Fifteen Thousand Suffragists March in New York City

NEW YORK, May 4.—The weather man provided a warm sun and a cloudless sky for the biggest woman's suffrage demonstration in the history of New York City. For nearly a year preparations for the great parade have been under way and there was little for Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and her assistants to do except to marshal the various divisions of their forces for the big parade at 4 o'clock and the mass meeting in Carnegie hall at 6 o'clock.

The 15,000 women—and men, too—who had asked for places in the parade, received a last word of exhortation from Mrs. Blatch during the morning. "Remember," she said, through a printed card with which each would-be parader was provided, "you march for the mightiest reform the world has ever seen. The orderly appearance of our procession depends upon each individual marcher. Remember the public will judge, quite literally, of course, but not less strictly, your qualifications as a voter by your promptness."

The main marchers, a host which Mrs. Blatch thought might reach 3,000 in number, were disappointed to learn that Colonel Roosevelt had declined the invitation to lead their division.

The program provided for a procession made up of eleven divisions, led by the equestrienne squad of 100 riders, a band and a company of outdoor suffragette orators, each carrying her little green platform slung like a knapsack across her shoulder.

The seventh division, bringing up the rear of the parade was assigned to Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's organization of department store clerks, preceded by the newly organized baby carriage brigade. The tenth division, which comprised the regular members of the women's suffrage party, hired a dozen bands for their section of the parade and provided each member with a yellow pennant and a tiny yellow electric torch.

BARCLAY'S DEATH BEING UNRAVELED

Infractory statements made by Dailan, and ordered his arrest.

Hotel Employers Retieant.
One of the unusual features of the case is the reticence of the Chatham hotel employes. They refused to admit reporters to Barclay's room until after the body and belongings had been removed. They also gave out misleading statements regarding the shooting.

According to the officers Dailan went to the Chatham about 1:30 o'clock and after being in Barclay's room about ten minutes rushed downstairs and excitedly said that his friend was dead or dying. Dr. Harris, assistant police surgeon, was called and he notified the coroner. Dailan did not wait for them to appear.

To one of the hotel attendants he said: "After thinking about the shooting all night, and upbraiding myself all the time, and accusing myself for having the revolver, I went to his room, thinking perhaps he was only hurt. I was horrified to find him dead. I could not believe it."

Working on Murder Theory.
Dailan says that Barclay and he went to the former's room about 7 o'clock Friday night. While there Dailan exhibited his revolver, so he says, and Barclay examined it. Dailan cannot explain accurately the circumstances before or after the shooting, and on this account the police are working upon the theory that Barclay might have been murdered.

Dailan is positive that he was not handling the revolver when it was discharged. The odd thing about the case is that no one in the Chatham hotel seems to have heard the shot fired, although the attendants admit that many of the guests were awake at the time the shooting is believed to have occurred.

Another unusual feature which the detective thinks tends to prove the murder theory is that Dailan, a level headed business man, did not report the shooting to any one, or try to procure medical assistance for his friend. Instead he left the hotel and roamed about the city all night, afraid to notify the police, afraid to go back, and almost crazed. This morning he became calmer and returned to the Chatham.

Shooting About Midnight.
Deputy Coroner Spain found Barclay's body in a chair, in an unnatural position. He thinks that death was probably instantaneous, and that the shooting occurred about 9 o'clock, or within two hours after the two men went to the room.

Barclay is a Scotchman, about 34 years of age, and has been in America about four months. He has been connected with the J. Gordon-Steele company of St. Paul since coming to this country. He has occupied the room at the Chatham for two months, though he has only been here twenty-six days of that period, being out of town on accountant work. The Omaha offices of the Steele company are in the First National Bank building.

Dailan's statements seem to impress Mr. English and Detective Devareese that the shooting was accidental.

Dailan roomed at 212 Dewey avenue, and his rent there would have expired two weeks. He was making arrangements to room with Barclay at the Chatham when he was arrested. He says that Barclay was his closest and best friend. The two became acquainted in St. Paul. Dailan is an Englishman and has been in America less than a year.

An inquiry was made at the J. Gordon Steele office for information about both Barclay and Dailan, but the stenographer in charge seemed to be unwilling to give out anything.

An inquest will be held Monday, following a post mortem examination to determine cause and approximate time of death. Dailan has been ordered held without bail until after the inquest.

BRIDE IS QUANTINATED FOR TWO WEEKS' PERIOD
ABERDEEN, S. D., May 4.—(Special.)—Love's young dream was sadly interrupted, but merely postponed, when Hardie Wedegartner, a young business man of Rugby, N. D., and Miss Pearl Werts, an Aberdeen young woman, were married. The couple had planned to be married at the home of the bride's brother, but the day of the wedding the brother and his wife were taken down with smallpox. Then the young folks went to the Methodist parsonage and were married, but the heavy hand of the law descended upon them, and the bride was quarantined for two weeks. Mr. Wedegartner has returned to Rugby, whence his bride will follow upon being released from quarantine.

Five South Dakota Farmers Meet Tragic Deaths

SIoux FALLS, S. D., May 4.—(Special.)—In addition to the two farmers, one living near Huron and the other near Estelina, who were killed by lightning, as reported a few days ago, three other South Dakota farmers have met tragic deaths.

S. Driviness, a farmer living some miles north of Sioux Falls near the village of Colton, died from injuries received when he was kicked in the stomach by one of his horses.

Edward Perrin, a prosperous farmer living in the western part of this (Minnesota) county, was instantly killed by lightning. He met death while driving to his home in a box wagon. A strange feature in connection with his death was that neither the horses nor the wagon were damaged in the least by the lightning. The bolt struck Perrin near the heart and tore his clothing badly. The team jogged along with the body in the wagon, but finally turned off the road and upset the wagon, when members of a farmer's family living nearby discovered what had happened.

Joseph Moench, a well known Hutchinson county farmer, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He had just led a horse into the barn and was engaged in trying to a manger when a bolt of lightning killed both himself and the horse.

The Great Spring Tonic and Body Builder

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, and as none but sound, clean grain can be malted, it is made from the most carefully selected grains. It is a predigested liquid food in the form of a medicinal whiskey; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.
It is a gentle, invigorating stimulant and tonic that influences for good every important organ of the body. It is a remedy that should be in every family medicine chest. It is especially valuable for use at this time because it so aids digestion that it enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains, thus enriching the blood and rebuilding the system that has become run down and weakened from the long strain of winter.
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.
Get the genuine, sold by druggists, grocers and liquor dealers, or direct $1.00 a large bottle. If your dealer cannot supply you, write us and we will tell you where it can be bought. Medical benefits and doctor's advice free on request. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, New York.
