and appreciation, hoping that this occasion would serve to draw the boys and men into closer relation with the association. Then the boys acted as hosts for the dads in showing them over the building.

Ralph Douglas, a youth, made a most interesting talk, with a good deal of wit in it, on "Father's Sweetheart." George W. Craig, city engineer, spoke on "Home," laying stress on it as the first and last place for a boy's training. Russell Flower, boys' secretary of the association, made a few remarks, expressing appreciation for the presence of the men and boys and Rev. M. B. Williams, pastor of the First Methodist church, closed the set speech-making with an inspiring address on "Father and Son."
