

40 YEARS OF DOANE COLLEGE CRETE, NEBRASKA

A school founded nearly forty years ago with a definite fixed purpose and that purpose adhered to throughout all these years will, in a few weeks celebrate its fortieth anniversary. That institution is Doane college at Crete, Neb. A definite aim of its founders and the good men who have guided its destinies to success was to secure, build up and maintain forever a permanent endowment fund that should be sufficient to carry the college along, under the most adverse circumstances, at all times. So far this has been accomplished only to a degree. A strong endowment fund has been raised, wisely invested, and increased during the years since the founding of the institution. The institution, however, has prospered and grown to such a size, the standard of teaching is so high, and the tuition charges so low that the present endowment is insufficient to cover the outlay.

The two dozen liberal, hearty and minded instructors give up their time and best efforts for sums entirely incommensurate with their actual value. The whole spirit of love for the institution is shown on every hand, from the Rev. Mr. Perry, who has given forty years of his life to building the college to the pupils who have just banded into squads, under captains, to rake the leaves and dead grass from the ninety acre campus. That's the spirit in the very atmosphere around the college campus. The worth of an institution depends chiefly upon the character of the men who have built their lives into its construction. Many men have wrought splendidly in the building of Doane college and the halls and alumni and students and scholastic activities are abiding witnesses to their sacrifice and devotion.

When July the eleventh, nineteen hundred and twelve rolls around this institution should, through the aid of the public and those especially interested in educational or philanthropic work, have completed its set purpose and secured a permanent endowment, the interest from which will be sufficient to make the school forever self supporting. The work the school has done and the most satisfactory and business like management it has received since its inception is sufficient assurance to its benefactors or would-be benefactors that any aid given will be a lasting memorial to their memory and laboring and will not shrink away.

the leadership of Mr. Perry and such able and successful men as A. B. Fairchild, treasurer and instructor during nearly the whole of the existence of the institution; John Newton Bennett, dean of men; H. H. Hosford, T. S. Brown, W. E. Tillson and others who have labored long and loyally.

Excellent Management.
As treasurer A. B. Fairchild has handled the resources of the college, loaning out its endowment fund on southeastern farm mortgages and during the entire period never had a penny of interest overdue. Such a record is a most salient indication of the care and precision with which Mr. Fairchild has filled his responsible office.

It costs in the neighborhood of $5,000 to run the school each year. Very little of this goes into salaries. The tuition is small and considerable financial help is extended to worthy students. The present endowment fund is so invested as to bring in some $12,000 to $14,000 interest annually, which, of course, is far below the operating expense of the institution. The difference is met through special efforts in different directions.

Such a worthy institution is entitled to an endowment fund that will make it self-supporting and independent. Its appeals should be liberally answered and its fortieth anniversary should find it in the position it is striving for.

Students Attain Fame.
Graduates from Doane college have made their mark in all lines of endeavor. Chancellor Avery of the University of Nebraska is a Doane man. Among its students who have taken up educational work Doane college is represented by men holding chairs in Yale, Leland Stanford, University of Nebraska, Cornell, Michigan, Cincinnati, Iowa Wesleyan, Bellevue, Doane, Bates college, Whitman college, State College of Washington, Lewis institute, Carlton college and others. Carroll G. Pearce, president of the National Educational association, is a former Doane man. Others are bankers and professional men, while still more have met success in different lines of business and in all parts of the world.

The college has always sought to perpetuate the names of its alumni, which accounts for the names attached to its various buildings.

Location.
"Its location was decided when the great World Builder formed the magnificent valley of the Blue and spread out the landscape upon which the observer looks down from College Hill."

That's the way Doane college's location has been spoken of and it is none too true.

Instructors.
The element of permanence and stability has large place. The sole teacher of the first year still remains, his period of service extending nearly forty years—tutor, professor and president, D. B. Perry. Prof. A. R. Fairchild was brought in the second term of the third year, or December, 1874; he has had one year's leave of absence. Prof. J. S. Brown came in 1882; Prof. H. F. Doane, in the spring of 1885. The latter spent a year in Greece. Miss Margaret E. Thompson became principal of the ladies' department in 1886. Prof. William E. Jilison and Musical Director H. Bert King came in 1890. Prof. H. H. Hosford taught two years, beginning in 1887; he was absent three years and returned in 1892. Lieutenant C. B. Hardin entered upon his duties in the spring of 1894, and Prof. J. H. Powers, in the fall of the same year.

There has been an annual attendance ranging from thirteen to 230, with an annual average attendance exceeding 150. For the last fifteen years this attendance has exceeded 300.

Tuition is but $10 per year and table board is served for $3 per week.

The school owns considerable real estate adjoining the town of Crete, some of which it is selling to those who wish to move there and educate their children.

Doane college has for a long period specialized in music until it is one of the leading western institutions in this particular branch. For that purpose there is within the conservatory numerous sound-proof practicing rooms and an auditorium seating over 500. The Board of Trustees.

The composition of the board of trustees is such that progressive and conservative forces are happily balanced. There has been singular harmony in council. There have been constant and healthful growth and development in the life of the institution.

What the college needs is a larger endowment and every person interested in education should do his part to the end that Doane college shall have the amount of endowment it needs when its fortieth anniversary rolls around.

POSTAL RECEIPTS ENORMOUS
Income for Month of April Breaks All Previous Records.
INCREASE OVER 15 PER CENT
More Than the Receipts for December, 1910, and Thirteen Thousand More Than for April of Last Year.

The gross receipts of the Omaha post-office for the month of April, reported by Postmaster John C. Wharton, are $102,263.88, breaking all previous records. The highest record previously established was $102,253.78 for the month of December, 1910, the receipts of the office then being due to Christmas trade and sending of packages through the mails.

The present record established by the month of April, 1912, compares with $89,373.62 of the same month last year, an increase of $12,751.18, or 15 per cent.

"The marked increase in receipts is due to campaign literature and the growth of all general business in Omaha," said Postmaster Wharton. "In spite of a restrained condition in all lines of business activity during last winter and the early spring the April receipts show one definite thing, namely, that there is a general feeling of prosperity coming in the wake of the present crop and weather conditions and the trend of business as a whole points in the right direction."

Murderer of Woods Growing Despondent
While the police department was glad to turn Sebastino Puglisi, Sicilian, over to the county authorities Tuesday, Puglisi himself does not like the change. He says that his cell in the city jail was much better than that of the county jail. Puglisi is very despondent because of the inability of his friends to secure his release on bond. He says that the killing of Constable Woods was accidental, and that because he says so it should be accepted as a fact.

Ever since his arrest Puglisi begs his jailors to allow an Italian barber to be permitted to visit him and shave his face. On account of his despondency the officers fear that Puglisi would try to take his own life, so his request is denied. As the result Puglisi is growing a beard, which he abhors.

Must Care for Hats or Stay After School
Principal McHugh of the Omaha High school has issued an edict stating that all girls who leave their spring hats on top of the lockers in the halls hereafter will be required to remain one hour after school before the head piece will be restored.

This order has been occasioned by the fact that many of the girls have been stacking wide brimmed and immense head coverings in inconvenient places about the halls so that the janitors had to remove them to a check room in the main office.

Lad Who Fights Way Out of the Reform School is Captured

Roy Slack, who with a colored lad named McFarland, fought his way out of the State industrial school at Kearney last week, was captured in South Omaha by Probation Officer McAulay, who held him until Superintendent C. B. Manuel of the Kearney school took him back yesterday.

Slack has repeatedly attempted to break away from the school. When his teacher, Roy Hanler, was leading his class through one of the halls last week the young man bolted for the door, thrust a key in it and was about to escape. Two of the other boys joined in, one of them striking the teacher in the face.

The negro and Slack escaped. The other lad, caught in a broken window, was taken back and his wounds dressed. McFarland has not been captured, and if he stays out of the state Superintendent Manuel says he will make no effort to get him.

Prof. Hart Arrives to Address the Palimpsest Club

Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard university and Mrs. Hart are here to spend a few days in Omaha. Prof. Hart spoke before the Palimpsest club last evening on the subject of the presidency, and will address the Teachers' association and University club before he leaves. The visitors were met at the station by John L. Webster, president of the Palimpsest club, and Victor Rosewater, and escorted to the Omaha club, where Mrs. Hart was the guest at a ladies' luncheon, while the professor lunched informally with some of the club members.

Prof. Hart, who is head of the American history department in Harvard, is one of the delegates-at-large to the republican national convention elected yesterday on the Roosevelt ticket, but instructed by a preference vote for Taft.

"I cannot understand how that came about," said Prof. Hart, "and I do not know what we will have to do. I am a Roosevelt man myself. There was some kind of a pledge circulated among candidates for delegate to accept the state preferential vote, a copy being sent to me, but reaching me too late for me to sign. I shall have to get all the facts before I will know just what my status is."

WRENCHES BACK IN FALL AT THE W. O. W. BUILDING

He was taken to Wise Memorial hospital where it was found his back was badly wrenched and his face severely cut. He fell about twenty feet. Greenleaf refused to give his address.

S.S.S. MAKES A LASTING CURE

Not only its proven ability to cure, but its absolute safety as a remedy, has made S.S.S. the most extensively used of all medicines in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. Unlike the strong mineral mixtures, which temporarily remove the outward symptoms and shut the disease up in the system, there to carry on its destructive work on the delicate and vital organs, S.S.S. strikes directly at the root, and by purifying the blood of every trace of the virus, completely and permanently cures the trouble. S.S.S. is Nature's blood purifier, harmless in its action and certain in its good results. It is made from a combination of roots and herbs, each of which has a definite and specific action in purifying the blood. Years were spent in selecting and proportioning the different ingredients, but when S.S.S. was perfected it soon demonstrated its superiority over all other blood medicines, and now, after 40 years, it is still the one and only certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. While driving out the poison from the circulation S.S.S. builds up and strengthens the system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S.S.S. is your most certain reliance, and because of its freedom from mercury, potash or any other mineral, it is absolutely safe for every one.
