

HART TALKS TO TEACHERS

Harvard Professor Tells Educators Their Calling Grandest of All.

TRIBUTE TO LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Instructors of Today Have in Their Charge the Great Men and the Women Who are to Rule the World.

It was a large and appreciative audience that greeted Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard university at the auditorium of the Young Women's Christian association building. It was an audience made up entirely of Omaha school teachers and there was not a vacant chair in the large room when Superintendent Duff of the Omaha schools introduced the distinguished speaker, who spoke on the "Practicality of Education."

Prof. Hart addressed by detailing some observations made during his visit to Omaha. Prof. Hart spoke enthusiastically of the schools of the city and particularly of the high school. Referring to the building, he said that it is second to none in the United States and one of the best he has ever seen.

"The professor took the position that the great object in teaching is not so much to follow the old rules laid down in the text books, but to cause and instruct the pupils to think for themselves and that the teacher is an aid in drawing out the soul of the pupil and helping to raise up men and women who will enrich the nation."

Old Idea Has Passed Away.

The time has passed when years are spent compiling passages and lessons, the idea now being to teach the facts, this being an age when everything except facts are ignored; it is an age of the great things when the masters of the world are in the school rooms and when the pupils are the worshippers of success.

Professor Hart told of the time when he was a student in college and then it was necessary that a complete knowledge of Greek be acquired and only a few years prior to that it was imperative that a man, with a completed education should have a thorough understanding of Hebrew, especially if he expected to engage in the ministerial calling. Now Hebrew has been relegated, Greek is following and even Latin is not considered absolutely necessary in many of the colleges.

Practicality is one of the things sought in educational, and also in business matters, contended the speaker. It is an age of centralization and the world is looking for men who do things. Even the political parties, he added, want men who will make the dirt fly. They want men who can and will bring about practical results and an proof of this he pointed to the political situation in New York, where both of the parties have the state catalogued according to the most approved card system, showing the party affiliation of every voter and how they should vote in event they cling to party lines.

In all lines of trade the business man has learned the necessity of securing talent and of gathering in men who can produce results. Even the business principles have been carried into religion, contended the speaker, and the work of the church is turned over to the laymen, men who have, as a rule, been successful in their own business matters. Then, too, the universities that are most successful have placed upon their staffs a corps of business agents.

To fill the many places of importance, contended Prof. Hart, the schools of today are educating the men who are to fill the important places that will be open in the future, and for these places practical men will be needed. This idea of practical teaching is spreading and instead of instructing and compelling the memorizing of the multiplication table and the catchment, the schools are broadening and teaching practical things.

Prof. Hart maintained that much good came from memorizing, but looked upon the school life of a child as being too short to follow the old method of committing to memory all the tables in the arithmetic, the rules of grammar and everything found in the books. "Even reading," he added, "is a lost art."

However, he insisted that there should be mental training, but insisted that it should not be pushed to an unreasonable extent. But with good mental training, teachers might work out miracles, and in this connection he related an instance where a boy considered an idiot was taken in charge by a professor and by constant work was not only taught to talk intelligently, but was enabled to think.

The teachers were urged not to look upon their profession as one of drudgery, but instead one of the most uplifting, attractive and beneficial to the world, one that is constantly imparting knowledge and producing the future great men and women of the country.

PROF. HART TALKS TO TEACHERS

Conditions in China Are Portrayed by the Speaker.

Before 200 members of the State History Teachers' association and the Harvard club Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of the American history department of Harvard university delivered an address on China.

The history teachers' association and the Harvard club entertained Prof. Hart at a banquet at 7 o'clock at the Faxon hotel, which was followed by Mr. Hart's lecture.

The conditions existing in China was the theme of Mr. Hart's talk. He said the Chinese government was far inferior to the government of European countries and the people were far inferior to the white race. The present republic, which has been founded in China, is a good thing, according to Mr. Hart.

An interesting picture of China, its conditions and the people living there was brought to the attention of the audience. Following the address an informal reception was held.

EVIDENCE SHOWS ALLENS CAME TO COURT PREPARED

WYTHEVILLE, Va., May 4.—Evidence introduced to show that the Allens came to Hillville prepared to shoot up the Carroll county court, continued to be introduced today at the trial of Floyd Allen, the first of the band to face indictment for the assassinations of March 4.

Witnesses testified of Floyd Allen's threats toward the court, and Cyrus Hinkle, a civil engineer, swore on the day before the shooting when the Allen band came into the court to report a disagreement. Hinkle and Victor Allen prepared themselves for a verdict by reaching for their revolvers.

Dexter Good, clerk of the court, who was shot four times during the affray, refused to charge that the court officers had been the firing, testifying he did not see Sheriff Webb draw his revolver.

Fremont Boy Wins First Prize in the Oratorical Contest

KEARNEY, Neb., May 4.—(Special.)—At 1 o'clock this morning the fifteenth annual contest of the State High School Declamatory union closed, the oratorical prize winners being: George Alexander, Fremont; Dewitt Foster Kearney, second. Declamatory winners are: Jesse Faust, Madison, first; Elizabeth Erasmus, Ravenna, second. Humorous winners: Leone Mallory, Alliance, and Dorris Chapman, Gibbon, second.

The new officers of the union are: Superintendent W. R. Pate, Alliance, president; Superintendent L. M. Otterknott, Madison, vice president; and Superintendent H. E. Bradford, Kearney, secretary-treasurer.

President A. E. Fisher, Aurora, was the presiding officer; the judges were R. U. Clark, Harvard; Superintendent Alice Foster, York; Principal Fred M. Hunter, Lincoln, and E. E. McGee, Aurora.

The contest included entries from all sections of the state and was divided into three classes of productions, the oratorical class including: George Alexander, Fremont; George Burke, Bridgeport; Franklin Fenton, Cedar Rapids; Dewitt Foster, Kearney; Edward Krauszman, Brady; Earl Simpson, Fairbury, and Spry Gardner, Valentine.

The dramatic class included: Epphine Druze, Cambridge; Elizabeth Erasmus, Ravenna; Jesse Faust, Madison; Pauline Montgomery, Alliance; Addie Sadler, Callaway; Ruth Smith, University Place; Howard Spangler, Scribner; and Kittle Brooks, Rushville.

The humorous selections came last on the program and consisted of readings by: Doris Chapman, Gibbon; Dorothy Kahlan, Grand Island; Leone Mallory, Alliance; Pearl Marshall, McCook; Geraldine Meisenbach, Wilber; Alice D. Rath-sack, Schuyler; Josephine Scott, Atkinson, and Francis Purner, Rushville. By some mistake the two contestants from Rushville and the one from Valentine were not entered and it was supposed the northwestern district had no contestants.

The young people arrived unannounced, making it necessary for the executive committee to decide whether they should be entertained or refused. The entrance requirements of the bylaws of the union not having been met, it was decided to allow them to appear on the program, which they did.

Heaney Divorce Case Settled Out of Court

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 4.—(Special.)—As the result of an agreement reached this noon between General Hugo Donnel-man, representing Mrs. Alta Heaney, and Lacey & Lacey, representing Colonel Thomas Heaney, Sr., the celebrated Heaney divorce case will undoubtedly be settled out of court, so far as a division of the property is concerned. The taking of testimony was concluded last evening, and arguments of attorneys were to have been heard by Judge D. H. Craig, upon his return from Casper next week, but all that will now be necessary apparently will be the signing of a decree by the court, giving Mrs. Heaney a divorce and the custody of the minor child, Geraldine.

This morning General Donnelman called upon Mr. Heaney and his attorneys for the purpose of making a settlement, and at the close of the conference, it was stated Colonel Heaney had agreed to give his wife about $10,000 cash, in full settlement of all claims upon him, it being understood that out of this sum Mrs. Heaney is to pay her attorneys' fees and her costs in the case. It is also agreed that Mrs. Heaney shall have the custody of the little daughter.

Colonel Heaney, who has for many years been a prominent business man here, is at present proprietor of the Capitol avenue and Atlas theaters. He and Mrs. Heaney were married about ten years ago, Mrs. Heaney being his second wife.

Iowa News Notes

DENISON—The marriage of John Menagh and Miss Pearl Nicholson took place this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Nicholson.

DENISON—J. H. Mahoney, who for many years was agent of the Northwest road at this city, has been given later an office of inspection of transportation of freight between Clinton and Council Bluffs, has been appointed agent of the company at Des Moines and will move his residence to that city.

GLENWOOD—Superintendent George Masters reports 25 rural school pupils taking the first school entrance examination. This is double the number that have before been candidates, and is a very flattering showing for Hills county students.

GLENWOOD—Friday, May 10, a meeting will be held in Tabor in the interest of the Omaha-Kansas City line from Omaha to Kansas City. The meeting is under the auspices of the Tabor Commercial club and promises to be well attended. Lafayette Young of Des Moines will address the meeting.

BEDFORD—A state-wide campaign will begin next week by C. L. Van Nostrand, president of the Associated Commercial clubs of Taylor county, to bring about cooperative organization of city commercial clubs. He expects to visit every county seat town during the summer and will lecture in many of the cities on the subject of "Greater Iowa."

GLENWOOD—In the hole cut by the Missouri river in the Burlington right-of-way at Folsom in Mills county the road is dumping fifty to seventy tons of rock daily. The force is reduced to 100 men-seventy-five day and the same number in the night shift. Trainmaster Charles Gobb, the plaintiff in the suit for damages caused by the dumping of rock, is in charge. The expense of making this right against the river in this locality is estimated at $200,000.

CRETON—Pleading guilty to the charge of writing obscene letters to Miss Hazel Ong of Seymour, George J. Johnson, a youth of Brookfield, was sentenced at Ottumwa yesterday to nine months in the Wapello county jail by Judge Smith McPherson. The case of John Ware, the Seymour man who is charged with using the mail to extort money from Dr. Cover of Seymour, has been continued at Ottumwa until May 30, for lack of witnesses.

BEDFORD—A case of malpractice recently tried in the Taylor county district court presents some unique peculiarities. Charles Gobb, the plaintiff, brought suit to recover $5,000 damages from Mrs. Dr. Roberts, an osteopath of that place, whom he alleges treated him for a dislocation of the hip. Her treatment did not benefit him and Dr. Roberts was called, who diagnosed the case as a dislocation and treated him for this. Failure to receive any benefit led Mr. Gobb to consult Chicago specialists, where an X-ray revealed a fractured vertebra. The case was settled by Dr. Roberts as far as he was concerned by payment of $2,000 to Gobb and when the case was called against Mrs. Dr. Roberts, her attorney showed by supreme court decision that the plaintiff having settled with the first physician could not collect damages from her and the case was dismissed.

Bidder Allen Refuses to Take Bonds Issued by the City.

NOT IN ACCORDANCE WITH FACTS

John Ewing Orchard Wins Scholarship in the Swarthmore College of Pennsylvania.

Notwithstanding the repeated rumors of the consummation of the sale of the $10,800 bond issue to Oscar Allen of Omaha, it now appears as if the last hope of the sale has gone glimmering.

The most recent objection to the purchase of the bonds was made yesterday by Attorney Place of Omaha, who informed City Clerk Perry Wheeler that his client would probably have to refuse to accept the bonds in view of the fact that there seemed to be an overissue in the sum named.

The hitch was traced back to 1902, when from a number of bonds composed of financial odds and ends, an issue of $10,850 was formed and floated. At the time it is said there was approximately $1,000 in cash which the city need not have taken into the issue. This $1,000, or thereabouts, has now increased to a sum said to be equal to something in the neighborhood of $2,500.

It would appear, therefore, that in the present issue of $10,880 is a call for an overissue. The real amount, it is said, should not have exceeded $107,000 in all. There is considerable criticism of the management that has put the city in the present predicament.

Yesterday evening Mayor Hector instructed City Clerk Wheeler to notify the Allen attorney that an immediate decision as to whether he would accept the bonds was necessary in justice to other companies who have made offers to the mayor.

It has been felt for some time that Allen was not anxious to take the bonds. Attorney Page in his statement to the city officials yesterday declared that he had overlooked fifteen or sixteen minor objections to the bonds, but was inclined to talk at the new development.

At the time Allen agreed to purchase the bonds it was agreed that a time limit of ten days was to be given for the consideration of the bond histories. It has now extended into months and the city is paying interest on money loaned by the banks to carry the city over the financial difficulties entailed by the maturing of the old issue.

Said a prominent official yesterday: "It is just a case of more politics than business in the city government. Why does it happen that outsiders must inform the city of things that its officials should have known? Has the city so much money that it is not able to account for the $150 that is said to have been drawing interest for so long? And if we have that much money, why was the council told to float an issue of $10,880, instead of $107,000?"

Scholarship to Orchard. Word has been received by Principal Frank Cummings of the South Omaha High school that the seventh annual free competitive honor scholarship in Swarthmore college has been awarded to John E. Orchard, a member of the 1912 class. This is the first of its kind that has ever come to the local school, and the school authorities are especially delighted over the fact that the award to young Orchard was made unanimously at a meeting of the Western Swarthmore club held in Chicago May 1.

The award of the scholarship is based upon the general all-round excellence of the applicant, who must be a senior from an accredited high school of the United States. The activities of the Western Swarthmore club are confined to that part of the country lying west of the Allegheny mountains. The award, which is equivalent to $600 in money, covers all expenses of tuition and board for one academic year at Swarthmore college, eleven miles out from Philadelphia. John Ewing Orchard is 18 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Orchard, 80 North Nineteenth street. During his four years in high school he won prominence in student activities.

Notwithstanding the fact that a recent school prank cost young Orchard the loss of 15 cent in some studies, his general average for four years' work, as certified to the Swarthmore club, reached the high grade of 94 per cent.

Young Orchard is present editor of the Tooter, a school paper; vice president of his class, president of the debating society and a member for the last two years. He is also president of the athletic association. He will graduate in June and expects to attend Swarthmore, beginning with next September.

School Board Short of Funds

The school district faces a condition of financial stringency that may eventuate in a curtailment of the teaching force.

It is expected that the year will end with a deficit of several thousand dollars. This is what member E. R. Leigh and a number of others have expected for more than a year. There has been a continuous overlap for some years in the school funds. According to some members of the board the schools cannot be put upon a paying basis until such time as the original overlap is wiped out. For this reason President W. A. Schneider of the board had asked for a $50,000 bond issue. With him have stood other members of the board, but not enough to get the issue over.

Now it is suggested that the city be re-districted and the teaching force reduced. It is also suggested that the addition to Corrihan school be deferred until the finances are in better shape.

Burglars Rob Home. Two masked burglars entered the home of Patrick Dean, 2641 U street, early this morning and while Dean, who works at the Cudany plant, was away from home, carried away more than $50 in money and goods. Mr. Dean was asleep at the time.

Dean himself has missed $5 and his watch, while from the trunk of his brother, Anthony, the burglars took $4 in gold, $25 in silver and a check for $10. Hugh Healy, who also lives in the house, had $122 stored away, which now is in the hands of the burglars.

About the same time in the morning E. B. Lortz heard noises on the back porch of his home, 219 N street, and going out with a revolver covered a masked man he found lurking there. At the police station the man gave his name as James Welsh.

showed an assessment that did not agree with the value put upon the land by the petitioners.

In one case where some land was offered as surety Mayor Hector called the registrar of deeds to find out the exact valuation. The lot was assessed at $25 each. The security was not deemed sufficient.

Many will not get licenses this year because of the nonability to secure surety bonds. Saloon men are on the anxious seat as to the future conduct of the board.

Among the members of the board all is not harmony. Mayor Hector sits serene and smiling while the other members, it is understood, debate the issue. The present lineup seems to be between Hector and Ryan. It is understood that Ryan has been voting with the majority consistently.

M'VEAGH TALKS ON MONEY

Investigation Will Find Growing Power in Few Hands.

CRITICISES MONETARY PLAN

Secretary of Treasury Says Ownership of National Bank Stock by Another National Bank Should Be Forbidden.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 4.—Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, tonight expressed the belief that the house banking and currency committee investigating the money trust would find an evolution in financial affairs tending towards a concentration of larger power in the hands of a few institutions or even of a few men.

Speaking here before the New Jersey Bankers' association, the secretary gave his approval to the inquiry launched by the house. A closer relation of financial forces, he declared, had resulted in a large measure from the panic of 1907, when large interests entered upon a policy of co-operation for self-protection made necessary by the country's inadequate money system.

Objects to One Feature.

While the secretary favored the money trust inquiry as a necessary step in reforming the banking and currency system of the United States, he deplored the fact that congress was not contemplating legislation on the basis of the plans of the national monetary commission. The general features of this plan received Mr. MacVeagh's approval, but he criticized the fact that it did not forbid absolutely the ownership of national bank stock by another national bank.

He declared that he had been recently told that some of the "strong men" of New York felt that any more monetary legislation was wholly unnecessary, "because they could themselves handle all the difficulties growing out of our system." The secretary thought the inquiry could be performed adequately within a comparatively short time.

The national monetary commission, he said, had refused to deal with the question of the concentration of money power and the house inquiry was unavoidable. Declaring that the monetary commission's report recognized the right of a national bank to own stock in another national bank, the secretary said:

"It limits that ownership to 10 per cent, if the right of representation in the National Reserve association is not to be impaired, but we all know that it might as well limit it at all as to limit it to 10 per cent, for in most of the corporations that are controlled it does not in practice require actual ownership of even 1 per cent of the stock to be actually invested in the controlling hands."

The treatment of this feature by the commission Mr. MacVeagh regarded as a "grave and radical mistake."

The sole intent and purpose of the Locomobile Company is to produce the best built car in America.

At one time and another the Locomobile has been conceded to possess the "greatest" speed—the "easiest" riding—the "handsomest" lines—the "greatest" brute strength.

The Vital Value of "Give" in a Tire

HERE'S a question of big importance to the car owner—The Resilience of his tires.

True, mileage is of prime importance. But mere mileage without the life and vim of pure rubber, properly compounded, means little.

Many a man buys a costly automobile—and forgets that the first essential in its protection is tires that will not only bear it up—but that will have the proper "give" to absorb the shocks—save rocking and injury to the machinery.

Firestone tires are made to stand the strain.

They not only offer the "Most Miles per Dollar of Cost" but they have a wonderful, unequalled resilience—because of the unique composition of pure Up-River Fine Para rubber.

Firestone TIRES

The tread of Firestone tires combines lightness with strength and buoyancy, which means protection for the car under the hardest road conditions, with tires pumped to capacity.

We use selected long fibre combed Sea Island cotton for our fabric—woven to withstand a strain of 325 pounds to the square inch.

But it is in the making—the saturation of the fabric—the building—the curing and curing again—to make the whole tire one inseparable piece—that the superior quality of Firestone construction proves itself most.

Careful supervision attends every detail of Firestone manufacture. The tires are inspected over and over again.

True, Firestone tires cost a little more than ordinary tires. They are richly worth it and earn their additional cost over and over again in actual mileage and in car protection.

Be sure to specify Firestone Smooth Tread or Non-Skid Tires.

Built in all types to fit any standard rim.

All high-grade cars are equipped with quick-detachable, demountable rims. Don't experiment. Insist on Firestone—the only tires that have stood the test of time and are universally acknowledged correct in principle and service.
