OMAHANS MAY GET CONTRACT
Klopp & Bartlett Has Lowest Bid on Steel Furniture.

SAMPLES TO BE EXAMINED
Commissioners Will Meet Monday to Consider the Proposals on Furniture for the New Court House.

Whether the Board of County Commissioners will accept one of the $40,000 bids for steel furniture for the vaults in the new county building or award the contract to the Klopp & Bartlett company of Omaha at $36,000 probably will be decided at a committee meeting of the board Monday.

Samples submitted by the Art Metal Construction company and the General Fireproofing company, both $40,000 bidders, will be examined. The bid of the latter is offered by its agent, the Klopp & Bartlett company, which proposes to give the county a rebate of $4,000 if the bid is accepted making the net cost to the county $32,000.

The Klopp & Bartlett company will exhibit the same samples on a straight $36,000 bid, its agency contract with the General Fireproofing company enabling it to offer to sell the goods at any price it sees fit.

Bidders and Proposals.
The bids are as follows:
Klopp & Bartlett company.....$36,000
Art Metal Construction company.....40,000
Vanliver Metal Co. (no check).....40,000
General Fireproofing company.....40,000
Berger Manufacturing company.....40,000

The bid of the Vanliver company is not to be considered, since it was not accompanied by a certified check to evidence of good faith.

The tabulation of bids, showing the statements of the bidders as to cost estimates for the several vaults to total the full amounts of their bids, is as follows:

Judge as Witness Against Mendicant

The unique instance of a judge sentencing a man after acting as prosecuting witness occurred in police court when C. D. Crowe appeared before Judge Foster on a charge of vagrancy. Crowe has been in Omaha for about two years beginning on the streets and living well on his profession. Many people have seen him sitting on the sidewalk, his legs warped in such a manner as to give the appearance of both limbs off, and freely gave him pittances. The fact is but one foot is amputated.

The judge had seen him many times go into restaurants and pay for orders ranging from 50 to 75 cents and dressed in a suit of good clothes. He had Crowe arrested yesterday, and when the "prince of beggars" appeared in court he gave him until 9 this afternoon to leave town.

ORDERS ARE GIVEN OUT TO STRENGTHEN THE NAVY

The bureau of navigation at Washington has instructed the local naval recruiting station to disregard orders of two weeks ago to stop further enlisting of men until further notice and to enlist men of all ratings.

Special orders are received to lay special stress on enlisting telegraph operators for the wireless. It is the aim of the bureau to get more efficient men in this branch of the service in view of the growing importance of wireless equipment on seagoing vessels. Hours of employment have been made shorter and pay raised.

BOGUS EVICTION NOTICE BRINGS GRIEF TO HOYT

Albert Hoyt applied to the Associated Charities yesterday for assistance. He said his rent was due and a bogus eviction notice was served on him and his family thrown out. He asserts he can prove the notice was not regular and that he was not given proper time to move. The charities advised him to consult a lawyer and he has placed his case in the hands of an attorney and will seek legal restitution for damage sustained.

White Birch Trees Distributed Freely at Brandeis Stores

Twenty thousand small white birch trees were given away yesterday by J. L. Brandeis & Sons to "help in the observance" of Arbor Day, which is Monday.

The trees were placed along the north side of the new Brandeis stores and promptly at 5 o'clock the dispensation began. Thousands took advantage of the opportunity to secure valuable trees. Exactly at 1 o'clock the last tree had been given away.

Along with the gifts went a pamphlet of instructions. The trees were all small, but hardy, referring to the white birch and the desirability of planting it the pamphlet says:

"It is in response to a popular request that we are presenting these beautiful trees to the people of Omaha. No tree is more attractive in appearance and more hardy than the white birch. It is a native of our own country and is making Omaha known as a 'city beautiful'."

"White birch trees grow to a height of from twenty to forty feet. They sometimes grow to be a foot in diameter. They are hardy, durable and smooth. They have white bark on the large branches and on the trunk except near the ground. The bark grows firmly to the tree and is not easily detached. The leaves of the white birch tree are tremulous."

GAS ORDINANCE IS A MODEL

Compliment Paid to Omaha by Department of Labor.

COMMISSIONER IS PLEASED

Several Pages of Official Pamphlet Are Devoted to a Description of Provisions to Safeguard Patrons.

Omaha has a model gas ordinance, is one of the most progressive cities in the management of its gas lighting and has set an example other cities ought to follow, according to Bulletin 21, issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Gas Commissioner Charles Crowley received the bulletin today. Among the metropolitan cities Omaha is most favorably mentioned. Several pages of the pamphlet are devoted to a description of the provisions adopted by the gas department to safeguard citizens and make the service more efficient.

The ordinance in force here is quoted in full, occupying three full pages. In the introduction complimentary remarks are made of this city's manner of controlling the gas situation.

Drafted by Crowley.

"I am pleased with that, for it is certainly an advertisement," said Commissioner Crowley. "And I especially pleased because I drafted the ordinance myself. Moreover, let me tell you that for the money the city has been paying for the gas service, the work has been performed and secured a more efficient management than any other city. Other cities have appropriated thousands of dollars for having the work done which Omaha has received gratis."

Mr. Crowley referred particularly to the gas ordinance, which was drawn without charge by the city and presented before the present administration came into power in the gas commissioner's department.

Exhausted by Work in Voting Precinct, Patrick Glynn Dies

Exhausted by a night of work over the primary election ballots, Patrick N. Glynn, 67 years old, left the voting booth of the Third precinct of the Fourth ward shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday morning with the ballot boxes. Carrying the heavy load into the office of the county clerk he fainted suddenly under the weight. Harry Droraki ran to his assistance. He had fallen to the floor and was dead.

Coroner Crosby was called and the body removed. His family of a wife and seven children, living at 128 South Twenty-fourth street, were notified. They are grief-stricken. The body is being held until they can arrange for a funeral.

Glynn had not been employed for the last year. He had worked at the voting booth on South Sixteenth street since the polls closed at 3 o'clock last evening. He made no complaint when he left with the ballot boxes.

Glynn was born in Tennessee, and served in the confederate army from that state. He came to Omaha about 1870, and with the exception of two years had resided here since. He is survived by a widow and seven children. The funeral will be held Monday morning from St. John's Catholic church.

Captain Refuses to Be Taken on a Raft

NEW YORK, April 20.—At the American Seamen's Friends' society institute, where 150 members of the rescued crew of the Titanic are being fed, clothed and housed, G. A. Hoger, able seaman, told tonight of the fate of Captain Smith. Hoger says that as the Titanic sank a big wave washed him over the side and he landed on a raft carrying thirty-five persons.

"The next moment," he said, "I saw Captain Smith in the water alongside the raft. 'There's the skipper,' I yelled. 'Give him a hand.' And they did. But he shook himself free and shouted to us, 'Goodbye, boys, I'm going to follow the ship.' That was the last we saw of our skipper."

Hoger said that later they were transferred to a lifeboat in which there was a woman stark naked. She was numb with the cold and some of the men took off their clothes and wrapped her up in them, but she died soon afterwards.

Sidney Humphrey, the quartermaster, said he dragged two women out of the water, one of them a raving maniac, who died before the Carpathia picked up the lifeboat.

WOULD DIE, BUT IS AFRAID
W. W. Wilson of Motorist Frightens His Friends.

WORRYING OVER FINANCES
Police Find Him in Bed Willing to Enter the Next World, but Razor Gives Him the Shivers.

Heart sick, tired of life and wanting to die, but afraid to take his own life, even after writing a letter to his employer that his dead body would be found in his room, is a condition that W. W. Wilson, a solicitor for the Motorist, a local automobile publication, found himself.

Wilson, who has been in poor health, has repeatedly told his friends that he wanted to die, and Friday night he wrote a letter to Hayes P. Dearmont, publisher of The Motorist, advising him of his intentions. His chief reason aside from poor health and a desire not to live, was that some one was pressing him for money.

Dearmont was alarmed by the contents of the letter, and turned it over to the police. Captain Dempsey ordered officer Sam Morris to rush to Wilson's room at 36 North Nineteenth street.

Ends Him in Bed.

When Morris reached the room he found Wilson in bed.

"What is the matter?" inquired the officer.

"Oh, I want to die, but cannot," answered Wilson.

Morris pressed Wilson for an explanation and he gave it. He said he was becoming old, was not as successful as of yore, had been in poor health, and was being pressed by an unknown person for money, which he could not procure.

"Would you have killed yourself?" asked the officer.

"I don't know whether I would or not," replied Wilson. "There is a razor in the house, but I am afraid of it. I have no gun, or probably I would use it."

Arrangements are being made for Wilson's removal to a hospital in South Omaha. Mr. Dearmont, his employer, said that he thought Wilson was worrying unnecessarily about his financial and other troubles.

Estelle Upholds Finding of Jury for Libbie Moon

Verdict of $6,000 for Mrs. Libbie Moon against the United Commercial Travelers, an insurance organization, on policies carried by her husband, the late J. J. Moon, was sustained by Judge Lee S. Estelle of the district court today.

Katelle overruled the defendant's new trial motion and entered judgment for Mrs. Moon in the sum of $6,000. The insurance company has not decided whether it will appeal.

Mrs. Moon probably will sue the company for damages for appropriating her husband's name and other organs for use in fighting claims. She alleges that organs were taken without her knowledge or consent and their exhibition in the court room caused her mental suffering severe enough to injure her health.

The insurance company resined collection on the ground that Moon did not die from the effects of an accident, but from chronic heart disease. When a verdict for Mrs. Moon was given three weeks ago a new trial was asked on the ground that A. W. Jeffers, attorney for Mrs. Moon, made an unwarranted forensic attack upon the company's attorneys.

Mrs. Ella Cassells is Back in Omaha

Mrs. Ella Cassells, who organized the Colored Women's club of Omaha, and was editor of the Enterprise for several years, is visiting friends in the city. She is the guest of Mrs. Volney Carter, 213 Miami.

Mrs. Cassells now lives at Huntington Beach, Cal., which has been her home for the last ten years. Since her return for a stay of a few days she has been entertained constantly. She was prominent in St. Philip's church and Sunday will give the church a memorial in honor of her father and mother. Saturday evening a public reception will be given in her honor at Twenty-fourth and Grant streets.

TO CELEBRATE ARBOR DAY IN CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Monday is Arbor day and special exercises will be held in the city schools. Public offices will be generally closed, although some will remain open to care for extra or pressing business.

In several schools tree-planting exercises will take the place of a portion of the regular work. Trees for shade and decorative purposes will be planted by many citizens.

The city hall will be practically deserted. City Treasurer W. G. Ure kept his office open this afternoon to allow taxpayers to come in and pay up.

FATHER AND SON DRUNK. THEY GET TEN DAYS EACH

J. A. Ireland, Sr., and J. A. Ireland, Jr., pleaded guilty in Judge Foster's court to being drunk, but made light of their troubles. "We were going down to buy a pair of shoes," said Ireland, Sr., "but we were asked to have a drink, and because it was election day we thought we would be putting it over." The Irelands said they had enough to buy the return train, but were "under the weather" before their money was gone. They refused to state where they obtained the liquor. They will spend ten days in jail.

UNIVERSITY OF OMAHA WILL DEBATE WESLEYAN

The date for the debate between the University of Omaha and Wesleyan university has been set for Thursday, May 2, at University Place. The question, "Resolved: That the tariff of the United States should be determined by a non-partisan board of tariff experts, constitutionally granted," is the same question the Wesleyan debated with Washington college about two weeks ago. In that debate the affirmative was upheld by Wesleyan, who will attack the expediency of it in the debate with Omaha. At the last debate the negative won by a unanimous decision of the judges.

The springtime spirit of love got in its work again yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Teeple of Council Bluffs, divorced four months ago, resolved to try wedded life over again and secured a marriage license in Omaha. As they left the county court office armed with a license Mr. Teeple hummed "You'll do the same thing over, over and over again." The Teeples were the third pair of divorcees to "make up" and remarry in Omaha since Wednesday.
