HARMON HAS REAL BUSY DAY

Rises at Six and Keeps Going All Day Long.

VISITS LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE

Speaks at Noon at the Commercial Club—Will Address Mass Meeting This Evening at the Auditorium.

This has been one of the busiest days that Governor Harmon of Ohio has experienced since he threw his hat into the ring and entered for the presidential race.

At home Governor Harmon is an early riser and the habit stays with him, even out here in Nebraska. At 6 o'clock this morning he was up and down in the hotel lobby at the Paxton. There he greeted the clerks and the hall boys in a friendly manner and afterward devoted an hour to his correspondence. At 8 o'clock he had finished his breakfast and was ready to receive the crowds of democrats who had gathered to meet him. They were present from the city and out in the state. For two hours the governor held an informal reception in the lobby of the hotel, after which he was whisked away to South Omaha, where at 11:30 o'clock he addressed a large gathering of business men at the Exchange building.

Webster Toastmaster.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Governor Harmon was the guest of the Omaha club at luncheon, where some 200 of the business men of the city sat down. The governor's table was in the center of the room and he occupied a seat just to the right of John Lee Webster, who presided as toastmaster.

After the cigars had been lit, Mr. Webster, in introducing the guest of honor, referred to Ohio as being the mother of numerous presidents, adding that if a democrat is to become our chief executive of the nation, he would rather see the club's guest occupying the position than any other member of the democratic faith that he could think of, as he regarded him as a sincere, level-headed man.

Introduced, Governor Harmon was greeted with cordial applause and after paying a tribute to the Commercial club and kindred organizations, stating that they are doing much good in the way of creating sentiment for civic reform among all lines, stated that while Ohio has a record so far as presidents are concerned, it never put forward a candidate without standing by them and giving them united support.

The governor referred to the number of Ohio men that he finds in every community and stated that it was because that for the past 100 years the state has been sending to the west its good men and women, who have helped to build up communities and establish good government wherever they had settled.

There was no politics in the governor's talk, but he dwelt at length upon the question of good citizenship, expressing the opinion that there is generally too little attention given to civic questions by the business men. In cities, he said, that he had discovered that much more attention was being paid to public affairs by the business men than a few years ago and that better results had become apparent. However, he found that there was a woeful lack of attention paid to matters pertaining to the country at large, men being too deeply engrossed with their own affairs.

Prefers Commercial Club.

The governor believed that such organizations as the Omaha Commercial club could and had done much good; that this was an era of organization, business men should look to it that the affairs of city, state and country are run on business principles. "For," he added, "man does not get to be an atom if he does not ally himself with an organized body and help when there is something to do."

The Omaha business men listened to Governor Harmon when he praised Omaha, and they loudly applauded him when he told them that this is one of the best governed, best kept and liveliest cities that he has seen in his travels, besides having a prosperous appearance in every particular.

After the speaking, fifty or more of the members of the Ohio club gathered around Governor Harmon and for half an hour he held an informal reception, the Ohioans being introduced by Mr. Webster.

Later the governor returned to the Paxton, where from 2 to 3 o'clock he held an informal reception in the hotel rotunda, meeting several hundred persons who called to pay their respects.

To Speak Tonight.

This evening at the Auditorium Governor Harmon delivers his only real political speech in the west prior to the nominating convention.

LAKES FILLING WITH WATER

River is Rising at This Point, but is Falling in the North.

DAMAGE WILL NOT BE HEAVY

Hundreds of Curious Ones at River to Watch Immense Body of Water Burdened with Debris and Rubbish.

The Missouri river is up again, rising to a height Friday morning of 15.7 feet. This is eight-tenths of a foot below flood stage. Carter, Willow, Florence and Manawa lakes are full to the banks, though both sides of the river can stand a few inches more before there is a general flood condition. The different lakes look more like seas, the river backing up over the connecting land and turning them into one body of water.

The water now is at a standstill, however, and it is expected the crest of the flood will pass before evening and by tomorrow go down considerably from the mark established today. It is not believed damage will be done to the land so far inundated.

Overflow of a Sluice.

The present high water in Cut-off lake is due from an overflow of a sluice running in from Willow lake. This lake is filled from water backing up from the Missouri river and for the last four years little more than a corn field and pasture ground, is now an immense body of water, due from back water coming into the lake from the north. This stream of water runs south and west, and extends nearly to Ninth street, the land west of the original area of the lake being covered by water. A few houses on the north side of Florence lake are on higher ground and no danger to them is predicted.

The Omaha Rod and Gun club, on the south shore of Florence lake, will not be damaged to any extent by the present stage. The shore of the lake has retreated somewhat but the greater part of the ground at that point is considerably higher than the land now submerged.

Though Florence lake could overflow in a southwesterly direction there is no probability it could reach Cut-off lake either on the east or the west. The rise in Cut-off lake is brought about only by the overflow from Willow lake to the east of Florence lake.

George F. Swift & Co. has taken the precaution to prevent the water damage that they are liable by sending a crew of men there to plant up the north side of Cut-off lake.

Rise Again This Morning.

Lake last night the water dropped one-half foot or 1.5 inches, but in the early morning began to rise, over-topping the mark of yesterday of 15 feet and rising to a maximum of 15.8 at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Blair bridge this morning reported the water stationary during the last twenty-four hours, while all points north of there indicate a slow falling off. Sioux City reported a half-foot decrease while other points further north report the river falling rapidly. Slight rains are predicted generally in this section tonight and tomorrow, but it is unlikely they will reach magnitude sufficient to swell the river.

Hundreds congregate along the river front and on Douglas street bridge watching the immense body of water carrying down rubbish and trunks of trees gathered from the bottom lands up the river. The banks of the river are full to the brim and it is believed if river should come up a few inches more a consider-

Home Grown Green Onions on Market

The first home-grown green onions were placed upon the Omaha market Friday. Hereafter those who have thought they were buying green onions, the experts say, have been getting what are called shallots, a kind of imitation.

"Luther Burbank is not responsible for the deception," says A. King of the grocery department of Hayden Bros. "It is a variety of vegetable, fruit or something that grows from a seed. Onions spring from sets. They are selling at 10 cents for three bunches. Strawberries from Louisiana are down to 10 cents a box at some stores. At others they are retailing at 15 and 20 cents."

Celery is drying off the market. It is so scarce now that wholesalers have begun to tell it good-bye and retailers are telling their customers "there ain't no such thing."

Green peas are late in arriving here. Carload orders have been sent to Texas and Louisiana, but because of the conditions of the railroads since the floods swept down the Mississippi valley they have not yet been filled. Green peas are expected, however, in a day or two.

Senator Allen Here to Meet Gov. Harmon

Former United States Senator William V. Allen of Madison is one of the prominent Nebraska democrats who has come to the city to meet Governor Harmon during his stay here. And while the senator is enthusiastic for Harmon for the presidency, he is even more enthusiastic for Richard L. Metcalfe for governor. Speaking of Mr. Metcalfe, Senator Allen said:

"I have known Richard L. Metcalfe personally and intimately for more than twenty years. I first met him when he was a reporter on the World-Herald, and have known him throughout his entire career as a newspaper man and as an author.

"I know of no man whom I more highly appreciate than Richard L. Metcalfe. It comes from the first quality of American citizenship; and there is no doubt in my mind but that today he is and for a long time has been the foremost writer in Nebraska on governmental and economic subjects. He has a wide and accurate knowledge of our form of government and its history."

Henry Found Guilty of Lifting the Lid

Jack Henry and the Theatrical Managers Association club are found guilty of violating the liquor laws in conducting the resort in the basement of the Boyd theater building. The jury returned a verdict to that effect in the criminal division of the district court.

The injunction fine is 100, and not more than 250, or thirty days in jail, or both. It is likely that an appeal will be taken.

A Pierce Attack

of malaria, liver derangement and kidney trouble, is easily cured by Electric Bitters, the guaranteed remedy. 25 cents. For sale by Beaton Drug Co.

Harmon and attend the meeting this evening are J. R. Thompson of Grand Island, Herman McNary of Red Cloud, John M. Devine of Lincoln, George E. Hall of Franklin, Judge L. L. Albert of Columbus, John Sisk of Grand Island, Jack Walsh of Humboldt, former Senator William V. Allen of Madison, B. M. Simms of Hastings, J. H. Grosvenor and Dr. Woodard of Aurora, A. D. Fellers of Fullerton, E. E. Fellers of St. Edwards, John Byrne of Henry, Floyd Seybolt of Geneva and Henry Scheels of Urdia.

HARMON TALKS AT STOCK YARDS

Notwithstanding the much heralded notice that Governor Judson Harmon would speak at the Live Stock Exchange at 11:30 today, there was but a scant gathering present to greet the governor of Ohio, who has designs on the presidency of the United States.

Governor Harmon, accompanied by the democratic administration of South Omaha, including Fire and Police Commissioners Ryan and Plymou, arrived at the Exchange building about 11:30 o'clock. Previous to the arrival of the party, which was championed by Chris Gruenther, two automobiles of Omaha's police, under the command of Captain Mike Dempsey, ostentatiously speeded about town awaiting the arrival of the visitors.

Upon his arrival at the exchange Governor Harmon, under the wing of Jim Dugan, late of the state legislature, was introduced to a chosen few of the faithful, one exception being made in favor of the irrepressible Jerry Stoward, who carries the gonfalon of Governor Woodrow Wilson. The crowd that gathered about the rotunda set up in the rotunda of the exchange building but plenty of room for the expected guests who failed to arrive.

Compliments to Women.

The governor began his speech with a compliment to a few women who stood about and a reference to the former prestige of Cincinnati as a pork center. He admitted that the glory of hogs had passed from the Queen City to the Magic City of the west.

Governor Harmon continued his speech by a naive reference to his own aspirations to the presidency of the United States, to which he declares as a reward for faithful service in their own state. Constituting the speaker unctuous some broad platitudes about equal rights to all in the economic adjustment of warring interests. Strong democrats in the audience squirmed uneasily as the governor failed to arouse the enthusiasm of the audience.

Mostly the governor recited his own deeds of political prowess in Ohio. He laid special stress upon the fact that he had aided in having Ohio pass a law by which railroads would have to take care of those maimed and injured in the discharge of their duty. He also stated that he had assisted in having the loan sharks of Ohio open up their records to public view. The rest of his talk was a general denial of all charges made by his enemies and a plea for democratic retrenchment in the government of the United States. He claimed credit for writing democratic doctrine into the brief of the "states rights governors," including Chester A. Aldrich of Nebraska and Herbert Hooley of Missouri.

Laborer Wants to Know.

On the whole the governor found little response and the dissatisfaction with generalities found expression in the words of a democratic laborer, who demanded of the governor "what would you do about all this." While the crowd waited for an answer, Godfather Jim Bulla leaned over and advised the governor not to answer.

"Don't answer," said Jim as the governor paused, and the speaker passed on a bit lamely to plea for harmony in the democratic ranks, holding up his hands in affected horror at the republican strife in Bay City, Michigan.

Jerry Howard, an avowed Wilson man and a strong friend of the packing house laborers, was an attentive listener during the Harmon speech. At the conclusion of the address Jerry laughed as he remarked: "If they only let him talk a little while in Nebraska, Governor Wilson will carry the state."

The meeting closed with an announcement by Jim Bulla that the governor would speak tonight in Omaha, where all were invited.
