ORATORS MAKE TOUR OF CITY

"On the Square" Candidates Hold Series of Meetings.

GREETED BY GREAT CROWDS

Executive Says Seven Councilmen Who Voted to Reject Appointments Approached by Union and Promised Positions.

Large crowds of men, women and children welcomed the "on the square" candidates, led by Mayor Dahlman, at a dozen places of meeting last night and voters gathered at the places visited last and remained until midnight, when the campaign tour closed.

Unexpected invitations to speak came in as the candidates in automobiles drove from one hall to the other and it was with difficulty that the schedule was kept.

A meeting of members of the Prairie Park Improvement club was being held and a delegation of women pounced upon the mayor and compelled him to stop and have lunch. Dan Butler was sent ahead and held the crowd at Twenty-fourth and Grant for an hour until the mayor, A. C. Kugel and Thomas McGovern arrived.

Hundreds were congregated at each street corner, intensely interested in the issues of the campaign. Everywhere they voiced their loud approval of "the seven on the square" and as enthusiastically cheered Mayor Dahlman's roll call of the "sacred seven" of the Citizens' union choicest.

Met by Brass Band.

At Twenty-fourth and Grant a brass band composed of the Knights of Pythias played when the candidates' cars drove into sight. Here the largest crowd of the evening was addressed in the open air.

Met hall was jammed. It was 11:30 when the seven "on the square" arrived. John J. Ryder left just left the hall, after a half hour's discussion of the political situation.

When Mayor Dahlman entered there was a demonstration which lasted several minutes. The meeting was under the auspices of the Gate City club. Several children were waiting for the speak-era and crowded about among their elders to yell, "Hello, Jim."

McGovern attacked the Citizens' union for raising so much money for an "honorary election." He said he had been reliably informed that the candidates who have business establishments had forced employees to "dig up" from $1 to $2 for the use of their employers.

Mayor Dahlman reviewed the work of his six years' administration and attacked the union for not being in "good faith" when they kicked on his appointments of judges and clerks of election. He said if they had submitted a list he would have granted a request to have a list number of their men placed upon the election boards.

"Those eight councilmen who voted for reelection of the appointments had been approached by the Citizens' union and seven of them promised positions," the mayor charged.

Judge Redick, who rents rooms to Omaha tailors, buys his clothes in Chicago, which is one way he has of boosting Omaha, the mayor declared.

Mayor Dahlman compared the two sets of candidates, using the posters of the Citizens' union seven and the "on the square seven." He said anybody could see at a glance which seven were "on the square" and ought to win.

Considering his addresses, the mayor said he was going to fight until he got home rule for Omaha, whether he was defeated or elected, and when he did get home rule the people could consider themselves "through with him."

Michigan Authorities Send Word Man Quarantined for Leprosy May Not Be Sent Into that State from Iowa.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, May 4—(Special Telegram)—Bishop Austin Dowling yesterday announced he would make the appointment of Monsignor Michael Flavin to be vicar general of the diocese. The fact that the new bishop made an appointment before he had been two days in charge is regarded as indicating the high standing of the new vicar. It is in the church where Monsignor Flavin has officiated for many years that the new bishop will have his seat. Monsignor Flavin is 60 years old, and was prepared at Carlew college. He was ordained in 1877 by Bishop O'Gorman of Omaha in this city. He was located at Dubuque, Cedar Falls and Davenport before coming to Des Moines in 1885 to take charge of St. Ambrose church.

Byoir of New York, American representative for the Montessori Educational system of Italy, in an address at the closing session of the International Kindergarten union today declared that Dr. Vincent O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin was mistaken when he made the statement earlier in the week that the system was at least twenty-five years behind the educational times. Mr. Byoir explained the system to the delegates, who later passed a resolution approving it. Several others delivered short addresses.

The matter of erecting a memorial shaft in Washington, D. C., for Frederick Froebel, founder of the kindergarten system, was referred to a committee which will report later.

Socialists Are Eligible.

Attorney General Cosson today ruled that inasmuch as the socialist party polled more than 2 per cent of the total vote cast for governor at the last general election, candidates of that party in any subdivision of the state are eligible for places on the ticket, providing they obey the other regulations required of all candidates.

The point was raised by the county attorney of Dallas county regarding the placing of the name of a socialist candidate for the legislature on the ticket, where the socialists did not poll 2 per cent of the vote in that county.

The decision makes it impossible for socialists to poll votes anywhere in the state without reference to the number polled in the subdivision.

CELEBRATE U. P. ANNUAL

Overland Officials Recall Driving of Last Spike at Promontory.

SPOT MARKED BY GOLDEN SPIKE

Governor Stanford of California, with a Silver Sledge, Drives the Spike Through a Laurel Tie.

Union Pacific officials will have a quiet little celebration of their own May 10. That date marks the anniversary of the driving of the last spike on the Overland system, linking the Atlantic and Pacific coasts by bands of steel.

It was the morning of May 10, 1869, forty-three years ago, at Promontory, Utah, that the last spike was driven. The Union Pacific had bulled from Omaha and the central Pacific from Oakland, Cal., to that spot in the Rocky mountains. To celebrate the completion of the linking together of the two roads, special trains were run from Omaha and train were T. C. Durant, Sidney Dillon, and many others from the east, while from the west were Leland Stanford, governor of California, who was also president of the Central Pacific; Huntington, Crocker, Hopkins and many others. When the rails were joined a gold spike was driven into a tie of California laurel, a silver sledge being used.

After being put in place the first blow on the spike of gold was by Governor Stanford, who then turned the sledge over to Vice President Durant. Telegraph wires had been connected with the rails and instruments arranged so that as the blows were struck, the news went to every part of the world where there was a telegraph line.
