DAHLMAN POINTS OUT ERROR

Says Citizens' Union is Deliberately Misrepresenting Him.

UNION USES SHORT, UGLY WORD

Says Dahlgren is Attempting to Steal Election from Them and that They Couldn't Steal if They Tried.

Mayor James C. Dahlgren cites the efforts of "big business men" of the Citizens' Union to discredit him with the taxpayers of Omaha as "absolutely false and untrustworthy."

Major James C. Dahlgren cites the efforts of "big business men" of the Citizens' Union to discredit him with the taxpayers of Omaha as "absolutely false and untrustworthy."

Now these are the facts, as you may find out by investigation at the office of either the city comptroller or the city treasurer.

Blackwash City's Name. In this paid ad, as in others, and in your own papers, you will find the name of the city of Omaha in your reference to the moral character of my administration.

Works for Good Government. Rejoice in the assertion that the Citizens' Union, in forcing a majority of the councilmen, who were defeated for the nomination, to reject his appointments of judges and clerks of election, the publicity committee of the union comes back with the counter charge that "elections are not stolen in behalf of good government."

Are the Citizens' Union candidates possessed of no rights? Will the people of Omaha approve the mayor who endeavored to deprive them of their right to a square deal at the voting places?

Members of the publicity committee say the Citizens' Union has "uncovered the most anarchistic plot ever hatched to rape the ballot box while the mayor is crying 'stop, thief!'"
