

Omaha's Easter Shoe Opportunity

Fry Shoe Company will be the center of attraction for Easter shoe purchasers

Spring Shoes of latest models, perfect fit and extreme comfort for all men, women and children

This high grade shoe is made by Johnson & Murphy of Newark, N. J., recognized as one of the leaders in the manufacture of men's shoes. These shoes are by far the costliest to make, yet they sell for a trifle more than other shoes that pretend to be in their class. They are ease-giving to the feet in addition to being stylish, possessing wonderful durability and retain their shape.

We show the Johnson & Murphy oxford on their custom last, medium, shapely toe, medium heels, perfect in every respect—a true gentleman's shoe. Made in gun metal, calf, vici kid and patent leather, also tans.

Prices $6.00 and $6.50

Superior workmanship.

16th and Douglas
Streets

The Fry Shoe Company

16th and Douglas
Streets

In the Wright & Peters Company models shown herewith are style, comfort and service, with an appeal to fashionable women who demand high quality in a modestly priced shoe. They are worn by women who invariably are found to exhibit the most style in a refined and pleasing attractive way.

The "Co-Ed" Pump is particularly popular with the younger set. These low heels are the latest word in style. This model has an exquisite touch of fashion. We show it in White Nu-Buck, tan Russia calf, black Nu-Calf and patent colt.

No. E 813 Oxford possesses an admirable combination of style and beauty. It is all that a careful dresser could desire in a modestly priced shoe. We show this exquisite model in mat kid, Russia calf and patent colt.

Prices $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00

High quality leather.

For exclusive and handsome oxfords the Alden, Wilker & Wilde model shown in this cut, is fully the equal of any shoe produce for the money. Men, especially Young Men, walk naturally and easily in these shoes, because these are the kind that fit. They are produced so as to combine the highest degree of comfort and style effects. When you buy this shoe you cannot go wrong. A particular shoe for the well dressed young man.

We have the Alden, Walker & Wade oxford in the popular button style or in the attractive blucher model. It is made in either tan or black leather, with exquisite touches of style and grace. It is the kind of an oxford that will always satisfy.

Price $4.00

Clean-cut, snappy styles.

FORWARD TEAM'S BUSY DAY

Luncheons, with Speeches and Street Meeting Occupy Noon.

FIVE MEETINGS FRIDAY NIGHT

Delegation Visits the Burlington Freight Depot to Talk to the Men There—Big Meeting for Sunday.

Luncheons and set speeches, including a street meeting and a trip to South Omaha by a team of speakers, was part of the program yesterday afternoon of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. The luncheon at the Paxton hotel for the men of the Congregational churches was addressed by William A. Brown of the team of experts, he taking up the general theme proposed, "The Application of Men and Religion Message to Each Church." The luncheon held by the Commercial club was featured by speeches by Dr. L. J. Lansing and J. L. Alexander of the team, while Dr. C. A. Harboorn addressed the Baptists at the Young Men's Christian association at the same time.

During the noon hour a street meeting was held between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, on Douglas, where William A. Brown addressed upward of 150 men, afterward going to the Paxton luncheon. A delegation also went to the Burlington freight depot, where Mr. Deak addressed the men during their dinner hour. Dr. David Russell accompanied four or five men from here to South Omaha, leaving here shortly before noon.

Dr. Russell Speaks.

The third day of the convention opened at the First Presbyterian church Friday morning with a fifteen-minute prayer and praise service, led by Dr. C. A. Harboorn, team leader of the visiting experts.

Dr. David Russell, seventeen years in South Africa, expert on evangelism, led in the morning addresses before the gathering, describing his travels over the southern hemisphere and what he has seen of this country since his arrival in New York City six weeks ago. China statistics he said there were but 30 percent of the men and boys of this country connected with the church, but that he believed that the tendency now due from the men and religion movement was in the opposite direction. He demanded the sanctified church as a primal necessity to enlist men and boys in the forces for the spiritual uplifting of the nation.

Leave Long Faces Home.

Following the speaker Dr. L. J. Lansing, leader in the department of social service, was reintroduced to the convention by Dr. Harboorn. Speaking on the subject, "The Spiritual Value of the Social Service," he elucidated on how important the life of the Saviour while on earth was socially to the men and material relations of the world. He defined the truest love as personified by Jesus Christ. He disparaged the idea that people entering the church should allow their outward manifestations to represent their actual feeling. "Gladness and laughter can fit well with religion," he said.

The closing address of the session, by William A. Brown, expert in Bible study, was an appeal for everyone connected in the work of the church to give the best there was in them, citing an illustration of the custom once in vogue in India, where mothers were called upon to sacrifice their infants in the Ganges. One woman, carrying two children in her arms, one healthy, the other deformed, had given to the crocodiles the former, bringing back the sickly child. A Christian missionary, meeting the woman, and hearing of the sacrifice, said that the living God demanded only the best.

Gorge at Omaha Goes On Down the Stream

The ice which has been clogged in the Missouri river north of the Douglas street bridge broke at 5:45 Friday morning. On account of the comparatively thin ice no damage was done. There is little danger of the ice gorging and causing great damage to river property, however.

J. F. Allen, bridge agent, who has held that position for eighteen years, says that the ice has broken up this year with less snow and danger than in any previous year that he can recall.

HOTEL CLERK CHARGED WITH ABSCONDING IS FREE

Frank Phyle, former cashier of the National hotel, and who was accused of disappearing with $15 of the hotel funds following the raid by three deputy sheriffs several days ago, was discharged from custody by Judge Foster. William Keene, proprietor, said that he did not think that Phyle intended keeping the money.

Five women, arrested in the raid, were fined 50 and costs each as inmates. They changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty.

WENTOVER TALKS HIMSELF OUT OF A JAIL SENTENCE

The ability to blend scriptural quotations with comedy won the release of John D. Wentover Friday morning in police court. Wentover was arrested for being drunk.

"Judge, I was a stranger in Omaha, and someone took me in and gave me bad house. Let me go and I'll repeat and stay sober, besides remaining away."

"Good bye," answered Judge Foster.

CITIZENS' UNION DISTURBED

Outside Candidate Gains Possession of Secret Mailing List.

Editor of Advocate Assisting Union Accused of Disposing of List and He Makes Demand for Explanation.

More trouble in the Citizens' union camp, with charges and countercharges of treachery.

It is all over the escape of the official membership list which was supposed to be safely guarded, so that candidates for endorsement could have no advantage over one another, and be assured a square deal.

Just before the executive committee made up the slate it was found that the list had gotten away and into the hands of aspirants who were using it to induce members to bring pressure in their behalf. When complaint was made, accusation was laid at the door of H. H. Claiborne, publisher of the official organ of the union, for whom the roster served as a mailing list under strict injunction of secrecy.

At the inception of the union the executive committee had made an arrangement with Claiborne as editor of The Advocate whereby each member of the union was to receive the paper for a term of six months and the union was to use two pages of the paper for its work. When the members of the publicity committee of the union charged Mr. Claiborne with having given the list to some person he indignantly denied it and demanded the basis of the charge.

According to Claiborne this information was refused by Ralph Sunderland, William F. Baxter and Lynde Abbott for the Citizens' union, but he was told to make an investigation. This he did and learned that the list had been used by Frank A. Fury. He says Fury admitted that through his brother, Guy Fury, he had secured such a list and that he had told members of the executive committee that "it was the subscription list of a newspaper." He promised to exonerate Claiborne and all persons connected with the Advocate from complicity in the delivery of the list to him.

Mr. Claiborne waited until Thursday for Mr. Fury to redeem his promise and on that day sent him a letter demanding that he exonerate him by telling how, when, and where to whom the list was delivered to Guy Fury. Failure to answer this letter has brought out the following statement from Claiborne:

"Frank Fury admits he got the list and that he used it. He admits that he left the members of the executive committee under the impression that I gave him the list. Whoever did give or sell him the list was guilty of breach of trust and was corrupted either through fear, fraud, favoritism or downright bribery. Mr. Fury is the beneficiary of the breach of trust and lets me be suspected rather than that the truth be known. Do the people of Omaha deserve to elect as commissioners a man who profits by an act of treachery and throws the odium upon an innocent person?

"If I had been selling the list I could have sold it a score of times and for more money than I will receive out of all of my dealings with the Citizens' union."

Stimulate your business by advertising in The Bee—the newspaper that reaches all of the buyers.

Sheriff Comes to Town Totin' a Big Gun Around'

Sheriff Chase, who joined in the pursuit of Dowd, Morley and Gray, came to town Thursday equipped with a brace of vicious revolvers, but he did not announce his coming and he was not known to Officer Jensen.

The policeman, who was once in the wrestling game, threw a strangle hold around the Sarpy county officer's neck.

In gasps he protested, declaring his identity and making it strong by explaining that he was one of the party that pursued the bandits.

Jensen relieved him of his weapons, declaring that they were about the biggest he ever saw. Chase's reply was that he had a big county to handle. At any rate Jensen called the wagon and had the visitor carried to the station, where his identity was established. The officers apologized and Chase went on his way.

Streams in Iowa Are All Bank Full

Colonel Hank Donovan of Griswold, Ia., is in town and speaking of the flood situation in western Iowa states that no damage has occurred up to this time. However, the streams are bank full and have commenced to stop over the lowlands.

PALMER ESCAPES FINE BY ORDER OF THE JUDGE

A "peasant" task was imposed upon Ben Palmer, a garbage hauler, by Judge Foster in police court. Palmer was arrested for dumping debris at Eleventh and Grand streets in violation of city ordinances. He pleaded ignorance of the ordinances.

"Go back and clean up the stuff you dumped there and haul it to the proper dump and you will not be fined," said the court. Palmer was ordered to put up a $10 bond to insure obedience to the court's order.

FRIEND WIFE GOES OUT ON BUST WITH HUSBAND

That husband and wife should be together upon all conditions and under any kind of circumstances is evidently what Bert and Hannah Conklin believe. They were found Wednesday night by Officer Schwenger lying upon a sidewalk near the business district, oblivious to their surroundings.

When they recovered their senses they were in the city jail. They admitted being drunk and were given ten days each.

HOWELL WILL DEFEND SUIT AGAINST WARNER

United States Attorney Howell received word yesterday from Washington to defend Marshal Warner in the damage suit against him for $35,000, brought by Clarence Smith, who was arrested some time ago by the marshal for false imprisonment.

THE PRETENDER PERSON, by Margaret Cameron: 33 pp.; $1.50. Harper & Brothers.

The author has brought together a jolly group of charming people—men and women, old and young. Their flirtations and serious love affairs, begun on board ship and continued in the tropics, result in delightfully humorous complications.

The charm and spell of Mexico, seen through all sorts of American and native

New Books

POMANDER WALK, by Louis N. Parker: 26 pp.; $1.50. John Lane company.

As a play it was a pretty picture of London suburban life, and the story visualizes the characters through their conversation. Marjoline, whose love story unfolds her mother's tragedy and consequent marriage; the admiral and his social prominence in Walk; his rival, who is a butler incognito, and necessarily very much abreast with the doings of the beau monde; Miss Barbara and her profane parrot, the gift of a long deceased fiance, and the melancholy music master, all are drawn with delicacy and regard to detail.

THE JINX, by Allen Sangree: 31 pp.; $1.50. E. W. Dillingham company.

Stories of base ball, the title story being the narrative of a clever third baseman and a pretty but cross-eyed girl. There are seven stories in all, and they are not conventional base ball stories, but depict new characters, but Nanette, the little rasciper, who never knew a mother and who finds the heart-hunger for one approached by clinging to the stone pillars of Notre Dame and in the thought that the great cathedral, "Our Lady of Paris" is to her a mother who comforts and cherishes. "A little white soul," although only a rasciper's, is laid bare before the reader.

MY RAGPICKER, by Mary E. Waller: 112 pp.; 25 cents. Little, Brown & Co.

A sweet and tender story of life in Paris, under the shadow of Notre Dame and at Buttes Chaumont. There are but few characters, but Nanette, the little rasciper, who never knew a mother and who finds the heart-hunger for one approached by clinging to the stone pillars of Notre Dame and in the thought that the great cathedral, "Our Lady of Paris" is to her a mother who comforts and cherishes. "A little white soul," although only a rasciper's, is laid bare before the reader.

THE SHADOW MEN, by Donald Richberg: 22 pp.; $1.50. John Lane company.

The story of a scapgoat's struggle to evade apparent destiny, inspired by his love for a woman, and aided by a loyal friend. This is a "man's book"—but no dull tale of sorrows; affairs; or for the background of business the author has drawn live men and women.

PHILIP STEELE, by James Oliver Curwood: 36 pp.; $1.50. Bobbs-Merrill company.

A romantic tale of adventure with long journeys over the snow, scarcity of food supplies, narrow escapes from death and freezing, or from shooting pursuits and tragedies of the great waste. And then there is a softer side—a love story creeps in with a manly hero and a charming heroine, and the ending is all that could be desired.

AT THE AGE OF EVE, by Kate Trimble Sharber: 29 pp.; $1.50. Bobbs-Merrill company.

The story of a young girl who falls in love with an ideal. He is fair to look upon and to all appearances a typical knight errant. She becomes engaged to him and then her eyes are opened. The selfishness of his nature and his narrowness of vision throw his visible attractions far into the background. When the idol falls and is shattered, Ann discovers that it was not of gold after all, but a pitiful imitation made of clay. The gold idol is the friend of childhood, a quiet young doctor, "who goes about his daily tasks with no more fuss and fidget than a drowsy cooker."

THE YOUNG LION HUNTER, by Zane Grey: 22 pp.; $1.50. Harper & Brothers.

An exciting story of lassoing lions and hunting adventures in the grand canon country. Ken Ward, the hero of "The Young Forester" and "The Young Pitcher," is also the hero of this tale.

THE BOY WITH THE UNITED STATES CENSUS, by Francis Rott-Wheeler: 34 pp.; $1.50. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard company.

Shepard company.

Through the experiences of a typical bright American boy, the author shows the growth and resources of our vast country, and the methods of gathering the necessary information, the securing of which frequently involves hardship and peril.

OLD BEN, by James Otis: 188 pp.; $1.50. Harper & Bros.

In this book are continued the adventures of Toby Tyler, when the circus comes to spend the winter in Toby's village. The characters are original and fascinating, and the plot worked out in a manner unimaginative manner.

THE BELIEVING YEARS, by Edmund Lea Pearson: 203 pp.; $1.50. The MacMillan company.

Those who remember a time when Indians, highway robbers, pirates, cowboys, spies, scouts and other ruffians dodged from bush to bush in the doorways of sober, self-respecting citizens will experience a pleasantly reminiscent thrill in reading this breezy story of a boy's summer vacation. The night before the Fourth, circus day, the abortive dash for wild western regions, and other momentous days are described with humorous insight into the juvenile pride and prejudice.

New Resource Map of Utah.

Valuable to homeowners and investors. Shows everything up-to-date a map can show. Limited number for sale by state conservation commission, 21st Felt building, Salt Lake City.

W.L. LYON, of Lafayette, Ala., writes:—"I have a copy of this map for five years. I have bought and several different ones, but they have not helped me. I obtained a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and it has been of great good that I would not do without it for anything."

All orders. Price 25c. Post. $1.50.

Dr. Earl S. Sloan - Boston, Mass.

Rheumatism

Try Sloan's Liniment for your rheumatism—don't rub—just lay it on lightly. It goes straight to the sore spot, quickens the blood, limbers up the muscles and joints and stops the pain.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is fine for lame muscles.